COOLIDGE BELIEVES STATE SHOULD GUARD HOLDERS OF STOCK

Grantor of Charter, He Holds, Can Require Full Report From Corporations.

IN SYMPATHY WITH RIPLEY

President Recognizes Rights of Investors, but Is in Doubt as to Federal Authority.

STUDIES COMMISSION ACT

May Make Recommendations to Congress, Coupling Case With Anti-Trust Proposals.

Special to The New York Times.

PAUL SMITH'S, N. Y., Aug. 27.—President Coolidge is in full sympathy with Professor William Z. Ripley's idea of compelling corporations to give more adequate information to their stockholders, as set forth in the economist's article in the current issue of The Atlantic Monthly.

The President recognizes the rights of stockholders to full protection, but he is not certain whether the Federal Government has the power through the Federal Trade Commission act to compel corporations to submit detailed financial reports. He is anxious to do what he can to safeguard the interests of stockholders, and is studying the Federal law to determine the Government's power to act, as suggested by Professor Ripley.

In his discussion of the subject, based on excerpts from Professor Ripley's article, "Stop, Look and Listen," the President showed that he had been thinking along the same line in connection with his consideration of the proposal to amend the anti-trust laws to cover new forms of monopolies.

The President feels that the investing public has every right to demand from the corporation comprehensive information as to its operations, and he wishes to do all in his power to safeguard the interest of the investor and strengthen the position of corporations that have such purposes. He indicated that he had been studying this phase of the subject, inspired by Professor Ripley's previous utterance on non-voting stock issues.

Problem for the States.

Broadly speaking, the President regards it as in the jurisdiction of the States to require corporations to make more adequate reports, since the corporations are chartered by the States and not by the Federal Government.

Mr. Coolidge is not convinced that the Federal Trade Commission has the power to control reports of corporations doing interstate commerce, even though they have control of the products in interstate commerce. He would like to study the suggestions that the commission can exercise power over interstate commerce corporations and make them furnish reports as to their business. Until he has studied the legal side of this question he does not desire to commit himself as to the power of the commission.

Mr. Coolidge indicated that he had been considering this phase of American corporations a long time and that he desired to safeguard the interests of the 20,000,000 or more stockholders in American business concerns in every way that was legally possible. He began his study of corporations and anti-trust legislation in a serious way as a result of Professor Ripley's article on non-voting stock and then held several conferences with Professor Ripley at the White House.

It was largely because of the position taken by Professor Ripley, it was pointed out in behalf of the President, that public sentiment was so aroused as to prompt the Listing Committee of the New York Stock Exchange to look very carefully into the affairs of companies seeking to be listed on the Exchange when their charters provided for stock of non-voting power.

In the opinion of the President it is difficult to determine what is a good or a bad stock. Publicity as to the financial strength of corporations, he thinks, has usually been left to the jurisdiction of the States, many of which have blue-sky laws which assure the public adequate information.

Field of Interstate Commerce.

From what he has read of Professor Ripley's article, the President concluded that he is contending for accurate and full information on corporations doing interstate commerce. He feels that such information should be available, but until he has consulted the law creating the Federal Trade Commission and learned of the action of the United States Supreme Court on this point, he prefers to content himself with saying that he is in sympathy with the necessity of more adequate reports, but uncertain as to the power of the Federal Government to require them, since the corporations do not get their privileges from the Federal Government.

Offhand, the President holds that any remedial action to obtain the result proposed by Professor Ripley is not national but a State concern, since the corporations get their life from State laws. He finds that there is a difference in the relations of the railroads and the Federal Government. As they are engaged in interstate commerce and governed by a specific act. He feels that in respect to the ordinary corporations the Federal Government does not have jurisdiction over their operations respecting their financial operations.

Conclusion Deferred.

His discussion, however, developed the fact that he would not reach a

CHICAGO, Aug. 27 (AP).—By his own wish there were neither "fuss nor flowers" nor congratulatory callers to mark the sixty-first birthday today of Vice President Charles G. Dawes.

The Vice President observed the anniversary by going over the manuscript for an address he will make Sept. 15 before the Radio Manufacturers of America at New York.

"No interviews," declared Mr. Dawes. "I don't give interviews any time and birthdays are no exception."

But he admitted feeling as well as he looked, having returned from a vacation in Colorado last week. He has been playing golf several times a week with the Dawes children.

PROSECUTORS ASK STIFFER CRIME LAWS

WOULD SPEED PROCEDURE

Consider Ten to Two Verdicts for Conviction — Also Juries of Thirteen.

Special to The New York Times.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Aug. 27.—Radical changes in the criminal law and criminal procedure were proposed here today at the first session of a three-day conference of District Attorneys of the State.

Among the propositions approved and on which bills are almost certain to be introduced are the following:

The abolition of the forty-eight hour interval between the conviction of a criminal and the passing of sentence.

The placing of the preparation of the record of criminal cases on appeal directly in the hands of the District Attorneys.

Drastic regulation of the issuance of pistol permits closely following the lines of the Esmond bill, which failed at the last session of the Legislature.

Amendment of the law to prevent the entering of a plea of insanity at the very close of a criminal trial without notice.

A provision that the thief shall not be regarded as an accomplice in the prosecution of a receiver of stolen goods.

Talk of Jury of 13.

Among the outstanding suggestions talked of but not acted on directly were the proposal, hitherto advanced in New York City by the District Attorney, that a ten to two verdict shall be sufficient to convict; the placing of a thirteenth member on a jury to prevent a mistrial and consequent delay; the suspension of probation in the case of second and third offenders and the denial of bail to persistent offenders.

The prosecutors were greatly heartened by the success of their efforts last year when they cooperated in the presentation of thirty-four crime curb measures to the Legislature, thirty of which were enacted. They announced themselves as determined to expedite the trials of criminals. The statement was made that New York State was behind other States and New York City behind other cities in getting results from criminal prosecutions. It was also the unanimous opinion of the District Attorneys that the greatest factor in the law's delay at present lies in the preparation of the record on appeal and it was upon this issue that the most decisive action was taken.

Prominent Prosecutors Present.

District Attorney William F. Love of Monroe County, President of the New York Association of State and Federal District Attorneys, presided. There were present some of the best known prosecutors in the State, including District Attorney Dodd of Kings. Joab H. Banton of New York was unable to be present, because of the illness of his wife, but District Attorney McGeehan of the Bronx was represented, as were the counties of Westchester and Nassau.

Others in attendance were Richard

Brooklyn Youth, Driver for a Gang in $250,000 Thefts Here, Admits Part in Slaying.

DARING OPERATIONS BARED

Prisoner Also Admits One Other Murder and Aiding Eight Hold-Ups —Bullet Wound Trapped Him.

With the arrest of a suspect in Albany at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon the police revealed that they were closing in on a robber gang that on the forenoon of July 22 last shot and killed Aaron B. Rodack, "the fighting jeweler," in his establishment at 3,630 Broadway, after Rodack had frustrated a third hold-up in his place and driven off five gunmen with his pistol.

Benjamin Mintz, 21 years old, of 481 Alabama Avenue, Brooklyn, was arrested last Monday as a suspect in the Rodack murder, and it was through a confession he was alleged to have made to Commissioner McLaughlin and Inspector Coughlin, head of the Detective Division, that the second suspect, Hyman Amberg, was taken into custody in Albany by Detectives James Pyke and William Jackson of Inspector Coughlin's staff, aided by Pinkerton operatives.

Says Suspect Denied Identity.

Detective Pyke told the Inspector that Amberg, when taken into custody at the Union Station while alighting from a train from this city, denied his identity and insisted that his name was Harry Straus. Detective Metz of the Albany police and the Pinkerton operatives accompanied Pyke and the prisoner to Albany Police Headquarters, where the suspect's fingerprints were compared with records of the State Prison Department there.

The prisoner would not answer questions, and at 9 o'clock last night was started by the detectives on an automobile trip for this city. A report was received from Albany soon after the suspect's departure that Pinkerton operatives and other detectives were seeking suspects in the Rodack killing there.

Mintz, his wife and their six-months-old child boarded with friends at the Alabama Avenue address. The police, after an investigation last night, said Amberg had asserted in Albany that he lived in Sutter Avenue, but that the statement was untrue. They said he lived with his aged mother and two sisters in Rockaway Parkway, Brooklyn.

Mintz, who, like Amberg, has a police record, not only was reported to have confessed that he was the driver of the stolen automobile in which the gunmen fled after the killing of Rodack, but that he had driven stolen cars for the gang in eight other daring robberies in different parts of the city in the last ten months, in which the gunmen obtained about $250,000 in money and jewelry.

Say He Admits Killing Gunman.

This prisoner also was alleged to have admitted that on the night of May 28 last he shot and killed William Dorsch, another gunman, at East Houston and Columbia Streets because of a slighting remark Dorsch made about Mintz's wife. A bullet wound which resulted in Mintz's capture, the prisoner also was alleged to have confessed, was received at 2 o'clock on the morning of Aug. 9 last when Jack Silverman, a chauffeur, was shot and killed in his car in front of a gambling house at 293 Sutter Avenue, near Amberg's home.

Mintz, according to Inspector Coughlin, said Silverman was shot when members of the robber gang were engaged in the hold-up of a dice game at the above address. The killing was done by a gunman employed by the gambling house owners, who also shot Mintz as the latter was running out of the place following the reports of the shots fired at Silverman. The gambling house guard, Mintz said, had slipped out of the place on the appearance of the hold-up men, and opened fire from the sidewalk.

Inspector Coughlin said he considered the arrest of Mintz and Amberg the most important since the round-up of the Richard Reese Whittemore gang of robbers last Winter. He added that information that had been received from Mintz revealed the gang to have

Nicaragua Protests to League on Mexico, First American Problem Up for Action

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

GENEVA, Aug. 27.—Mexico was denounced today to members of the League of Nations by the Nicaraguan Minister of Foreign Affairs, who charged an attempt with the aid of arms, munitions and troops of her regular army to overthrow the Nicaraguan Government. The cablegram, received this afternoon by the Secretary General, Sir Eric Drummond, and immediately transmitted to all States which are members of the League, says in part:

"On the 17th instant the Mexican auxiliary warship Concon set sail from Salina Cruz on a freebooting expedition against the peace of Nicaragua. It was equipped, armed and manned, including military forces actually in service, by the Mexican Government for the purpose of assisting Nicaraguan revolutionaries who have so far failed, however, in attempts to overthrow the public order."

The cablegram is purely imformative and denunciatory and requests no action by the League.

Unusual interest attaches to Nicaragua's protest inasmuch as it is the first Latin American controversy to come before the League, and the course the League will follow in a dispute on the American Continent is eagerly awaited.

"These illegal acts which constitute a flagrant violation of Nicaragua's sacred rights of sovereignty and mutual respect due from one nation to another are particularly unjustifiable," the message continues, "since Mexico has always claimed its conduct was based on these principles, also since no outstanding dispute exists between the two countries, nor has the Nicaraguan Government done Mexico any injury.

"In the profound conviction that such acts will wholly destroy the power of nations to maintain and strengthen mutual bonds of brotherhood, I have sent a strong protest to the Mexican Government."

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 27.—Reports that a Mexican schooner has been engaged in running arms into Nicaragua led a Mexico City newspaper to deny that the vessel is of Mexican registry.

The organizers of the expedition said the ship was Mexican and that a number of the crew and the soldiers of fortune aboard were also Mexican, but they argued that as Mexico and Nicaragua had no relations a Mexican ship might run guns as its owners pleased.

It is said that the vessel, El Tropical, was bought for 25,000 pesos.

The leader of the revolutionists, who is now in Mexico City, states that it makes no difference whether El Tropical has touched Mexican ports or not, as ships have sailed from the United States carrying arms for revolutions. Whether the pilots are Mexican or Central American is no one's business, he says, as Americans are fighting on the side of General Chamorro.

MEXICO CITY, Aug 27 (AP).—Antonio Mediz Bolio, Mexican Minister to Costa Rica and Nicaragua, who arrived here today from Central America, denied that the gun runner El Tropical is a Mexican boat.

WOOD INVESTIGATES ROW IN ZAMBOANGA

'MUCH BLOODSHED' AVOIDED

Manila Senate Will Also Inquire Into Incident, Seeking the 'Elements' of Discord.

By RUSSELL B. PORTER.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ON BOARD STEAMSHIP MINDORO, Aug. 27.—When Governor General Wood, aboard the Government yacht Apo, received radio reports of the trouble between the Moros and the Filipinos before the landing in Zamboanga on Wednesday of Carmi A. Thompson, President Coolidge's personal representative in the Philippines, he turned back and reached Zamboanga this morning, and at once held a hearing of the opposing leaders.

Then he announced that in his opinion a serious conflict and much bloodshed was narrowly avoided.

General Wood complimented the American army officers who restrained the Moros, commended the Moros for keeping their agreement and reprimanded the Filipinos for their violation of the agreement, which was that the Moros and Filipinos would remain in separate groups to await Thompson's landing from the Mindoro, and that neither side would go ahead of the other. The Moros remained in their places, but the Filipinos broke through and followed the band down to the dock.

He declared that the incident proved the continued existence of the ancient Moro-Filipino hostilities and hurt the Filipino aspirations.

Says Agreement Was Definite.

Wood then added in his statement of the case:

"A very definite agreement was made after a long conference between myself, the Moros and Filipino leaders on Tuesday. Knowing the danger of a conflict, plans were carefully made to keep the two groups separate, each in its own place, to avoid contact. It was especially agreed that neither group would go to the wharf, to avoid just what happened. The Moros kept the agreement. The Filipinos did not.

"That a serious conflict was avoided was due to the presence of Major Fletcher, commander of the Scouts, and Colonel Evans of the Constabulary, who handled the situation with extreme care and judgment.

"I understand that Governor Asenro attempted to prevent trouble and that the Moro leaders were especially active in holding their men in check, but the Christian Filipinos apparently were not in as good a state of discipline as the Moros were."

Had Hoped for Quiet Meeting.

"While it may not be important to some," the Governor continued, "I think it was a close call. It might have resulted in a disastrous and bloody fight.

"I wanted Colonel Thompson to see that the Moros and Christian Filipinos could get together without conflict, but this break has unfortunately demonstrated for him the age-old hostility that still exists.

"No people—a country, a family or an individual—can gain results unless they live up to their agreements. The performance yesterday will always throw doubt on the Zamboanga group that did not keep its promise.

"Only those who know this country can realize how dangerous the situation was. It might have resulted fatally to a lot of people, because you do not know [looking at Thompson] what lies behind their smiling countenances.

"Nothing in the world prevented trouble except the good judgment of Fletcher and Evans, assisted by members of the American community and the order-loving Filipinos.

"These islands are owned by the United States Government. All the people in them are equally interesting to the people in the States, who are interested in seeing the Christian Filipinos, the Moros and the pagan tribes live together in an orderly way.

"Colonel Thompson saw in the demonstration just what has been charged—that they can't be thrown together without causing trouble. The conduct of the Filipinos was not creditable to them, was unworthy of the majority

Cristman Forces Will Back the Justice if He Gets State Enforcement Plank.

READY IF HE IS DROPPED

Prepare to Put an Independent in Governorship Race if They Dislike Party Choice.

Supreme Court Justice James C. Cropsey of Brooklyn, if nominated by the Republicans on a platform which in its pronouncement on prohibition calls for a State enforcement act, as demanded by the Judge in his talk with Republican State Chairman George K. Morris, would have the support of the dry forces, which are opposed to United States Senator James W. Wadsworth Jr., in the opinion of the Rev. Dr. Samuel E. Nicholson, manager for the anti-Wadsworth campaign.

The question of whether the drys who are supporting Franklin W. Cristman, "independent Republican" candidate against Senator Wadsworth, should name an independent dry candidate for Governor as well came in for some discussion at a meeting of the Executive Committee of the affiliated dry organizations held a week ago. Action was deferred at that time in view of the possibility that the Republicans might select Justice Cropsey as their standard bearer. The next meeting of the Executive Committee will be held Sept. 16.

In the meantime, however, the Cristman supporters are taking time by the forelock and actively preparing for the possibility that the Cropsey boom may come to naught and that the Republicans may concentrate on a candidate for Governor less desirable from the dry viewpoint. It was learned yesterday that nominating petitions have been prepared in readiness to be sent out within the next few days to obtain a place on the general ballot for one out of a field of three or four potential dry candidates who are under consideration by the managers of Mr. Cristman's campaign.

Silent on Possible Candidates.

Mr. Nicholson declined yesterday to disclose the identity of the candidates who are being considered. He denied a report which has been current in political circles that nominating petitions for a dry Gubernatorial candidate already were being circulated by the Cristman Campaign Committee. Of his attitude toward Justice Cropsey as a possible candidate on the Republican ticket Mr. Nicholson said:

"For the last month I have been engaged in making a careful study of Justice Cropsey's qualifications and his attitude toward law enforcement. As a result of this, coupled with his present stand in favor of a State enforcement act, I can say, speaking for myself, that it would be difficult to conceive what useful purpose could be served were the backers of Senator Cristman's campaign to put another candidate for Governor in the field if the Judge is nominated by the Republican Party."

Mr. Nicholson said that until very recently he had not regarded it as likely that the Republicans would endorse a candidate of Justice Cropsey's type, in view of the utter impossibility of reconciling his stand on prohibition with the extreme stand taken by Senator Wadsworth on that question. Of late, however, he has become more and more convinced that they might make this concession to the dry sentiment within their own party up-State, the strength of which has been revealed very largely through the Cristman campaign.

Says Cropsey Boom Is Strong.

"I am inclined to feel that the movement for Justice Cropsey among the up-State Republicans has taken on too great a momentum to enable the Republican leaders to drop the Judge without material injury to their prospects on election day," Mr. Nicholson said. "The elimination of Justice Cropsey now would indicate that Senator Wadsworth and a handful of leaders who are willing to bow to him were determined to turn their backs on the law enforcement element and have their party enter the coming campaign in what plainly would be a futile competition with Tammany for

FALL CAUSED BY SIDESLIP

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 27 (AP).—Commander John Rodgers, hero of the San Francisco-Hawaiian flight, the brave and resourceful Navy flier who warded off death on the broad Pacific Ocean, was killed as the result of a drop in a land plane into shallow water of the Delaware River this afternoon. He was so critically injured that death overtook him in the Naval Hospital in two hours. He died at 5 o'clock.

Samuel Schultz of Philadelphia, his mechanician, with a broken back, lies near death in the hospital of the Philadelphia Navy Yard, near which the accident occurred.

Eye witnesses differ on the distance the Commander fell, but most of them agree it was between 30 and 150 feet as he was gliding to make a landing.

A naval board of inquiry was immediately called and it was announced that no public statement would be made until a report was presented to the Secretary of the Navy and Rear Admiral W. A. Moffett, Chief of the Bureau of Aeronautics.

The cause of death, so far as Navy surgeons could determine tonight, was hemorrhages due to broken ribs puncturing vital organs. Many of the ribs on one side were crushed in. One of his legs was broken in two places and cut open.

Told Bits of Story as Life Ebbed.

The famous flier suffered great pain and was unconscious at intervals, but he was able in true navy fashion to give fragments of information to naval officers as his life ebbed away.

Commander Rodgers, in coming out of an unconscious period, asked for his mother, and word was immediately sent to her home at Havre de Grace, Md.

When the accident occurred, Commander Rodgers was just ending a flight from Anacostia Field, Washington, D. C., to inspect at the aircraft factory in the navy yard some new planes of the type used on the historic Pacific flight.

Recently it was announced that he would fly across the continent with a picked squadron of navy air men, and that they would engage in practice flights in California preparatory to making another attempt to fly to the Hawaiian Islands.

A few officers and men watched the arrival and saw the plane go into a slow glide. It was over the river and pointed toward the field. Suddenly it was noticed that something was wrong and before any one could realize it the plane shot downward into about three and a half feet of water and about 100 feet from shore.

According to the naval officers, Commander Rodgers had circled the field and had gone out on the river again before he attempted a landing. As he came up the river the second time his plane side-slipped when it was too near the water for the Commander to recover his equilibrium.

Admiral Magruder, commandant of the Navy Yard, was informed that the plane fell about 150 feet and that had it landed on the ground the occupants of the machine would no doubt have been killed instantly.

Desperate Fifty-Minute Rescue Battle.

Commander Rodgers and Schultz, strapped to their seats, were unable to do anything to save themselves. When it settled in the river the cockpit of the plane was just above water.

The shock of the fall broke the propeller. Water welled into the pit, but fortunately Commander Rodgers and his companion were sitting high enough to keep their heads above the surface

SIMPSON WOULD DROP HALL CASE DETECTIVE

MOORE PROMISES TO ACT

No Leniency for Mrs. Hall, Says Prosecutor — Four Fingerprints on Rector's Card.

Assistant Attorney General Alexander Simpson moved yesterday to effect the discharge of one of the original Hall-Mills detectives on the allegation that the investigator was obstructing justice. At the same time, the special prosecutor denied that he planned to be lenient to Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall.

The widow of the Rev. Dr. Edward W. Hall, who, with Mrs. Eleanor R. Mills, was shot to death four years ago, will face the same charge as "Willie" Stevens, her brother, and Henry de la Bruyere Carpender, her cousin. Their application for bail was denied on Thursday by Supreme Court Justice Charles W. Parker at Somerville, N. J. Mrs. Hall is out on $15,000 bail, also charged with the slaying.

Links the Three Accused.

Mr. Simpson went to Somerville yesterday to file the formal ruling against Stevens and Carpender. While there he made this statement:

"Misapprehension as to what I meant when, in the argument on the bail of Stevens and Carpender, I said that I did not believe that Mrs. Hall went to the trysting place with murderous intent, is apparent.

"The law in this State is that no appreciable element of time need exist between the formation of a design to kill and its execution. There is the further fact to be considered that in our law all who participate criminally in a murderous transaction are principals, and if the murder be of first degree are principals in the first degree.

"The same evidence submitted yesterday to the Court of Oyer and Terminer of Somerset will be submitted from the lips of sworn witnesses and more will be submitted to the Grand Jury, and it will be against all defendants."

The Senator then attacked Ferd A. David, Middlesex County detective. David has been unable to remember the identity of a man who claimed a gold brooch found at the scene of the crime. The brooch had a cross design on it. It was found on the day after the murders by Edward Pierce of Piscatawaytown, a suburb of New Brunswick.

Says David Revealed Nothing.

"Detective David, in my observation, has been steadily obstructing the investigation of the Hall-Mills murder," Senator Simpson said. "On the stand, under oath, before Judge Frank L. Cleary in the preliminary hearing, he told us nothing whatever about the gold brooch, which he let pass out of his hands and now does not know where it is, nor to whom he gave it.

"This was his behavior, although he was under oath to tell all he knew. Later he was questioned again under oath, by myself and my assistants, and when he was asked directly about the brooch he told a cock-and-bull story of no value to the investigation.

"I am about to write to Governor

SHE IS HAPPY AND EXCITED

THOUSANDS PACK STREETS

Showers of Confetti, Flowers and Gifts, and $900,000 in Offers From Stage, Films and Pools.

New York City yesterday welcomed Gertrude Ederle home from her victory over the English Channel with a demonstration that for numbers, noise, spontaneity and variety surpassed any previous reception to a distinguished person. No President or king, soldier or statesman has ever enjoyed such an enthusiastic and affectionate current of acclaim by the metropolis as was offered to the butcher's daughter of Amsterdam Avenue, hailed as the "Queen of Swimmers."

Messages of greeting and congratulation came to her from President Coolidge and Governor Smith, giving the welcome a national and State-wide scope.

On land and on water, from the air, and above all else from the heart, the city showered its felicitations upon Trudy Ederle. Harbor craft, with bands playing, flags fluttering and sirens and whistles shrieking, met Miss Ederle when she arrived aboard the Cunarder Berengaria at Quarantine. The city's welcome boat, the Macom, took her off the liner, and steamed to the Battery. The water front symphony of whistles, sirens, fog horns and bells was thunderous.

Crowds Break Police Lines.

From the Battery, the swimmer's progress to the City Hall was a triumphal procession in a renewal of that confetti and ticker tape snowstorm which fell first on Theodore Roosevelt in 1910, and later on such heroes as Marshal Foch and Captain Fried and Lieut. Commander Byrd. Tens of thousands hailed Miss Ederle from the sidewalks, windows and tops of high buildings. At intervals the crowds in the streets broke through the police lines at the curb, and rolled across the street like the Channel surf, to delay but not stop her progress.

After her reception at City Hall, Miss Ederle received a continuous ovation all the way up Lafayette Street, Ninth Street, Fifth Avenue and Fifty-seventh Street to her home at Amsterdam Avenue and Sixty-third Street. Sidewalks and streets were packed. The windows were peopled by cheering, clapping, whistling and stamping thousands, who continued the shower of Manhattan's laurels, confetti and ticker tape.

A detachment of twenty motorcycle policemen led the parade from the Battery. At intervals, where spectators encroached upon the street, they charged the crowds and drove them back to the sidewalks. Following the motorcycle police were ten mounted policemen. Then came the automobile in which Miss Ederle rode with Grover A. Whalen and Dudley Field Malone. Following the automobile marched twelve patrolmen. They were followed by a long line of automobiles carrying members of the Mayor's committee.

10,000 at City Hall.

When the Channel swimmer and the Mayor's committee arrived at City Hall there were more than ten thousand persons waiting in City Hall Park to see and cheer Miss Ederle. As she entered the hall the crowd stormed the doors, but the doors were locked. Many of the Mayor's committee and the press were barred until order was restored.

Following her welcome Miss Ederle and Mayor Walker started to the front steps of the hall to pose for photographers. The crowd launched another tidal wave that upset the photographic battery and engulfed the returning champion and the Mayor.

Patrolman John J. O'Donovan, who had sensed what was coming, picked the swimmer up bodily and carried her back into City Hall. Mayor Walker was rushed inside by two police aids with the technique of football interference, one on each side of him, until he reached a zone of safety. The Mayor escorted Miss Ederle, her mother and other members of her party to his office and Chief Police Inspector August Kuehne sent in a hurry call for an additional 100 police reserves to reinforce the 130 men already on duty at City Hall. Six persons caught in the stampede were injured.

Offers Approach $1,000,000.

Miss Ederle was overwhelmed not only by the magnitude of the city's welcome but by the number of offers of engagements for stage, movie, pool and other appearances. The offers up to late last night were nearly $1,000,000 and most of them are bona fide propositions, according to Miss Ederle's attorney, Dudley Field Malone, who was in charge of arrangements for her reception. Mr. Malone received and made public the message of congratulations from President Coolidge. The telegram follows:

Paul Smith's, N. Y.,
Aug. 27, 1926.

Dudley Field Malone,
New York City:

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—President Coolidge has approved a new tipping schedule for use by Government employes in which the daily total must not exceed 60 cents.

Effective Oct. 1, Government officials who travel must observe the requirements just promulgated.

For bellboys and maids at hotels the tips must not be more than 30 cents a day.

Fifteen cents a parcel is the limit of tips for baggage porters at hotels, stations or residences.

Twenty-five cents will be allowed for porters at landings and wharves.

For porters on chair and parlor cars the limit is 25 cents, and the same is allowed daily for stewards on steamers.

If there is no bath with the room rented by the traveling agent he must not pay more than 50 cents a day for a bath.

Laundry must be within a limit of $1.40 a week.

These and a great many other details regulating traveling expenses are laid down in the rules which the Administration believes will result in economy and more efficiency.

Under the new regulations the travel subsistence allowance is $6 a day, an increase from $4 allowed heretofore; while "actual subsistance expenses" are $7 a day instead of $5 a day.

A new feature is to be that of advancing money for travel instead of requiring employes to produce it from their own pockets. The privilege of obtaining Federal funds prior to departure, rather than reimbursement afterward, is provided under plans developed by the Treasury. Travelers will file a bond to indemnify the United States from any loss. This bond may be from a surety company or signed by two individuals who have the official approval of certain specified officials of the Government.

Rain and Hailstorm Hit North Half of City With the Sun Shining at Times Square

The northern half of New York City enjoyed a private performance of the elements yesterday afternoon, with thunder, hail and a tremendous rain coming in such spectacular sequence that residents of the neighborhoods who watched it from their windows said it was like viewing a storm scene in a theatre.

The lower half and Times Square section of the city knew nothing of it and went about under a clear sky. Even the Weather Bureau in the Whitehall Building was in entire ignorance of the meteorological pranks going on uptown. Officials said last night, however, that conditions yesterday, with patches of clouds, were suitable to such narrowly localized storms. A shower, they said, was caused by warm air meeting a cold current as it rose, and, when hail accompanied it it meant the change of temperature in the upper atmosphere had been very swift.

Dwellers on Morningside Heights were astonished at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon to hear heavy peals of thunder. The sun was shining brightly and some supposed it was a salute being fired for Gertrude Ederle. Then, while the sun still shone it began to rain in great drops, which shimmered in the bright light as they streamed down. A minute or so of that and a barrage of hail came, with hailstones as large as grapes.

As the hail rattled into the streets the sky grew darker and of a sudden, as if a stage director were bringing it all to pass in response to his cues, a high wind came from the north and the rain began again and poured. Torrents rushed down the streets and lakes formed in courtyards. Suddenly it stopped and in a little while the sun was shining as brightly as ever.

The southern boundary of the storm, as nearly as could be determined, was in the neighborhood of Eighty-sixth Street. Homeward-bound office workers, who had entered the subway in the midtown and downtown districts, were astonished when they emerged in a downpour. The shower apparently extended north to the city limits. There were reports of similar phenomena at Mount Vernon. The only storm report the Weather Bureau had was of rain in Flushing, L. I.

BREWERY FILES SUIT TO FORCE A PERMIT

COURT ORDER IS SOUGHT

Armed with a search warrant signed by United States Commissioner Francis A. O'Neill, Federal agents under direction of Major Chester P. Mills entered the David Mayer Brewing Company's plant at 3,560 Third Avenue, the Bronx, yesterday afternoon to check up on the amount of beer in the vats.

At almost the same hour Sanford H. Cohen of 217 Broadway, attorney for the brewers, filed suit in the United States District Court for an order to compel Major Mills and David H. Blair, Commissioner of Internal Revenue, to issue a temporary permit so that 122,636 gallons of beer now in the vats could be dealcoholized.

The complaint in the suit says that up to Jan. 31, 1926, the brewing company was holder of a dealcoholizing permit which allowed it to develop by the usual method beer, ale or porter containing more than one-half of 1 per cent. alcohol, and permitted the dealcoholization of such beer so that its alcoholic content would be reduced to less than one-half of 1 per cent.

According to the complaint, the company's license was revoked when there were in the vats 122,636 gallons of beer; that last March a review of the case was granted, and that three attorneys in the office of the Federal Prohibition Administrator heard the case and recommended that the order revoking the permit be itself revoked and a rehearing granted. On Nov. 2 last, the complaint continues, United States Attorney Buckner sought a padlocking injunction against the brewery, but Federal Judge William Bondy dismissed the complaint, and on March 17 the Prohibition Administrator was asked to issue a temporary permit to dealcoholize the beer then in the vats, a bond for $30,700 having been filed as a guarantee that the terms of the permit would be complied with.

On July 6, the complaint says, the plaintiff was advised by Major Mills that revocation proceedings pending in his office had been withdrawn, and that although the company had filed application for a temporary permit, it was told that application would have to be made by Aug. 20 or that the Administrator would apply to the Federal courts for an order to destroy the beer.

It also is alleged that Major Mills returned the application for a permit, together with the bond, and denied an appeal on the ground that the plaintiff had on hand in July quantities of beer in excess of the amount reported on hand Jan. 1. The company says its business is at a standstill, that 122,636 gallons of beer, valued at $35,000, is a total loss and subject to forfeiture without due process of law.

Major Mills said that the brewery has been raided twice. On one occasion, he said, agents followed trucks of the brewery to a garage and seized quantities of beer which the trucks were unloading there. He said he asked for a padlock at the time, but the evidence was not sufficient to show that the beer had been made in the brewery. When the permit expired last January, however, he said, he refused to renew it, and added that since then two check-ups had been made which showed an excess amount of beer on hand.

Major Mills said he obtained the warrant yesterday to make another check-up, and that if he finds the amount of beer on hand in excess of what it should be he probably would start padlock proceedings.

KILLED BY PRACTICAL JOKE.

Youth Mortally Injured When Blower Is Turned on Him.

Special to The New York Times.

BUTLER, N. J., Aug. 27.—As a result of a practical joke, Frank Vanderhoff, 20 years old, of Bloomingdale is dead and Andrew Belle of the same age is in the county jail in Morristown, charged with manslaughter.

Both young men were employed in the Pequanock Rubber Mills here. It was their habit to use a pneumatic blower to dust their clothing each morning when they quit work. This morning when they were dressing Belle turned the blower upon his companion. The latter was so injured that he died at 11 o'clock in St. Joseph's Hospital.

Young Vanderhoff was a son of Walter Vanderhoff and came of an old New Jersey family. He was engaged to marry a young woman of Pompton Lakes.

SEEK BABY GAR II VICTIM.

LAKE HOPATCONG, N. J. Aug. 27 (AP).—Lake Hopatcong was dragged today for the body of Edwin Gorman, 24 years old, of 176 Elm Street, Kearny. Gorman was hurled through the windshield of the speed boat Baby Gar II, when the boat submerged last night as it was racing at a speed of forty miles an hour with two other boats.

The driver of the boat, John Dunn, brother-in-law of Gorman, held to the wheel and came to the surface with the boat after it dove twice.

The Baby Gar was towed to shore by other boatmen. It is believed that bilge water forced the nose of the boat under water.

Marine Wins Death Race, Using Plane, Ship and Trains

CAMDEN, N. J., Aug. 27.—Corporal Robert Marquard of the Marine Corps won a race with death today when he arrived at his mother's bedside here. Marquard used a seaplane, an army transport ship and two express trains to get here from Colon, in the Panama Canal Zone.

The mother, Mrs. Gustine Marquard, 72 years old, may die within twenty-four hours, her doctors said today. Three days ago Corporal Marquard received a radiogram notifying him of his mother's condition. He obtained a furlough and boarded a seaplane, which landed him on an army transport. At Key West he took an express train and arrived here this afternoon.

POLAND DENIES MOVE TO FIGHT DR. BUTLER

Says Anti-Saloon League Authorized No One to Work Against Him on Religious or Other Basis.

The New York Anti-Saloon League, through Orville S. Poland, its general counsel, yesterday disclaimed any responsibility for propaganda conducted against the nomination of Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler for Governor by the Republicans on the ground "that he is a Roman Catholic." Mr. Poland told a reporter for THE TIMES that the league had not authorized any one to work against Dr. Butler on this or any other ground.

Dr. Butler, who is connected with the Protestant Episcopal Church, several days ago told the Republican leaders that he would not under any circumstances become the Republican candidate for Governor. He is a pronounced wet politically and the wet wing of the Republican organization had strongly urged his nomination on the ticket that will bear the name of Senator James W. Wadsworth Jr. as a candidate for re-election to the United States Senate.

The disclaimer from Mr. Poland was provoked by inquiries growing out of correspondence between Dr. Butler and Mrs. George Preston Hotaling of 350 West Eighty-eighth Street, which was published yesterday. Mrs. Hotaling wrote that she had been approached by a dry worker in the Republican organization of the Nineteenth Congressional District and urged to oppose the nomination of Dr. Butler on the ground that he was a Roman Catholic. Dr. Butler in his reply disclaimed being a Catholic, characterized the propaganda regarding which Mrs. Hotaling had written him as "new evidence of the underhanded, untruthful and immoral activities of the Anti-Saloon League" and called attention to Section 3 Article IV of the United States Constitution which provides that no officer of the United States or of the several States shall be subjected to any religious test as a qualification for holding office.

"Dr. Butler has made this charge against the league without any attempt to verify the statement contained in the letter," Mr. Poland said.

George Preston Hotaling, who has a law office at 59 Wall Street, said there yesterday that his wife's communication to Dr. Butler told the truth, that it spoke for itself and that there was no further comment to make.

FONCK TALKS OVER RADIO.

Says He Is Glad American Will Go With Him on Paris Flight.

Captain Rene Fonck and Lieutenant Allan P. Snody, who will shortly attempt a non-stop transatlantic flight in the S-5, a three-engine airplane constructed by Igor Sikorsky, spoke over the radio from Station WRNY, at the Hotel Roosevelt, last night. Lieutenant Snody outlined the course which will be followed.

He said that the airplane in a test yesterday with a load of 16,000 pounds took off in twelve seconds after a run of 675 feet. It climbed the first 500 feet in 25 seconds; 1,000 feet in 1 minute 5 seconds, and 2,000 feet in 2 minutes 45 seconds. The performance, he said, was more than 25 per cent. better than either the designer of the plane or the pilots had anticipated.

Captain Fonck spoke in French and his message was translated to the radio audience. He said that he felt confident the flight would be accomplished, and was glad that an American officer was accompanying him. Colonel Harold E. Hartney, Vice President of the group of men backing the flight, also spoke. Messages were read from President Coolidge, Governor Smith and Mayor Walker.

PARIS, Aug. 27.—The French airman M. Tarascon renewed today his promise to the Aero Club of France to compete for the $25,000 Osteig prize for a New York to Paris non-stop flight. He is now supervising the completion of a special monoplane with semi-thick wings, a Berlin cabin and a 420 horsepower motor. He will be accompanied by Major Coli as navigator, and M. Boyriven as exchange pilot. M. Tarascon is expected to start in October.

PEKING, Aug. 27.—The Kuominchun troops seem to have withdrawn so far westward, some even into Kansu Province, that the allied Generals consider them to be satisfactorily disposed of and much time is now being spent in mutual congratulations.

Yen Shi-shan reports that his troops have captured Tingtichuan, and suggests that there is no further need of Fengtien or Shantung forces in that region.

The Kuominchun headquarters are stated to be at Paotaochen, the terminus of the railway from Peking to Kalgan, and west of Kalgan.

As it is believed that they are incapable of returning, the pursuing Fengtien forces will be withdrawn to Kalgan, leaving General Yen Shih-shan to garrison the line.

There is no sign of Marshal Chang Tso-lin preparing to help Marshal Wu Pei-fu on the Yangtze, but there is much evidence that considerable effort is being spent by Chang to secure complete control here.

Wu Hopes to Stop Cantonese.

SHANGHAI, Aug. 27.—The capture of Yochow, in Central China, by the Cantonese Army is now confirmed beyond a doubt. All Chihese military communiqués being so thoroughly untrustworthy, great skepticism had hitherto prevailed on this point.

The Cantonese troops have also occupied Tungcheng, in Southern Hupeh Province.

Large reinforcements are being rushed from the North, estimated between 100,000 and 150,000, and great hopes are pinned on the personality of Wu Pei-fu, who is reported to have secured a loan from the bankers of Wuchang for $3,500,000.

The troops of Marshal Sun Chuan-fang, the Shanghai area war lord, are participating in the work of checking the Cantonese advance beyond Yochow, thus clearing up the question of Sun's allegiance in the present struggle.

Threatens to Attack Changsha.

HANKOW, Aug. 27 (AP).—Advance of the Southern or Cantonese Army northward into the central provinces controlled by Marshal Wu Pei-fu, or Generals associated with him, is said to have been checked by the threat of an allied attack on Changsha from Nanchang.

Changsha only a few weeks ago was occupied by the Southern forces, who have since been following up their advantage and continuing northward. They were reported to have taken Yochow and to be progressing toward Wuchang.

A successful movement against Changsha by Marshal Wu's adherents would endanger the rear of the Cantonese, who style themselves nationalists.

The allied armies in this sector are said to be directed by Wu personally, although no definite information that he is actually at the front has been received. He is said to be putting 100,000 soldiers into the field to check the invasion of the Southerners.

Little news filters through to this city if it is of a nature unfavorable to the allies. The Governor of this district is demanding that the merchants pay $2,500,000 into his war chest.

MAY SUMMON CHINA BEFORE HAGUE COURT

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BRUSSELS, Aug. 27.—Foreign Minister Vandervelde announced to the press today that the Government is making an effort to reach a modus vivendi with China regarding the commercial treaty, effective since 1865, which China recently abrogated.

If an agreement cannot be reached through the ordinary diplomatic channels, Belgium will be obliged to take the matter before the International Court of Arbitration at The Hague, both Belgium and China having accepted such recourse for various disputes, including the interpretation of treaties.

M. Vandervelde recalled that the 1865 treaty was renewable by tacit agreement for decennial periods, and that the present decennial expires on Oct. 27.

This treaty, however, like most trade agreements between China and other powers, is an unequal treaty, and while Belgium has the right of denunciation, China does not have a similar privilege. The Chinese denunciation, therefore, is illegal, and the action before The Hague Tribunal, if the case is brought up there, will be based on the interpretation of this point.

The Foreign Minister announced that the Government had discussed the matter with Peking some time before China broke the treaty, and he said Belgium always was and still is favorable to the abolition of unequal treaties with China as soon as new agreements can be concluded. The Belgian reply declared:

"We ask nothing better than to conclude a new treaty which is not unequal, but this is possible only when we can deal with a stable Government and as the essential elements of the treaties to be concluded concern matters which deal with customs conferences and extraterritoriality—only when these conferences have completed their work."

China, however, refused to comply with the Belgian suggestion, and without having a right to do so, it is held here, declared that the treaty will automatically terminate on Oct. 27.

In concluding his examinations M. Vandervelde declared that the problem is not only a matter of concern to Belgian national interests, but also is one affecting other powers whose unequal treaties with China expire at various times, and he expressed the hope that an amicable settlement may be reached, not only regarding Belgian interests but also regarding Chinese aspirations, Belgium being one of the first nations to realize the legitimacy of the latter.

DROPS INDICTMENT AGAINST R. A. DAY

United States Attorney Buckner filed yesterday in the Federal court a dismissal of an indictment nearly four years old against Ralph A. Day, former State Prohibition Director. Mr. Day is now an official of the Onyx Hosiery Company of 1,107 Broadway. The indictment, charging Day with the possession of twenty-five cases of liquor, was opened only two months ago after remaining sealed with the clerk of the court since it was found in December, 1922.

It discloses that while Day was head of the prohibition forces here, from November, 1921, to November, 1922, his administration was under investigation by the Federal Grand Jury.

No indictment was returned at that time, but a suggestion to Secretary of the Treasury Mellon that Day be removed was carried out.

Among the witnesses who had testified were Abraham Singer, Secretary of the R. A. Day Company. Singer said the whisky was delivered and that among others who got some of it was Miss Louise Gallagher, a clothing designer for the Day Company, who ordered two cases. One case was delivered to Miss Gallagher, Singer testified, but the second was not because Day told him she had not paid for the first one.

In recommending dismissal of the indictment Mr. Buckner said he believed the evidence insufficient to obtain a conviction.

H. Templeton, Federal Attorney for the Western District; Thomas S. Rice of the State Crime Commission; W. Bruce Cobb, former New York City Magistrate, now Secretary of the Courts Committee of the Brooklyn Bureau of Charities, and Miss Emily Oothout Lamb, psychologist of the Superior and Juvenile Courts of Santa Barbara, Cal., who is here as an onlooker, but who spoke on the value of psychology in the handling of criminals and especially of juvenile delinquents, and who mildly criticized District Attorneys who sought convictions rather than to ascertain the truth.

Discuss Last Year's Failures.

Mr. Love opened the meeting by reciting the accomplishments of the association last year. He then spoke of the pending law amendment which would give to a defendant the right to waive trial by jury and as to the proposal that a defendant be required to enter an insanity defense before the prosecution should have put in its case. Though this had failed of passage last Winter, it should be enacted in some form so that the prosecution would have notice of the intent of the defense. The meeting took this view, and such a proposal will be handled by the Legislative Committee of the association, of which Mr. Banton is Chairman.

One of the measures that failed last year was that providing that the failure of a defendant to testify should be construed to his detriment by the Court. Mr. Love did not think it a necessary law, as juries invariably took into account, though they might be told not to, the failure of a man to take the stand in his own defense.

The measure providing the Court might engage additional stenographers in its discretion was brought up. The discussion led to the assertion that it takes a year to get a case heard on appeal because of the difficulty in getting the record ready. Mr. Dodd stated that in the case of Patrolman Brennan, who shot a citizen dead in a Brooklyn police station, it had not yet been possible to send the case up on appeal because the record was not ready, though Brennan was quickly tried and convicted.

"Give the District Attorneys the right to prepare the record on appeal immediately after the conviction and you will cut some of the red tape and speed up the procedure," he said.

Agreement was reached to have the Legislative Committee resubmit the Esmond bill with modifications designed to overcome the opposition to the measure that developed in up-State counties last year. The measure then required that pistols might be obtained only from Chiefs of Police and Sheriffs, who should issue permits good for one year, but limited geographically; that each weapon should be marked so as to be easily and thoroughly identified and that applications for permits should give not only the history and status of the applicant but should be accompanied by fingerprints.

Mr. Templeton asserted that the Federal Government should cooperate by controlling the mailing and expressing of pistols. The way to handle the pistol game was to stop the pistol. "Do as they do in London, where the police do not carry pistols," said Mr. Templeton.

Mr. Rice declared the average citizen did not want to be disarmed and that in New York City 50 per cent. of the householders have weapons in their homes and did not intend to give them up. In the rural districts such a law as was proposed would be unenforceable if it was to drastic.

Refers to Whittemore Case.

Mr. Rice advanced the idea that the forty-eight hour period between conviction and sentence, to which a criminal is now entitled as a matter of right, should be abolished. He held that the deterrent effect of the sentence was lost because of the delay and referred frankly to the advertising value of having the sentence follow instantly on the conviction as in England.

District Attorney Dodd agreed, but thought it would be wise to leave it to the discretion of the judges and the subject was put through in that form. If enacted into law, the amendment would deprive a convicted man of the forty-eight hours during which, in present practice, the greatest pressure is brought to bear on judges to be lenient.

Mr. Rice referred to Whittemore, hanged in Baltimore three months and thirteen days after he was extradited, as an instance of what could be done, and praised the crime commissions of Baltimore and Cleveland. In Baltimore, he said, 92 per cent. of the cases were now tried without a jury, at the instance of criminals themselves who had come to have a firmer belief in judges than in juries.

FOUR TURK LEADERS HANGED IN ANGORA

Nazim, Djavid, Nail and Hilmi Executed for Plot Against Turkish President.

17 PUT TO DEATH SO FAR

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Aug. 27.—Dr. Nazim Bey, Djavid Bey, Nail Bey and Hilmi Bey, who were condemned to death by the Tribunal of Independence at Angora yesterday for conspiracy against Mustapha Kemal Pasha, President of the Turkish Republic, were hanged last night opposite the Central Prison.

Besides Rauf Bey and Rahz Bey, who were sentenced to internment for life, three secretaries of the Committee of Union and Progress, Edhem Bey, Husni Bey and Vehbi Bey, were sentenced to internment for a shorter period.

In announcing the verdict, which was not heard by Djavid Bey and the three others sentenced to death because they were kept in prison, the President of the Tribunal of Independence, Ali Bey of Kerassunde, said that in different phases of the Smyrna and Angora trials it had been shown that members of the Committee of Union and Progress, which did not know how to administer the country before or during the war, had fled abroad after the disastrous armistice and had afterwards tried to recover power by means of a secret committee. He added that it was proved by depositions and admissions of members that a meeting of the committee was secretly held in Djavid Bey's house with the object of overthrowing the existing Government.

Seventeen of Opposition Dead.

Comment on the sentences is superfluous, but as the unsuccessful Symrna plot against Mustapha Kemal Pasha is now presumably dissolved it is interesting to note that seventeen of the chief members of the opposition have paid for their action with their lives while Abdul Kakir will shortly be hanged. In Western Europe it would appear extraordinary that seventeen persons should be put to death for having participated in a plot which was unsuccessful, but here political and other standards are altogether different.

It may be added that many Turks were somewhat surprised that Djavid Bey, former Minister of Finance, was thought that he might be pardoned at the last moment.

Now that the Angora trial is concluded the country will be free to continue its normal activities. Nevertheless, it will be interesting to see whether the Symrna plot was an isolated affair or the preface to other conspiracies.

The speech delivered before the tribunal pronounced sentence by Djavid Bey, former Minister of Finance, who is admitted by every one to have been magnificent. Djavid, who spoke without notes for an hour and a half, started by rebuking the Prosecutor for the attitude he had adopted toward him, saying that although he may not have had any importance on account of the position he had held the Prosecutor should have been more courteous to him.

Djavid then divided his defense into two parts, one general and the other personal. He stated that in 1914 he struggled with all his might against the entry of Turkey into the war. He visited British, French and Italian Embassies in Constantinople and procured from the Ambassadors the collective assurance that the Ottoman Empire would never be destroyed. A fatal incident in the Black Sea, however, when the Russian fleet bombarded the Turkish littoral, rendered his efforts futile. He then separated from his colleagues, who stigmatized him as a traitor and tried to kill him.

Opposed Kara Kemal as Official.

Discussing economic issues, Djavid insisted he always opposed Kara Kemal's nomination to the post of Food Controller, adding that he himself had never been mixed up with the business of food control. He mentioned that during the war, when the Germans wished to flood Turkey with a big issue of bank notes, he persuaded Talaat Pasha and the German Embassy to renounce the project, thus saving Turkey from the eventual miseries of inflation.

Djavid said that he had no knowledge of all the decisions taken by the Committee of Union and Progress and that he was a peaceful citizen who only desired that Turkey would prosper.

Concerning the allegations against his personal character, Djavid recalled that he had concluded two foreign loans for $60,000,000, with the proceeds of which he did much to better conditions of national economy and enabled State employes to be paid. Except for the cost of telegrams exchanged between Berlin and Constantinople, he said, not one cent had been spent for illegal purposes.

"Since I began my career in a bank at a salary of $4 a week," said Djavid "all that I have gained can be verified by my accounts. I have played with millions, but I do not even possess a house."

In conclusion Djavid said:

"May any decision that you take not rest on your conscience during your declining years. All the better if you believe what I have declared; what can I do if you do not believe my destiny has willed it?"

Criticized for Avoiding Issue.

Djavid's speech will probably rank in history as one of the finest displays of oratorical genius at a moment when the rope was dangling perilously near the neck of the speaker. Nevertheless, he is criticized as having glossed over the actual accusation—namely, of aiding and abetting in a plot to kill Mustapha Kemal Pasha; and it is remarked that he did not succeed in proving his non-participation in it. All that he said was:

"God has not given man power to prove the negative. I am able to prove what I have done, but I cannot convince you of what I have not done."

It is said that on leaving court Djavid said to the officer who had charge of him, "I could not produce the impression I wanted on the Judges; I a mgoing to be hanged."

MINE EXPLOSION DEAD BROUGHT TO SURFACE

CLYMER, Pa., Aug. 27 (AP).—The wrecked workings of the Clymer mine of the Clearfield Bituminous Coal Corporation tonight had yielded the bodies of forty-one of the forty-four miners who were killed late yesterday by a terrific explosion.

Far into the mine, picked rescue teams toiled incessantly to penetrate the tons of slate and rocks which formed the tomb of the three missing men. Hope was abandoned that any of them would be found alive and experienced rescue workers estimated it would require several days to extricate their bodies.

Nineteen bodies were brought to the surface today from the ill-fated slope and placed with the torn forms of twenty-two of their comrades who had previously been found and taken to a makeshift morgue near the pit mouth. There Marion Putts, the village storekeeper, passing along the line of victims, recognized twenty-six of his friends, and relatives identified the other bodies.

Fifty-eight miners were at work when the blast occurred. Ten escaped uninjured and four others are under treatment in a hospital.

CAPTURES TWO ROBBERS.

Policeman Fells Each as He Emerges From Hackensack Postoffice.

Special to The New York Times.

HACKENSACK, N. J., Aug. 27.—Policeman Herbert George of Fairview is the borough hero today for having caught single-handed two Postoffice safe crackers.

Early this morning, finding the Postoffice door slightly ajar, he peered in and found the robbers trying to open the safe. He fired two shots into the floor, drew his club and waited for the men to come out. As they darted out of the doorway he struck each on the head, and when they regained consciousness they found themselves handcuffed to each other.

The prisoners are awaiting Grand Jury action in the Hackensack jail. They are Ralph Morley, 20 years old, and Jake Harrison, 18, both of the Mills Hotel, New York.

Major Baker Gets Sing Sing Post.

OSSINING, N. Y., Aug. 27.—Major Amos T. Baker, for five years Superintendent of the State Reformatory for Women at Bedford, was appointed today to the post of psychiatrist at Sing Sing Prison. He will assume his new duties about Oct. 1. The appointment was announced by Superintendent of Prisons James L. Long. The position pays $7,500 a year and is tenable at the pleasure of the Superintendent, as it is not under the Civil Service.

TOTAL AMOUNT IS UNKNOWN

Special to The New York Times.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Aug. 27.—The will of Dr. Charles W. Eliot, President Emeritus of Harvard College, was offered for probate today in the Middlesex County Court. It leaves the bulk of his personal estate to his heirs, and directs that the income from the Charles William Eliot fund be given to the President and Fellows of Harvard. Besides numerous bequests to individuals, Dr. Eliot left the books, pictures, engravings and furniture from the Eliot and Peabody family to be divided equally between the heirs of his late son, Charles Eliot, and his surviving son, Samuel Atkins Eliot. The Stuart portraits of his grandmother and grandfather are left to Samuel Eliot.

To each of his granddaughters $7,500 is left, to be taken from the income of the Charles Eliot Fund, and the rest is given to the Harvard Corporation to be devoted to the support of instruction and research in landscape architecture, social ethics, or preventive medicine. The amount is not known, but it is estimated to be about $200,000. The will directs that if any descendant of Dr. Eliot shall be in need of financial assistance for educational reasons, the Harvard Corporation shall supply that need at its own discretion.

Among the personal bequests are $2,000 to be shared equally among the children of William Herbert Prentiss, late of Keene, N. H.; of John Prentiss Hopkinson and of Ellen C. Goodwin. To Orrin A. Donnell of Northeast Harbor, Me., who had been in Dr. Eliot's employ for more than forty years, the testator gave $1,000 "as a token of my respect and affection."

The sum of $100 goes to the heirs of Mary Lyman Guild; $100 each to Samuel A. Eliot and Mary Yale Eliot, and $200 each to Mrs. Walter E. McDaniels and Miss Eliza M. Hoppin. The sum of $8,300 is to be divided equally among the nephews and nieces of his wife.

The will was offered for probate by Henry M. Spellman of Boston, and Samuel A. Eliot requests to be appointed executor. The will is returnable on Sept. 13.

The total value of Dr. Eliot's estate has not yet been estimated.

ISSUES JEWISH WINE ORDERS

Weeks Says Rabbis Must Pass on Holiday Distribution.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27 (AP).—Prohibition administrators were reminded today by H. Keith Weeks, Supervisor of Wine Control, that the distribution of sacramental wine during the Jewish holidays of Rosh-Ha-shana and Yom Kippur in September must be made through the rabbis.

Strict adherence to the order will affect more than 200 shops in New York City which have been distributing wine as agents between bonded warehouses and the rabbis.

Officials here are convinced that there have been wine "leaks" in the metropolitan area because of the arrangement.

GUNMAN TELLS HOW GANG KILLED RODACK

varied in numbers from five to eleven in its robberies. It included George Cohen, a Chicago gunman, and Sol Brofman, a product of the east side, who within the last month were apprehended in connection with the holdup of Abraham Faigin for $75,000 in unset diamonds in Faigin's jewelry establishment on the eighth floor of 15 Maiden Lane on July 19. Cohen was sentenced last Thursday by Judge Koenig in General Sessions to a forty-year term in Sing Sing for this robbery. Brofman is to be sentenced next Tuesday.

Details of Alleged Confession.

Mintz, in the five days he had been questioned by the police, was reported to have admitted that he made it a practice always to have on hand from eight to ten high-power stolen automobiles for the use of the robber gang. These cars were kept in garages in different part of the city, and the expense of their storage of $1.50 a day was met from the general treasury of the robbers.

When the leader of the robber gang, whose identity was concealed by Inspector Coughlin, decided on a hold-up Mintz was alleged to have explained, Mintz would select for use the car stored in the garage nearest to the place, and after he had driven his confederates with their loot to a safe place he would abandon the car.

A list of the hold-ups in which Mintz was alleged to have admitted participation was given out by Commissioner McLaughlin. It began with the hold-up of Jacob Woldar in his pawnshop at 274 Grand Street, Brooklyn, on a forenoon of Oct. 16 last, in which Woldar was robbed of $350. Woldar drove off the robbers when he stepped on the button of a burglar alarm. Mintz said the automobile used by him in this hold-up had been stolen from in front of a house in Avenue A.

The next was the frustrated robbery of the pawnshop of Jacob Levin at 171 Lenox Avenue in the forenoon of Dec. 10 last. Levin met the demand of the gunmen to throw up his hands with a fusillade of bullets from a pistol behind the counter and the robbers fled, leaving behind $5 which one had laid on the counter on the pretext of buying a cheap ring.

Told of $75,000 Hold-Up.

Mintz then told of the $75,000 hold-up of the pawnshop of Herman Goldberg at 91 Eldridge Street on Dec. 27 last, in which Brofman, Cohen's partner in the Maiden Lane robbery, took part. Mintz said he received $600 as his share of the loot in that robbery. He said he drove the four members of the gang who on Jan. 31 last obtained $50,000 in jewelry in the hold-up of the establishment of Lerner Brothers & Buxbaum at 5 Eldridge Street, and added that the band's next robbery was that of the jewelry establishment of Samuel Brill at 34 East Broadway in which about $40,000 in jewelry was obtained on Feb. 17.

Then he told of the gang's hold-up of the jewelry concern of William H. Simms & Co., at 2,486 Grand Concourse, in the Bronx, in which five of the gunmen, including Cohen and Brofman, obtained $75,000 in gems. Mintz said that out of this loot he received only $300 as his share. The unsuccessful attempt to hold up the jewelry store of Isidore Renner at 132 Rivington Street, Mintz said, followed the Simms robbery. Renner frightened the robbers off when he drove his fist through the store window.

Brofman made a statement to the police when he and Cohen were arrested in connection with the Faigin hold-up in Maiden Lane. It was reported yesterday that the capture of Mintz last Monday was an outcome of this statement. Pinkerton detectives in the employ of the National Jewelers' Crime Commission, of which former Assistant District Attorney Richard C. Murphy is counsel, were understood to have been put on Mintz's trail with Detectives Harold F. Flay and William Courtney of Inspector Coughlin's staff.

SEIZED IN HOLD-UP MURDER.

Caught Leaving Doctor's Office.

They learned that Mintz had made several trips to the office of Dr. George Schwartz at 143 East Twenty-first Street since Silverman was shot and killed in the hold-up of the Sutter Avenue gambling place. They also learned that Mintz was recognized by some of the men in the gambling place as one of the robbers who had acted as look-out in the ground floor hallway and that he was believed to have been struck by a bullet fired at Silverman and him by the gamblers' hired gunman.

Flay and Courtney were standing at Third Avenue and Twenty-first Street last Monday afternoon when Mintz came out of the physician's office. They grabbed him and took him back to Dr. Schwartz. The physician said he had been treating Mintz for a wound on the left arm which the prisoner had told him had been received from ice tongs in a fight.

When Mintz was taken to Police Headquarters his fingerprints revealed that in February, 1920, when he was a little more than 16, he was arrested for the theft of an automobile in Brooklyn, but later was discharged. The next month he was arrested on another felony charge, but again was discharged. Then followed two more arrests on grand larceny charges, in 1921 and 1922, on each of which he was discharged, and his arrest in January, 1923, on a felonious assaul indictment, on which he received a suspended sentence from Judge Rosalsky in General Sessions. In March of the following year Mintz was taken into custody on a robbery charge, but Magistrate Edward Weil discharged him.

Mintz at first denied any connection with the Rodack murder or the many other hold-ups in which he and the other members of the gang were suspected of having been involved. Eventually, it was said, "" prisoner let slip some information through which a full statement was obtained and the hunt for Amberg was begun.

Amberg's Police Record.

Police records showed that Amberg had been arrested by Detectives Meyers and Gillman in this city in July, 1921, on a petit larceny charge, and three months later received a suspended sentence in Special Sessions. About three years later he was arrested in Brooklyn by Detectives Beck and Reif on a charge of shooting a man, but after a trial before Judge McLoughlin in the Kings County Court was acquitted by the jury.

In May, 1925, Amberg was arrested by Detectives Beck and Edder in connection with the killing of a man in Brooklyn, but in November of the same year he was discharged from custody by Supreme Court Justice Cropsey. The next month he was arrested by Detective McDermott for carrying a pistol, but the Grand Jury refused to return an indictment in the case. He was at liberty until Jan. 13 last when Detective Donnelly arrested Amberg in connection with a robbery, but, after a hearing before Magistrate Brown in Brooklyn, three days later, he again was discharged.

The police maintained secrecy about the arrest of Mintz until word was received over the telephone by Inspector Coughlin from Detective Pyke yesterday that Amberg had been arrested on a train there. Pyke said he would start for this city with his prisoner this morning.

Inspector Coughlin refused to reveal details of the Rodack murder given to him by Mintz. He also refused to make known whether the identity of the other three gunmen in the killing had been obtained from Mintz. It was learned, however, that the car in which Mintz drove his four confederates from the scene of the Rodack killing was found abandoned by the police a few hours after their escape.

Jeweler Shot One Gunman.

Witnesses to the killing said at the time that Rodack had shot one gunman before the jeweler fell dead with a bullet in his head from the pistol of the last robber to jump into the automobile driven by Mintz. Rodack had driven the gunmen out of his place when he opened fire from behind the counter, and pursued them to the sidewalk as they ran to their automobile, in which Mintz was seated, less than half a block away. Before their departure one gunman had shot Sidney Freifeld, Rodack's clerk.

It was the third time that robbers had attempted to hold up Rodack's establishment in two years. On their first visit Rodack drove them off with his pistol, although tney sent many bullets whizzing past his head.

"They'll never get anything from this shop while I'm alive," Rodack told friends who called at the time to congratulate him on his bravery. He made the same declaration on Jan. 18, 1925, when robbers for the second time entered his place and sent many bullets at him before he again drove them to the street with his pistol.

Rodack and Freifeld were alone in the store on the morning of July 22 last when the five robbers made a third attempt to rob the "fighting jeweler." Within an hour of the killing of Rodack that morning the Oberst gang of robbers made an unsuccessful attempt to hold up the Liccione private bank, at Arthur Avenue and 187th Street, the Bronx. At first the police believed that the same gang perpetrated this robbery, but on the capture of Oberst and four members of his gang later it developed that they were not participants in the killing of the brave jeweler. Oberst and four of his confederates, under long prison terms for the Liccione hold-up, now are awaiting trial in Long Island City for two hold-ups there.

Whetner Mintz in his confession attributed the first two unsuccessful attempts on Rodack's establishment to his gang could not be learned yesterday from Inspector Coughlin. It was said that none of such details of his confession would be made public until all the members of the gang were rounded up.

Daily Style Hint For Well-Dressed New Yorkers

NEW YORK, August 28—What is the ancestry of the brilliant "blazer"? Originally, it signified a boatman's jacket, and was applied to the Johnian crew (Cambridge) whose boat jackets were flaming scarlet.

Pajamas have caught the vogue for blazer stripes, for here they are of English satin broché with large collar and pearl buttons. As the collegian would say, spruce as the deuce! Exclusive, but not expensive.

wet votes, a course that could do no good to any Republican candidate, with the possible exception of the Senator himself."

In discussing the strength of Justice Cropsey in a fight with Governor Smith, Mr. Nicholson voiced his disagreement with the view frequently expressed that a victory for the Governor was a foregone conclusion.

"Many political observers make the mistake of believing that because this is an off year there will be a large stay-at-home vote in the up-State districts," Mr. Nicholson said. "Our reports from up-State indicate tremendous interest in the Cristman campaign. The fight between Senator Wadsworth and Mr. Cristman, the supporters of both being Republican for the most part, in my opinion will bring out a very large Republican vote. Justice Cropsey, with the stand taken by him on prohibition, would be a direct bengficiary from the interest the Wadsworth-Cristman fight has aroused and would poll thousands upon thousands of dry Republican votes which in all likelihood would not have shown up at the polls at all if Mr. Cristman had not been in the running."

Mr. Nicholson said the Cristman campaign was progressing favorably and that many Republicans of substance were flocking to his banners, even though the active "mechanics" of the party were holding aloof. Asked to comment on the report from Hornell, where Mr. Cristman spoke at a county fair on Friday, that he had been hissed and booed by Wadsworth supporters, Mr. Nicholson said he regarded the appearance of his candidate at this gathering as one of the high spots of his campaign so far.

"He addressed an audience of something like twenty thousand people and received a respectful hearing for one of the most telling of his addresses since the campaign has been under way,"

HARBOR WELCOME RIVALS THE LAND'S

CLASH OVER 'HYPHEN' TALK

Malone Objects When Magistrate Oberwager Hails German-American Aspect of Festivities.

The demonstration on water for Miss Ederle was as spectacular as it was on land. Never was such a fleet of harbor craft assembled off Quarantine to meet a famous visitor on an incoming ocean liner.

Two airplanes circled and dipped around the Berengaria before and after she dropped anchor. Two hydroplanes bounced over the slight groundswell playing around the giant hull of the liner. Steamers, tugs, cutters, launches of the lobstermen, motor boats and sailboats of fishermen and a number of canoes approached the big ship and gave its distinguished passenger a salute with sirens, whistles and bells.

Miss Ederle was discovered standing by the side of her father and sister, Mrs. Margaret Deusche, and looking out a promenade deck window on the port side of the liner. They were identified by a large American flag that Mr. Ederle waved to attract the attention of numerous members of the Ederle family aboard the municipal cutter Macom and the Department of Plant and Structures steamer Riverside.

When Miss Ederle, through her field glasses, caught sight of her mother aboard the Macom, she waved her hands excitedly, and her voice was heard over the 300 yards of water calling "Mamma!"

Band Plays National Air.

The Fire Department Band aboard the Riverside played "The Star-Spangled Banner" and other airs, while the fleet of welcoming boats opened all their noise-making devices.

The Berengaria dropped anchor at 11:18 A. M. After the Quarantine authorities had inspected the liner, Mrs. Ederle, Grover A. Whalen, Chairman of the Mayor's Committee, and Dudley Field Malone, attorney for Miss Ederle, boarded her. When Mrs. Ederle entered the stateroom of her daughter there was an affectionate greeting.

"My girl, New York is giving you a wonderful welcome," said the mother.

"How wonderful!" exclaimed Miss Ederle.

Mr. Whalen made a short speech of welcome, and ended it by kissing the channel victor. Miss Ederle and her mother then were transferred from the Berengaria to the upper deck of the Quarantine cutter. They kissed each other there again, to oblige the photographers. Then they went over to the upper deck of the Macom, where Miss Ederle greeted her many relatives.

To the newspapermen, Miss Ederle said:

"I knew I could do it. I knew I would, and I did."

She ridiculed the suggestion made abroad that two tugs had aided her in swimming the channel, by protecting her against wind and currents. Asked if she felt fatigued when she walked upon the beach at Dover, Miss Ederle's eyes sparkled. "I can't express how absolutely wonderful I felt when I came out of the water," she exclaimed.

When she was asked if she had any desire to undertake any other great swimming feat, she replied: "What else is there to do?"

Lost Four Pounds in Swim.

Miss Ederle said she had gained seven pounds before the Channel swim, and that she lost four or five pounds in making it. Her training, she explained, was walking and swimming one hour a day, and once a week a three-hour swim.

When she was asked if she intended to marry, she countered with: "I'm in no hurry."

"Have you had any proposals?"

"I'm not interested in proposals. I never give them a chance."

When Miss Ederle entered the cabin for the interview with newspaper men, she was greeted by Magistrate Charles A. Oberwager, speaking for the United German Societies. Magistrate Oberwager said:

"When you failed in your attempt to swim the Channel last year and returned, we of the United German Societies were the only ones to greet you. We have stood by you all along, and are ready to stand by you."

Magistrate Oberwager referred to the magnitude of the United German Societies, spoke of the fact that Miss Ederle was the daughter of German parents, and was interrupted in his further Teutonic references when he said:

"And while we are proud of your achievements because of your Teutonic origin, we also know that you are a proud little New Yorker—

"You bet!" snapped Trudy.

Malone Objects.

Mr. Malone told Magistrate Oberwager that he objected to the introduction of the Germanic element into the welcome to Miss Ederle. He informed the Magistrate that all those in the welcome were invited to take part as Americans. Mr. Malone said that those who insisted in making it a hyphenated celebration were at liberty to withdraw. Magistrate Oberwager explained that his remarks were only intended to show that the German element have begun to forget war enmities. In welcoming Miss Ederle on behalf of the United German Societies at her home in the afternoon, the Magistrate repeated some of the sentiments he had expressed aboard the Macom, or elaborated on them. Speaking of the demonstration, he said:

"It looked as though New York had closed its shops and factories, and that the people had left their homes and firesides to pay its tribute to a little girl born in New York.

"It proved that all distinctions with respect to national feeling and race prejudices resulting from the war had disappeared. Gertrude is a German-American girl; her father and mother were born in Germany and they continue their German associations with all the vigor of the Teutonic race.

"This demonstration may be considered as a public reunion of all the people, for it is the first time since the war that such a great and wonderful demonstration was held in which the Americans of German descent played such an important part. We are proud of Trudy, the American girl, born in this city of a father and mother who first saw the light of day in Germany."

Forty-two Ederle Kin on Boat.

Miss Ederle was not aware of the discord among the party that went down the bay to welcome her home, because she was so absorbed on deck with the spectacular demonstration of harbor craft, including the "water salute" of a fleet of fireboats, playing all their nozzles, just off the Statue of Liberty.

There were forty-two Ederle relatives aboard the Macom and the Riverside. The swimmer's mother, her sisters, Helen and Emma, and her brothers, George and Henry, were in the party, which included also her uncles, John, Jacob and Ernest Ederle, with members of their families, and other relatives more remote.

"I'm the proudest mother in the world," said Mrs. Ederle.

She told how she had taught Gertrude to swim at Atlantic Highlands, N. J., when she was eight years old.

"I tied a rope around her and let her down into the water off the pierhead," said Mrs. Ederle. "She did a little dog paddle. After two or three days she learned to swim. It was hard to get her out of the water. She always liked to paddle in the bathtub, too."

A large group of prominent American girl swimmers went down on the Macom to greet Miss Ederle, and the motorboat, Vesta from Atlantic Highlands arrived by the Berengaria with a large party of girls in bathing suits. Among the swimmers on the Macom were Virginia Whitnack, Kathryn Brown, Lillian Stoddart, Mrs. Alice Lord Landon, Mrs. Claire Finney, Helen Wainwright, Doris and Aileen O'Mera, Mrs. Charlotte Epstein, manager of the Women's Swimming Association, and Elsie Viets.

DINNER TO MISS EDERLE.

Mayor's Committee Tenders More Praise at Hotel Roosevelt.

Gertrude Ederle, cross-Channel swimmer, received another hearty welcome last night at the Hotel Roosevelt, where she and her family and the sponsors of her swim were the guests at dinner of the Mayor's Reception Committee.

Applauded as she walked through the hotel, she was greeted with cheers as she entered the banquet hall. She was officially welcomed by Grover A. Whalen, Chairman of the Reception Committee. He declared that in all his years of receiving distinguished visitors in behalf of the city "no reception has equaled, even in war days, the welcome given to our Gertrude here today."

"It would be impossible," he said, "for human tongue to voice an added welcome after that extended by the people of this city today."

Dudley Field Malone spoke also of the city's welcome. "The inspiring thing about today was that all youth was out," he said.

Miss Ederle smiled her acknowledgments of the praise showered upon her but begged leave not to speak. The party of fifty, with a police escort, went in automobiles to the Globe Theatre afterward to see Ziegfeld's Revue. Traffic was stopped for a few minutes on Broadway to allow them to alight at the theatre door, and another crowd jammed the square at Forty-sixth Street and cheered.

Policemen formed a narrow path to the theatre entrance and Miss Ederle struggled through it, aided by Mr. Whalen. The performance was under way but immediately it was stopped, and the entire company was called on to the stage to greet the swimmer as she walked down the aisle. The audience stood up and applauded and the orchestra played the Star Spangled Banner. Miss Ederle, from her seat in the first row, bowed to the audience, and the show was resumed. Soon afterward Mayor Walker joined the party.

The number which brought the greatest applause was a parody on "Hard-to-Get-Gertie," glorifying Miss Ederle's conquest of the Channel. Just before the end of the program Charles King introduced Miss Ederle from the stage.

Contracts Totaling $900,000 Offered to Gertrude Ederle

Dudley Field Malone, counsel for Miss Gertrude Ederle, in discussing yesterday the offers of contracts made to her, said that they aggregated $900,000. Dozens of additional offers were received at her home by telephone, telegraph and mail after Mr. Malone disclosed the figures.

He said that among the offers was one of $125,000 for a twenty weeks' appearance on the stage, an offer from the Sesquicentennial Exposition for swimming exhibitions and another theatrical offer of a forty weeks' contract.

Miss Ederle probably will close negotiations on one of the offers within the next few days, Mr. Malone said.

GREATEST WELCOME TO GERTRUDE EDERLE

New York State
Albany, N. Y., Aug. 26, 1926.

Dear Miss Ederle:

All the people of the State join with me in a hearty welcome upon your return to your own country. You have won distinction for yourself and for the great State of which you are a citizen.

It is a matter of great regret that engagements that I made long ago prevent me from being in the Southern part of the State in order that I could extend a welcome in person.

Sincerely yours,
(Signed) ALFRED E. SMITH,
Governor.

Swimmer Carries Mascot.

Flushed with excitement and beaming with smiles, Miss Ederle entered the Aldermanic Chamber at the City Hall on the arm of Mr. Whalen, Chairman of the Mayor's' Committee that welcomed her. She was greeted on all sides by friends and personal admirers who solidly packed the room, overflowed the chamber and filled the corridor outside the room. Miss Ederle nodded, waved her blue silk handkerchief and tried to wave acknowledgements to every part of the room.

The swimmer's face was deeply tanned and her boyish-bobbed hair was bronzed by salt water and sun. She wore a lavender felt hat, a blue serge coat suit, a Paris blue and flowered silk scarf, gray silk stockings and black patent leather slippers. She carried a doll mascot, which she called "The Channel Sheik," with an imitation rope of pearls around its neck.

In the course of her welcome at the City Hall she received a large bouquet of American Beauty roses, bearing a card inscribed, "The compliments of the Mayor."

Then she entered the Aldermanic Chamber, Hector Fuller, official announcer of the Mayor's committee, raised a stentorian voice and called:

The Mayor's Welcome.

This announcement started an ovation which continued while the Mayor and other officials mounted the platform with Miss Ederle, and the Mayor shook hands with her. Mr. Whalen presented Miss Ederle, and Mayor Walker welcomed her, saying:

I have not had the privilege officially, nor personally, to be present at all the receptions that Mr. Whalen has referred to, but since the first of the year my average has been pretty good. If it is necessary to assure you that New York City entirely welcomes you, I do so most heartily. Having had some pride in pluralities, and having thought at one time that I knew something about the proportion that pluralities could attain, I am willing to admit, Trudy, that yours is the biggest plurality ever given.

This is not altogether the day to be facetious. Certainly you know that a Mayor would not be blasphemous. But when history records the great crossings, of course they will speak of Moses crossing the Red Sea, Caesar crossing the Rubicon and Washington crossing the Delaware, but very frankly, your crossing of the British Channel must take its place alongside of those.

The papers have said that upon your entrance to the City Hall you ought to be kissed by the Mayor. I want you to understand that I shall not be held guilty as a defaulter, but at the same time having in mind the fact that you conquered the Channel, and the fact that you might take exception to the contract, I am not going to insist. But if you look over my shoulder at the Mayor's staff, you will see some very attractive young lieutenants who have already volunteered to substitute.

Of course the whole world has its eyes on you. I guess that is no exaggeration, but as the whole world is willing to pay you homage, you are, after all, just a New York City girl and an Amsterdam Avenue girl, and that means more to us in New York City than anything that has ever been visited upon us. We are not only proud, but we are happy, and you have made us happy. I do not know much about this controversy about the tug, but mayors are supposed to be practical. I have this in mind—that the old Channel is still there, and there are a lot of tugs to be hired by any one that wants to try it, and the Mayor will be the first volunteer to refuse to try it. Miss Ederle, on behalf of the City of New York, let me welcome you most heartily and ask you to accept this little memento from the city and from the people of the City of New York.

The Mayor then pinned upon Miss Ederle a gold medal commemorating her famous Channel feat and presented her with a "scroll of honor," which he read. The text of the scroll follows:

SCROLL OF HONOR.

MISS GERTRUDE EDERLE,
Conquerer of the English Channel.
As Chief Executive of New York City, acting not alone for myself but on behalf of millions of New Yorkers, I desire to present as a certification of our esteem, admiration and praise this scroll of honor.

American women, we are proud to say, have ever added to the glory of our nation, even from the time that Betsy Ross first sewed together with patriotic needle the first American flag. There has never been a brave deed adding to the honor of that flag that was not fostered and inspired by glorious American women.

And so our hearts go out to you for the indomitable courage, the skillful grace, the tremendous athletic prowess, which enabled you to be the first girl in the world to swim the English Channel.

From Cape Gris-Nez, France, across to the white cliffs of Dover, England, we followed your unique and successful attempt with full confidence that in your brave heart and stern courage of soul America was assured of another victory in the realm of sport.

You come back to us with the plaudits of the Old World ringing in your ears, but it remains for us, of your native land, to assure you that in true appreciation of your triumph this City of New York stands second to none.

That you may ever be assured of the honor with which we welcome you home I present to you this scroll of honor in the name of our people, and to it we have affixed our signatures and the official seal of the City of New York.

Miss Ederle Replies.

Without hesitation and with as much self-possession as any girl could muster amid such excitement, Miss Ederle responded to the Mayor's welcome as follows:

Well, my dear friends, I have received the most wonderful welcome, and to put it into words, I don't believe there is any word I can find to express how thrilled I am at this wonderful reception. I certainly am proud to bring home the honors for my country, and for the City of New York. It was for my flag that I swam and to know that I could bring home the honors, and my mind was made up to do it.

I wish to thank the Mayor and all the associations and vereins and the German-Americans and the public. I wish to thank them for their wonderful applause and all the thrills they have given me, and now I don't believe there is much more that I can say. I am so thrilled I just can't put it in words. I wish to thank every one in the United States of America. I thank you.

When Mr. Whalen presented Miss Ederle, he paid her this tribute.

Mr. Mayor, it has been my proud privilege for a number of years to escort personages of fame to the City Hall, and in all that experience the reception that was accorded to our Gertrude today is greater than any of the Welcome Committee descended to the vestibule of the City Hall. The Mayor and Miss Ederle walked out to the steps of the building through a lane formed by the police. They started to pose for the photographers, but then the crowd surged forward and the police lines broke. The Mayor and the swimmer would have been swept from their feet but for the prompt interference of Patrolman O'Donovan and Policemen O'Connor and Howard.

The sudden upheaval of the crowd catapulted some of those in the front against an iron picket fence at one side of the City Hall steps. The fence gave way, and many were knocked down and trampled upon. Six persons received first-aid treatment and went home. The injured were:

PAPALIA, ADLA, 13 years old, of 600 Thirty-fifth Street, North Bergen, N. J.; overcome by the heat and excitement.

Miss Ellen Mitchell, 27, of 233 East Ninth Street, was overcome by heat in the press of the crowd, received first aid and went home, after reporting the loss of a watch which she valued at $200.

The injured were treated by Drs. Berry and Petulli of the Beekman Street Hospital. An ambulance from the Beekman Street Hospital was parked in front of the City Hall as an emergency medical station, and most of the injured were taken to it for treatment.

Miss Dobrovolny reported that she had been knocked down by a horse ridden by a mounted policeman and saved from serious injury by quick-witted persons near by. Miss Maria and Miss Glavik were trodden upon before they could be snatched to safety by other spectators who tried to assist them.

Trying to clear the masses of people who pressed right against the barred doors of the City Hall, the mounted police rode here and there among the crowd. Women screamed in fear and men swore in anger.

Police Comment on Crowd.

Inspector Kuehne said the crowd was the most enthusiastic and persistent he had ever seen in his thirty years on the force. He called attention to the large number of women who turned out to greet the girl who was not only the first women to swim the English Channel but a swimmer who had beaten all the records of the men swimmers of the Channel.

"There was an old woman about 85 years old in the front of the crowd which stormed the doors of the City Hall," said Inspector Kuehne. "I was afraid she would get hurt, and tried to assist her to a safer place. She became indignant, and protested.

"'I guess I can take care of myself,' she said, and that seemed to be the attitude of most of the women."

Miss Ederle was surprised and astonished by the warmth of the reception and the determination of the crowd to close in upon her. But she gave heed to the advice of the police and city officials and stayed in the private office of the Mayor with her mother and other members of her party while the police cleared an exit for her through the masses in front of the building.

The Channel swimmer was marooned in the office of Mayor Walker for thirty minutes. Inspector Kuhne asked Police Headquarters to rush 100 more reserves to the City Hall, 100 extra traffic men to Fifth Avenue and Thirty-fourth Street as a precaution against overwhelming crowds there, and another 100 recruits to Fifty-seventh Street and Amsterdam Avenue to take care of the huge neighborhood outpouring.

At 2:30, when a lane was opened through the crowds at City Hall, word was sent to the Mayor's office that everything was ready for Miss Ederle to start the ride to her home. The swimmer and her immediate party hurried out of the hall, posed with Mayor Walker on the steps of the building, and then walked briskly to her waiting automobile. The triumphal ride home began.

"The reception given to that girl was the greatest in the history of the city," said Inspector Kuehne as "Trudy" and the trailer of automobiles departed. "There has never been anything like it except the greeting that was given to the Twenty-seventh Division, New York's Own, when it returned from France."

Northward from City Hall, the Ederle procession ran into the paper cloudbursts again. The swimmer was bombarded from the curb with "hello" and "welcome, Trudy," and other shouts. At Ninth Street, where the line of automobiles turned west toward Fifth Avenue, a huge cluster of American Beauty roses was presented to Miss Ederle on behalf of the employes of John Wanamaker's by Miss Katherine Rooney.

Gifts From the Stores.

In Fifth Avenue the procession was halted briefly while Miss Ederle received other elaborate bouquets, one from Altman's, presented by Miss Bertha Yaeger, and one from Saks & Co., tendered by Miss Carolyn Gadony. From Franklin Simon, a large silver loving cup was given to Miss Ederle by Miss Rose Muene, and still another cluster of flowers was presented by Dobbs & Co. Representatives of other stores ran to the car in which Miss Ederle was riding and presented her with gifts.

As "Trudy" and her train passed the Public Library at Forty-second Street the pigeons which nest under its eaves ffew out as if to greet her. They circled over her car until she had passed Forty-second Street, and then returned to their perches, having added their tribute to the conqueror.

RIOTOUS GREETING AT HOME.

Ederle Neighborhood Gay With Banners—Thousands in Streets.

Amsterdam Avenue began its welcome to Gertrude Ederle yesterday afternoon and the celebration was still going on late last night.

Although she had been met down the bay by the Mayor's official committee, had been escorted to the City Hall through lanes of cheering thousands and then as the city's guest of honor had ridden slowly up Fifth Avenue to Fifty-seventh Street, the real welcome home for Miss Ederle commenced when she reached the west side section, where she was born and reared.

All day the neighbors had gathered in Amsterdam Avenue between Sixty-fourth and Sixty-fifth Streets, and from early morning police reserves had guarded her father's butcher shop in the middle of the block and the adjoining tenement house, in which the Ederles live.

From Fifty-seventh Street north, Tenth Avenue was gay with the bunting and flags of a score of nations, the green of Ireland, the flags of Germany, empire and republic; of Italy and others vying with the red, white and blue of the United States. At Fifty-ninth Street, where Tenth Avenue becomes Amsterdam, the decorations increased in variety and abundance. Every store had its "Welcome Trudy" sign, generally accompanied by a picture of the swimmer, and the fronts of the tenements from store signs to roofs carried more of them.

Whole Neighborhood Ablaze.

Nor were the signs and decorations restricted to the avenue. All the neighborhood had spent days getting ready for the home-coming of "Trudy, Queen of the Seas." There was no plan, no unified scheme of decoration. Each householder had broken out everything he possessed in the shape of a flag. Lodge emblems, the star and crescent of Turkey and many another symbol hung from fire escape, window and roof. Only the butcher shops displayed uniformity. In addition to other marks of honor, each carried a picture of Gertrude bearing the news that she was the daughter of a butcher and that she ate meat three times a day.

The front of her father's store was buried under bunting. One window, however, held a lifelike imitation of the English Channel built of cardboard. Bright green waves moved up and down quickly, and in the middle, using her famous crawl stroke, was Gertrude hitting the water at the rate of about sixty strokes to a minute. The whole contrivance was operated by a lever attached to a small electric motor. Beneath the scene was this verse:

Pop Ederle by cutting meat made for himself a name,
His daughter Trude by cutting waves won victory and fame.
You see here how she fights the sea,
and how she puts it over,
swim from France to Dover.

Adjoining the butcher shop, a one-story structure, is the five-story tenement, also owned by her father, which is the home of the family. Like the rest of the street, it was a riot of color, and each fire-escape bore a huge sign upon which was one word. Reading from top to bottom the four signs said in letters a yard high:

"WELCOME HOME OUR TRUDY."

Soon after noon, Inspector John S. Bolan arrived. Already seventy-five policemen under Acting Captain John H. Hamill of the West Sixty-eighth Street Station were on duty in the block and on either side of it. Inspector Bolan took one look at the growing crowds and ordered a hundred more men. A little later he sent another call for more reserves until 300 patrolmen and a score of mounted policemen were striving to keep the streets and roofs clear.

Babies Kept Moving Too.

For a time early in the day the police had moved up and down the avenue, monotonously calling as they patrolled, "Keep moving. Keep moving." Later they changed the order to "Keep moving and take your babies with you."

As the hour approached for Trudy's appearance, however, all but dwellers in the block were driven below Sixty-fourth Street and above Sixty-fifth. There was no time off for meals for the men on duty, but the Ederle butcher shop went to the rescue. In the basement two clerks made pork and rye bread sandwiches and, as opportunity offered, the police and neighbors went below and partook of them.

At 3:30 o'clock the motorcycle advance guard of the procession appeared.

The noise increased as the open car containing Miss Ederle appeared. The crowds surged forward, bending the police lines and in places breaking through them.

"Easy, men," called a stout sergeant to his platoon as they strove to hold back a thousand or more men, women and children. "Easy! Look out for the women and children," he admonished as he braced his more than two hundred pounds against the mob.

Then some one waving a small flag poked the staff beneath the brim of the sergeant's hat and shoved it over his eyes. Amsterdam Avenue did not propose to be restricted in its hilarious greeting to Trudy.

Crown for Miss Ederle.

As the car stopped in front of the Ederle home, a little girl broke through the lines and climbed into the car and placed a crown of gold and white satin on Miss Ederle's head and draped about her shoulders a blue sash inscribed: "Queen Gertrude the First."

The crown apparently did not fit. Gertrude took it off as if to discard it. Then she turned it about and put it on.

Mounted policemen pushed their nervous horses close to the machine and cut a lane to the curb and across the walk to the door.

The swimmer stood for a moment listening to the tumult and looking up at the windows, nodding to this one and answering a greeting from that one. Then she stepped from the machine with Mr. Whalen and rushed across the walk and up the stairs to her home. Her father and mother, who were in another car directly behind her, followed. "Pop" Ederle nearly buried beneath huge bouquets of red roses. At the top of the stairs Gertrude was met by relatives and her two dogs.

Miss Ederle had been in the house only a few minutes when she missed the medal presented to her by Mayor Walker. Mr. Malone, Mr. Whalen and others started a search, and then it was learned that her uncle and her father's partner, John Ederle, had found the medal on the floor of the automobile.

Meets Welcoming Committee.

A moment later a bright red roadster drove to the door and Gertrude emerged from the house. It was a gift to her from a newspaper. She climbed to the seat, was photographed, and rushed upstairs again to receive the neighborhood's welcoming committee, which had been waiting in the butcher shop for hours.

Among its members were F. W. Subers of Weehawken and his son, F. W. Subers Jr.; Mr. and Mrs. Joseph C. Herbold, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Marquard, Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Brandt, Mr. and Mrs. William Ruckh, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ehri and Dr. G. Arthur Gayer. Magistrate Charles Oberwager arrived later.

Although the police opened the avenue to traffic and tried to drive the crowd away, thousands massed in front of the house, on adjoining roofs and in windows across the way, calling "Trudy!" Finally Gertrude went to a window, stood on the sill, waved kisses and bowed. Still the crowd refused to go, and again she stepped to the windowsill and waved. Then the police began to make some headway. Traffic was resumed, but thousands stayed throughout the afternoon and into the evening.

After he had made sure that his wife and daughter were resting, "Pop" Ederle went to his store. As he entered it he made a gesture that apparently included every one in the vicinity and said: "Come on, boys." All who heard followed him. Through the store he led the way, and down a long gangway to his packing plant. There, on sturdy meat blocks, were sandwiches and near-beer.

Asked about plans, Mr. Ederle said he had none just now.

"We've got home," he said, "and, thank God, we are all well and happy. Yes, Trudy is fine, and so are her mother and Margaret."

Then he turned away to shake hands and be congratulated by others.

Besides Gertrude, who is the third child, Mr. and Mrs. Ederle have five children. The eldest is Helen, next comes Margaret, then Gertrude, then George, then Emma, then the youngest, Henry, named for his father. Last night the family hoped to go to its Summer home at Highlands, N. J., by Tuesday for a real vacation.

Below—In front of Miss Ederle's home, 108 Amsterdam Avenue at Sixty-third Street, where the whole block had been gayly decorated by joyous neighbors of the Channel swimmer. DEATH OF RODGERS GRIEVES THE NAVY

News Flashed to Washington Brings Sorrow to Men of All Ranks.

CONDOLENCE SENT FATHER

Admiral Eberle Pays Tribute to the Commander's Service to Nation and World Aviation.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—News of the death of Commander John Rodgers at Philadelphia today was received with great sorrow in naval circles, where he was highly esteemed by all ranks of the service and was regarded as a heroic figure in connection with the attempted flight to Hawaii last Autumn.

Commander Rodgers had only recently, at his own request, been relieved of the post of Assistant Chief of the Bureau of Naval Aeronautics under Rear Admiral William A. Moffett, chief of the bureau, and had been assigned to sea duty to command a new scouting plane squadron for experimental purposes.

It was with the purpose of inspecting two new planes now under construction at the naval aircraft factory at Philadelphia, which were to form the nucleus of the new squadron he was to command, that Commander Rodgers with his mechanician, Aviation Machinist's Mate Samuel Schultz, left Anacostia Naval Air Station here in a Voight landplane at 11:45 o'clock this morning.

Admiral E. W. Eberle, Chief of Naval Operations, who was Acting Secretary of the Navy in the absence of both Secretary of the Navy Wilbur and Assistant Secretary Robinson, sent a message of condolence on the part of the Navy Department to Rear Admiral John A. Rodgers, retired, father of the dead aviator. The message read:

Rear Admiral John A. Rodgers,
Havre de Grace, Md.

The department wishes to express the navy's profound sorrow and sympathy over the sad loss of your son, Commander John Rodgers, who has rendered such valuable service and who died in the performance of duty.

Admiral Eberle Pays Navy's Homage.

In a personal tribute to Commander Rodgers Admiral Eberle said:

"The death of Commander Rodgers is a great shock to me and to the entire service because he was beloved by everybody—officers and men.

"He accomplished results in a quiet way which appealed to every one. He always performed his duty in a most efficient manner. His death is a very great loss both to the service and to me personally.

"I have known John Rodgers since he was a midshipman and he has been an officer and a gentleman of sterling qualities. I feel that no one has done more for the development of naval aviation and for aviation navigation on the seas than John Rodgers."

The first report of the airplane crash reached the Navy Department in a brief telegram received at 3 o'clock this afternoon, Standard Time, but the seriousness of the accident was not realized at the time, the message stating only that Commander Rodgers was suffering from a broken leg.

Messages Tell of Crash and Death.

This message, sent from the Naval Air Station at Philadelphia to the Chief of Naval Operations, read:

"Volt landplane, with Commander Rodgers and Aviation Machinist's Mate Schultz as passengers, crashed in Delaware River at 1:30, off naval aircraft factory. Commander Rodgers's leg broken. Schultz sustained injuries. Both in hospital."

News of the death of Commander Redgers reached the Navy Department at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon by telephone from Captain Craft, aid to the Commandant of the Philadelphia Navy Yard, who talked with Commander Richardson of the Bureau of Naval Aeronautics.

In his telephone conversation Captain Craft said:

"It was very hard to get Commander Rodgers out of the plane. He was under the water with just his head out and he suffered quite serious injury. Compound fracture of the left leg and several ribs broken.

"We could not make a very thorough determination on account of his suffering from shock. His mother has been notified.

"It was not difficult to get Schultz out of the plane. He suffered injuries to his head and had some broken ribs. He is seriously injured.

The Rev. Dr. Wallace Buttrick, who as President of the General Education Board from 1917 to 1923, had authority over the dispensing of millions of dollars to educational institutions, had a net estate of only $10,722 when he died suddenly in Johns Hopkins Hospital in Baltimore on May 27. The estate went to his wife, Isabella Allen Buttrick.

A large item in the estate was $5,000 due on a group insurance policy, although the chief asset was an option to buy 560 shares of Sears, Roebuck & Co. common stock for $16,000, which was valued at $5,606. He had $424 in cash, $150 in clothing, a watch valued at $100, books worth $300, and personal articles appraised at $150, with $300 in Liberty bonds.

The Rev. Dr. Buttrick died at the age of seventy-two. He left the pastorate of the Emmanuel Baptist Church in Albany in 1902 to become Secretary of the General Education Board soon after it was founded by John D. Rockefeller.

PICKPOCKETS IN CROWD AT EDERLE RECEPTION

When the Macom brought Miss Ederle to Pier A at the Battery she lost a gold bracelet in the excitement of landing, and a brief search of the automobile in which she first noticed her loss failed to disclose it.

Cornelius Vanderbilt Jr., who was a member of the Mayor's Committee and wriggled through every crush encountered on Miss Ederle's route from the Battery to her home, said he felt the fingers of pickpockets frequently, and particularly in the crowd at the City Hall.

The first man arrested on a charge of picking a pocket was Thomas Jackson, a negro, of 134 West 133d Street. He was seized by Detectives Barry and Fink of the Pickpocket Squad, who charged him with running his hand into the pocket of Walter Jackman of 15 Dey Street as the latter was shaking hands with Miss Ederle at the Battery. Miss Ederle watched the arrest with interest. The detectives said they found $35 in Jackson's pocket, and that was the amount of money which Mr. Jackman lost.

Miss Ederle a few minutes later saw Detectives McNally and Grogan of the same squad arrest Harry Gold and his wife, Dora, of 200 West 112th Street, on charges of pocket-picking. The detectives said the woman was a "wa let finder," explaining that she located the articles which her husband tried to pilfer. The Golds and Jackson were taken to Police Headquarters. There, the police said, it was found that Gold had a record of twenty-five arrests under six aliases and sixteen convictions. Mrs. Gold has no record. Jackson, they said, had been arrested four times for pocket-picking.

NAME SYRIAN COMMISSIONER

French Appoint Auguste Ponsot to Succeed Henry de Jouvenel.

PARIS, Aug. 27 (AP).—Auguste Henri Ponsot, Director of African and Near East Affairs in the French Foreign Office, has been appointed High Commissioner of Syria in place of Henry de Jouvenel.

M. Ponsot was formerly Consul General in Montreal. He was head of the French Mission to Silesia in 1920 and was a delegate to the Peace Conference in Oudja last April.

BONES OF SAINT TAKEN TO WARSAW

200,000 MARCH IN CAPITAL

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

WARSAW, Aug. 27.—Decked with the banners of the Catholic Church and Poland and lighted after dusk with flambeaux and lanterns, the steamer bearing the bones of Stanislas Kostka, the patron saint of Poland's youth, arrived at Warsaw tonight for the great Catholic convention opening tomorrow.

All day long peasants kneeling in prayer lined the low banks of the river throughout the hundred miles from Rostkow as the craft made the solemn voyage from the saint's birthplace to Warsaw.

Here in the nation's capital 20,000 delegates from all of the Catholic churches in the country will hold a ceremony sanctifying the memory of the saint lost to his native country since he left for Rome more than 350 years ago to enter the Jesuit Order, dying a year later at the age of 18. Because of his devout character and early death he was canonized in 1726, but his body remained in Rome until late in July, when it was returned to Rostkow.

The bones of the saint were in two gold shrines encased in oaken caskets and were placed on the vessel in regal state after a procession to the river headed by leading Polish churchmen, who carried the caskets on richly decorated litters. On board, the caskets rested on a specially built altar surrounded by the eighteen most historical Church banners of Poland. Two hundred priests were in continuous devotion at the altar during the voyage.

The boat halted at Zakroczyn, where the saint's uncle was one of the ancient Governors, and part of the bones were presented to the church there.

As the relics were removed from the boat at Warsaw a procession of 200,000 priests, church dignitaries, Catholic societies and humble worshipers, led by Cardinal Kakowski, of Warsaw, moved through the packed streets, their banners and torches gleaming in the cold drizzle, while every church bell in the city tolled continuously.

The casket was placed in the Jesuit Church, in the most ancient quarter of the city, and after the services tomorrow will be transported by automobile back to the city of the saint's birth.

Tomorrow the Catholic Congress is expected to pass important resolutions. Premier Bartel will not be a speaker, as originally announced. There are no American delegates in attendance.

SAYS MARS IS ULTRA-DRY.

California Astronomer Thinks Low Plant Forms Only Possible Life.

PASADENA, Cal., Aug. 27 (AP).—Even a camel would shun Mars if what Dr. Walter S. Adams, director of the Mount Wilson Observatory here, says about the planet is true.

If any form of life exists on our celestial neighbor, it is probably only the lowest form of plants, such as moss and lichen, for "ultra-arid" conditions prevail throughout the planet, says Dr. Adams in a report to the Carnegie Institution of Washington.

Coupled with the extreme aridity is the scientifically established fact that there is a drastic daily change in temperature on Mars, from something like 75 degrees at noon to 40 degrees below zero at midnight.

Knowledge of the desert atmosphere on the planet was established by means of spectrum lines, considered together with the relative motion of the earth and Mars.

Coolidge Lands a Dozen Trout.

PAUL SMITH'S, N. Y., Aug. 27 (AP).—Taking advantage of ideal fishing weather, President Coolidge donned hip boots today and went in quest of brook trout in Osgood River. The party, which included Secret Service men and the President's guides, Oscar Otis and Ormon Doty, returned to camp after about two hours with a dozen trout.

CROWD MENACES MAN WHEN TRUCK KILLS BOY

Driver Saved From Violence by Police Reserves—Two Die in Other Accidents.

Police reserves had to be called to St. Mary's Hospital in the Brownsville section of Brooklyn last evening to protect a motor truck driver from a crowd who had gathered about him after his truck had fatally injured a 4-year-old boy at Hopkinson Avenue and Herkimer Street. August Davin, 24 years old, the driver, of 248 Cornelia Street, had placed the boy, Peter Ricci, of 42 Utica Avenue, in his truck and hurried with him to the hospital when the vanguard of the crowd arrived.

A surgeon announced that the boy was dead, and Davin started to leave the institution with Patrolman Murphy for the Brownsville Station a prisoner on a technical homicide charge. When the crowd started to close in on the driver Murphy backed his prisoner into the hospital office and telephoned for reserves. Two automobiles filled with patrolmen appeared soon, and after the crowd had been driven off Davin was taken to the station. He said the boy ran in front of his truck from behind a parked automobile.

Charles Diamond, 13 years old, of 555 West Fifty-first Street died last night while being removed to Roosevelt Hospital from injuries he had received when he was struck by a motor truck at Tenth Avenue and Fifty-sixth Street.

James Lynch, 28 years old, of 252 Wadsworth Avenue, died in the Peekskill Hospital at 3 o'clock yesterday morning from injuries received when the automobile in which he was riding through Montrose, about two miles from Peekskill, crashed into a tree.

GEMS AND AUTO DISAPPEAR.

Brother Gone, Too, Jewel Salesman Reports to Police.

The disappearance of two telescopic bags, containing jewelry valued at $5,000, as well as the automobile in which the bags were being carried and the operator of the machine, who is a brother of the custodian of the jewelry, was reported yesterday to the police of the Oak Street Station.

They drove to the City Hall Postoffice, and Victor waited in the machine while his brother went inside. Coming out later, Hyman could not find his car. He waited for some time, believing his brother might have gone on an errand. Then he reported the disappearance to the police. The machine is described as a green Jewett roadster, bearing the 1926 license plates 4K-13-30 N. Y.

FLEE AS TNT MINE FALLS INTO WATER

SET BY GERMANY IN WAR

Second Found in a Week—Search Starts for Two More Believed to Be Off Jersey Coast.

Special to The New York Times.

CAPE MAY, N. J., Aug. 27.—A group of men that gathered at the Coast Guard base here tonight to witness the return of a cutter with a German mine loaded with 350 pounds of TNT which had been picked up earlier in the day near the Overfalls Light vessel were badly scared when the gears on a machine being used to hoist the mine were stripped and the mine went hurtling thirty feet back into the water.

As the mine fell Commander E. F. Addison of the base, Captain Kent Rodgers, Boatswain C. L. Jordan and half a dozen other persons who had been watching the hoisting from a wharf, raced away, fearing the mine would explode. The crew of the cutter also tried to reach a place of safety.

With a loud splash the mine hit the water and plunged downward. There were several anxious moments. If the mine struck the bottom, the men were sure it would explode. As they sped down the wharf, the Commander and the others listened expectantly for the detonation. But the mine came to the surface. It did not strike the bottom. The danger was over. It was again hoisted, and precautions were taken to prevent another slip. The mine will be kept in mid-air until tomorrow, when officers will examine it.

The mine was picked up by the crew of Cutter 110 at the very place, according to Coast Guardsmen, where it was set during the World War by a German submarine mine layer. The spot chosen by the mine layers was about seven miles off the Overfalls light vessel, directly in the pathway of passenger ships that ply in and out of Delaware Bay. The Coast Guardsmen marveled that the ships had escaped striking it and being sunk.

The mine was discovered yesterday by a fisherman, who went out with the cutter crew to point it out to them. At low water it was about one foot below the surface. The crew worked with infinite care to cut it away from the anchor chain and then towed it into the base.

This was the second mine found this week. On Wednesday the crew of another cutter blew one to pieces with shots from a cannon. Two more mines are believed to be in the vicinity, and a search for them has been ordered.

These mines, it was said, were among those set out all along the coast in 1918. It was such a mine that was understood to have caused the sinking of the cruiser San Diego off Fire Island in that year.

MRS. CARSON STARTS TO SWIM CHANNEL

Woman Who Made Albany to New York Record Reported Making Excellent Progress.

CAPE GRIS-NEZ, France, Aug. 28 (AP).—Mrs. Clemington Carson started shortly before midnight in an attempt to swim the English Channel. Wind and other conditions were ideal.

At 2:30 o'clock this morning the swimmer was reported to be making excellent progress and experts expressed the belief that she would make a sensational swim.

Miss Lillian Cannon, Baltimore swimmer, who planned to start an English Channel swim tonight, late today abandoned the idea, because William Burgess, veteran trainer, would be unable to accompany her.

The final try for Channel honors of Ishak Helmy, the Giant Egyptian, for 1926, nearly ended fatally for him. He entered the water at 11 o'clock last night, despite the warning of his physician, with Dover as his objective. At first he made good progress, having covered four and one-half miles in three hours.

Then suddenly he was stricken with violent abdominal pains and collapsed. He undoubtedly would have drowned but for the prompt action of Jabez Wolffe, the famous trainer, who leaped into the sea and caught him just as he was sinking.

Others who planned to start at the same time as Helmy were Louis Tinson of the United States and the German swimmer Vierkoeteen.

Mrs. Carson, who before her marriage to an American, was Amelia Gade, a Dane, is 27 years old and the mother of two children. She first came into prominence in 1921, when she swam around New York City in 14 hours and 57 minutes and later swam the Hudson River from Albany to New York City, 153 miles, in 63 hours, 35 minutes actual time in the water.

In 1923 she made an attempt to cross the Channel but failed. Recently she swam from Dover to Ramsgate in 6 hours and 20 minutes.

In her previous attempt at the English Channel Mrs. Carson, who started from the English side, got within two miles of the French coast in 14½ hours when she had to leave the water because of its roughness.

FLOOD IN HOSPITAL STOPPED

Roosevelt's Boiler Room Pumped Dry After 24 Hours.

The flooded boiler room of the Roosevelt Hospital, Fifty-ninth Street and Ninth Avenue, was pumped dry by 6 o'clock yesterday morning after engineers of the Water Department and the Edison Company had worked for more than twenty-four hours to find the source of the flood. Various water mains were shut off temporarily Thursday night, and it was finally discovered that a break in the four-inch service pipe of the hospital connected with the Amsterdam Avenue twelve-inch main line was the cause of the trouble.

More than $5,000 damage to motors, boilers and pumps was caused by the flood, according to Chief Engineer Foster of the hospital. As a result of the experience the hospital has installed a centrifugal pump in the boiler room, which is thirty-five feet below the street level.

HONORED FOR S-51 SALVAGE

The naval officers and sailors who salvaged the submarine S-51 off Block Island in July were decorated at the Navy Yard yesterday. The ceremonies took place on the bridge of the mine sweeper Falcon, the ship which was with the S-51 during most of the salvage work. The awards were presented by Rear Admiral Charles P. Plunkett, Commandant of the Navy Yard.

Lieut. Commander Edward Ellsberg, engineering construction officer, who was in charge of the diving and salvaging work, and Lieut. Commander H. H. Hartley, in command of the Falcon, received Distinguished Service Medals. The following men received Navy Crosses: Richard Hawes, chief torpedo man; James Fraser, chief torpedo man; Solomon Schissell, seaman, first class; William Wickwire, gunner's mate, and James R. Kelly, chief gunner's mate.

Cuts Cost of Electric-Light Bulbs.

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 27 (AP).—A 5 to 7 per cent. reduction in the price of electric light bulbs has been announced by the Westinghouse Electric Manufacturing Company. The cut, made possible by reduced production costs, will amount to 7 per cent. on new standard lines of lamps and 5 per cent. on all other types. It will be effective Sept. 1. Officials said the reduction would save electric bulb users of the nation approximately $1,000,000 annually.

SOFIA IS CONCILIATORY IN REPLY ON COMITADJI

Bulgaria Assures Neighbors That League Action in Balkans Would Be Welcomed.

SOFIA, Aug. 27 (AP).—Bulgaria replied today to the Balkan note in the most conciliatory terms. The adjoining States had demanded of her two things—an effective frontier guard and internal measures to check the raids of the Comitadji organizations.

Bulgaria assures her neighbors that she is as anxious as they to keep the peace and would work with them to that purpose and avoid all causes of friction.

She points out that her army and police force are not large enough to maintain a close frontier patrol.

While not bringing up the question of the Bulgarian minorities living in neighboring countries, the note suggests that they might not be totally unconnected with recent outbreaks, thus adding difficulties to any settlement.

Bulgaria says she will not appeal to the League of Nations, but she adds that there will be no opposition in Sofia should the League of Nations decide to take the entire Balkan situation in hand.

War Minister Valkoff has issued orders to all administrative and military authorities to stop raids across the frontier. He emphasizes such raids are very harmful to Bulgaria and place the country in a critical position. He asks the nation as a whole to make it a patriotic duty to prevent any further cause of trouble of that nature.

BUCHAREST, Aug. 27 (AP).—The Rumanian Government would welcome action by the League of Nations solving the present Balkan difficulties, Foreign Minister Mitilneu today informed The Associated Press, discussing the note Bulgaria has sent to her neighbor States.

Rumania has voluminous documents detailing the result of an exhaustive investigation into Comitadji raids, which she would be prepared to place before the League, said M. Mitilneu.

The Foreign Minister thinks that an accord between the Balkan nations along the lines of the Locarno Agreement and with the spirit of the League of Nations would guarantee the safety of Europe.

ACCUSED OF GIRL'S DEATH.

Cleveland Student Charged With Manslaughter in 'Love Tablet' Case.

CLEVELAND, Aug. 27 (AP).—Ermil Balanescu, medical college student and former Parisian, was charged with manslaughter today as the result of the death of his sweetheart, Dorothy Elizabeth Kirk, a 21-year-old stenographer.

This action followed a report made yesterday by the City Chemist, who found that her death was caused by a mixture of several drugs. Balanescu is accused of administering drugs, including "love tablets," to the girl. It is reported that chemical analysis of her stomach revealed traces of such tablets.

The youth, who has been held in jail since Monday, denies that he gave "love tablets" to the girl, although admitting that he gave medicines to her.

Soviet Congress to Meet Nov. 15.

MOSCOW, Aug. 27 (AP).—The fifteenth Congress of the Communist Party in Soviet Russia will be held on Nov. 15, when discussions regarding the recent split in the organization which resulted in the expulsion of Gregory Zinovieff will be held. It also is likely that the question of retaining M. Zinovieff as Chairman of the Communist International will be debated. Other subjects on the agenda are the position of the Soviet internationally, the existing economic crisis, modification of the present foreign trade monopoly and trade unionism.

WOOD INVESTIGATES ROW IN ZAMBOANGA

of the Filipinos, and hurtful to Filipino aspirations. Those behind the scenes know that it was touch and go that there wasn't a bloody conflict."

Datu Makes a Complaint.

Governor General Wood added:

"I wanted to say this in the presence of Mr. Thompson because I understand this is the first time he has had anything but an orderly reception.

"Is that so?"

Thompson replied:

"It is the first time anything out of the ordinary happened."

Major Fletcher denied the charge that he staged the Moro demonstration and tried to break up the Filipino meeting by taking Mr. Thompson away immediately to address the Moros.

Turning to Thompson, Wood said jokingly:

"Thompson, you have been a bone of contention."

Governor Wood questioned two Moro chiefs who were on the reception committee to meet Colonel Thompson at the dock regarding the false "disturbance."

Datu Mandi, wearing a white suit, tan shoes, red fez and spectacles, speaking a Malayan-Arabic dialect through an interpreter, replied:

"There was no trouble, except because of the Moros obeying the orders of Your Excellency."

"The Moros agreed to stay in front of the Provincial Building and the Christian Filipinos in front of the Rizal Monument to wait for the Thompson parade between the opposing sides to the reviewing stand. The Christian Filipinos broke this and also broke the agreement for two Moros, two Filipinos and Colonel Langhorne, representing the Governor General, to escort Colonel Thompson to the reviewing stand."

Colonel Langhorne then interrupted to say that the reason he did not escort Thompson, which might have avoided part of the misunderstanding, was that he did not know he was to be on the committee and thought that as he accompanied Thompson on the Mindoro General Wood had selected his representative on the committee.

Filipino Senate to Investigate.

MANILA, Aug. 27 (AP)—The Philippine Senate today adopted a resolution ordering an investigation by a committee of three into the alleged activities of "certain elements" in Mindanao who, the Senate believes, are engaged in creating ill feeling between Moro and Christian Filipinos in that island.

The resolution was prompted by dispatches from Zamboanga reporting differences between Moros and Christian Filipinos over the reception there yesterday of Carmi A. Thompson, President Coolidge's personal representative, who is making an economic and political survey of the Philippines.

Mr. Thompson threatened not to land if a clash occurred and expressed regret at the incident. The Filipino Governor in his speech told Thompson the Filipinos wanted him for the next Governor General.

conclusion on the power conferred over corporations in the Federal Trade Commission act until he had given more study to the subject and could determine where the line was drawn in respect to products and the finances of corporations doing interstate business.

It can be said that the President and the Department of Justice are studying this general subject in connection with the agitation for additional anti-trust laws. Those who are informed expect some recommendation from the President which will cover both subjects, and these recommendations may follow the general lines laid down by Professor Ripley and ask for specific legislation to give the Federal Trade Commission authority over financial reports.

PERTINENT CASE IN COURT.

Federal Power to Obtain Reports to Be Determined.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 27.—A case now pending in the United States Supreme Court, upon which a decision may come soon after that tribunal reconvenes in October, may have an important bearing in determining the extent of the powers of the Federal Trade Commission, in which Professor William Z. Ripley has aroused keen interest.

The case arose out of efforts of the commission to obtain information from the Claire Furnace Company and others several years ago. The various parties have argued the points at length, all centring around the nature of the authority conferred by Congress upon the commission with respect to the power to examine books.

Periodical statements were required from the corporations involved. On blanks provided for the purpose the commission sought details of assets, liabilities, monthly incomes, profits, depreciation, administrative and selling expenses, orders, capacity of operating plants, sales, prices and costs.

The commission argued that it had full authority to require the information to be furnished, for the protection of the public, and that it was not an unreasonable invasion of privacy "to require," as stated in one of the briefs, "from these corporations reports of their interstate business."

"The right of privacy," it was contended, "is not an absolute one and must give way wherever the public interest reasonably requires it. In the present case the main contention advanced by the appellee is that Congress has not the power to require corporations engaged in interstate commerce to file periodical reports of their interstate business because the information is not for use in any pending legal proceeding involving a specific charge of violation of law nor for immediate use in connection with some concrete proposal for legislation pending in Congress."

The commission furthermore contended that the act which created it gave it such broad authority as would permit it "to require information respecting these companies which is not interstate commerce, where the accounts are commingled or where the facts have a direct bearing on their interstate commerce business."

The defendants contended that the act of Congress applied to interstate movements of corporations only and did not intend to give the commission power to investigate economic conditions or require information concerning matters which it had no authority to regulate.

RODGERS IS KILLED IN PLANE CRASH

of the river and save themselves from drowning.

Officers, sailors and marines leaped into the water and floundered out to the rescue. Others tumbled into a twenty-foot navy barge and pulled out to the wreckage. The first efforts to lift the Commander out of the plane were unavailing, according to eyewitnesses. The Commander and his mechanician were conscious, but their faces showed they were in great pain.

"Easy boys," Rodgers said as they tried to lift him. "I'm caught somewhere. Go easy."

It was discovered that the engine of the plane was partly lodged against Rodgers's chest. While stalwart sailors and marines tugged and pulled as best they could in the water to free the Commander, tools were hurriedly sent for and men worked frantically with wrenches and saws. Despite their best efforts it took fully fifty minutes of labor to move the engine and release the wreckage from the Commander's leg.

Schultz in the meantime had been lifted from the wreckage and was hurried to the hospital.

Rodgers Directs Stretcherbearers.

A special stretcher used for airplane accidents was brought alongside the wreckage and sailors lifted Commander Rodgers in their arms and placed him on it. A naval ambulance was waiting when Commander Rodgers was brought ashore. He was conscious, due to stimulants given to him by members of the Medical Corps who rowed out to him.

Suffering intense agony, the Commander wrung his hands and his face took on the hue of death, but he pulled himself together and directed his rescuers how to carry him to ease his pain.

"Easy, boys. Go easy," he said. He spoke in a low voice.

No one was admitted to the hospital except those who had business within. A guard was thrown around the place and no one was allowed to intrude.

The first navy doctor to reach his side was Lieutenant J. B. Phillips, who was taken out to the plane in a navy yard tug.

Lieut. Commander F. E. Loucy of the Naval Medical Corps, officer of the day at the hospital, took charge of Commander Rodgers, who, despite his injuries, was still conscious.

"Game to the End," Says Surgeon.

"He reminded me of some of the men I treated at the front," said Lieut. Commander Loucy. "Sometimes a man would be thoroughly conscious and would ask for a cigarette. Then before you could get it lighted for him he would die. That was about the way it was with Commander Rodgers. He was game all the way through and to the very end."

Loucy asked him if there was any one he wished to be informed of the accident. Commander Rodgers replied that the only member of his family whom he could reach quickly would be his brother, Robert P. Rodgers, who was at the Harvard Club in New York.

Mr. Rodgers was promptly reached by telephone and arrived tonight.

His mother was at the family home in Havre de Grace, and his father, Rear Admiral Rodgers, retired, was in Baltimore. Naval authorities had not succeeded in locating him tonight. Commander Rodgers's wife is in Europe.

Commander Rodgers had a check in his pocket which he had brought from Washington for Lieutenant Connell, who accompanied him on his famous trip to Hawaii.

The check, water-soaked and blood-stained, was taken from the dead officer's clothes and given to Lieutenant Connell by the hospital authorities. Lieutenant Connell was one of the first of Rodgers's friends to arrive at the hospital. He was greatly affected by his death.

Shock Hastened Death of Rodgers.

Surgeons said unofficially they believed that shock hastened the Commander's death. At first they said the shock acted something like a local anesthetic and permitted him to remain conscious and to talk with those about him. Then, as the sudden dulling of senses passed away and the excrutiating agony of his injuries made itself manifest, the human body, however game, refused to stand more and he crumpled.

Until the very last, Commander Rodgers talked with those about him during his periods of consciousness. His voice sometimes sounded weak and far away, but he continued to try to appear cheerful. He did not realize how badly he had been hurt.

The announcement of his death came suddenly and sent a pall of gloom over the entire Navy Yard. Word quickly reached the Sesquicentennial Exposition Grounds, which adjoin the Navy Yard, and all exhibition flights were immediately stopped.

Governor Ritchie of Maryland and Mayor Kendrick of Philadelphia, who were participants in the Maryland Day ceremonies at the exposition, were in the Navy Yard under honorary escort by naval officers when they heard of the accident. They hurried to the hospital to offer their sympathy.

Schultz, who is 29 years old and an Aviator's Machinist Mate, First Class, had just completed eight years in the navy, and was contemplating leaving the service when certain developments caused him to remain a few weeks after his second enlistment expired. He is a native of Williamsport, Pa., where his mother lives.

Mrs. Margaret Schultz, his wife, with their two children, a boy and a girl, aged 4 and 6, was in Hammonton, N. J., when informed of the accident. She left immediately for the navy hospital.

Board of Inquest Holds Session.

When the Board of Inquest, consisting of Captain W. K. Riddle, Aide to Admiral Magruder, Lieut. Commander Eckert of the Medical Corps and Lieutenant Harrison, convened tonight, they summoned two men from the aviation field as witnesses. The names of these men were withheld. The board sat for about two hours.

At the conclusion of the session, Captain Riddle announced that no formal statement could be given other than that Commander Rodgers "met death in an airplane accident," and added:

"A Board of Investigation, which is not to be confused with this Board of Inquest, probably will be named tomorrow, and will begin at once an inquiry into the probable causes of the accident. Of course, there is no way of saying now who will be appointed to that board."

Aviators at the navy yard said unofficially that the condition of the atmosphere and the fact that the water was dead calm may have had some bearing on the crash. They pointed out that it was easy even for an experienced airman to misjudge distances in such circumstances.

MOTHER RUSHED TO RODGERS.

Started Upon News of Crash and Was on Way When He Died.

ZION HILL, Md., Aug. 27 (AP).—Mrs. John A. Rodgers, mother of Commander Rodgers, who was killed in an airplane fall at Philadelphia today, left her home here upon receiving word that her son was injured and before the news of his death was received.

She was on the way to his bedside in Philadelphia when notification came that he had died. Rear Admiral John A. Rodgers, retired, the Commander's father, was in Baltimore when the news was received. The authorities attempted to locate him.

RODGERS OF LONG NAVAL LINE.

Active Service Lacks One of His Name for First Time Since 1776.

With the death of Commander John Rodgers, for the first time in the history of the American Navy, since 1776, there is no John Rodgers on the navy's active list. Probably among the thousands of officers and men that make up the personnel of the United States naval forces there are several whose names are John Rodgers, but the family of fighting John Rodgerses, whose line of service in the navy dates back to the John A. Rodgers who served as a Lieutenant on the U. S. S. Constitution, is now bereft of a representative in the naval forces of the nation.

The Lieutenant of the Constitution, who afterward became the famous Commodore Rodgers, was the second John Rodgers of the American branch of the family. He was the son of Colonel John Rodgers, a native of Scotland, who came to America and settled in Maryland near Havre-de-Grace. Though the son of a landsman, the lure of the sea was in his blood, one of his ancestors being a John Rodgers of Great Britain, who commanded the vessel which rescued Alexander Selkirk (Robinson Crusoe) from the island of Juan Fernandez, off the South American coast.

Though many of his descendants have made distinguished records for themselves, his own and that of the man who was killed yesterday stand out as striking examples of heroism and devotion to duty that have been written largely in the annals of American naval history.

The first John Rodgers to embark on an American naval career was a ship's officer at the age of 17, a captain at 20 and "a naval officer of importance" at 24. He retired with the rank of Commodore, and one of his sons was the first to rise to the rank of Rear Admiral, a rank since attained by a dozen or more of the Rodgers family.

Rear Admiral John A. Rodgers, retired, the third of the old Commodore's full name, still lives. He is the father of Commander John Rodgers. Since 1900 five active Rear Admirals of the United States Navy have been of the Rodgers family.

Rodgers the Second Naval Flier.

Commander Rodgers was born in Washington, D. C., on Jan. 15, 1881, and entered the Naval Academy in 1899.

In 1911 he went to the Wright Flying School and was the second naval officer to become an aviator. Afterward he served as Executive Officer on the U. S. S. Nevada and then returned to the aviation branch of the service as Commanding Officer of the Naval Air Station at Pearl Harbor, Hawaii.

He was then appointed to the command of the U. S. S. Wright, flagship of the aircraft squadron of the scouting fleet. He held that post when he was assigned to the command of the San Francisco-Hawaii flight last Fall.

The flight started from San Francisco on Aug. 31, 1925, Commander Rodgers in the PN-9 No. 1 being in command of the squadron of two navy seaplanes equipped with Packard motors. A third plane, the PB-1, was to have participated in the flight but could not be conditioned in time for the start.

The PN-9 No. 3 was forced down when 300 miles from San Francisco and was picked up by convoying destroyers. When the PN-9 No. 1 had covered about 1,700 miles and had only 400 miles more to go a radio message was received from Rodgers that his ship was running out of gasoline and would probably have to descend.

This was the last heard of Rodgers and the four members of his crew until Sept. 10, when the submarine R-4 found the battered seaplane fifteen miles east of the island of Kauai, sixty-four miles from Honolulu.

Hero of Eight Days' Pacific Drift.

For eight of the ten days that elapsed from the time the plane left the Pacific Coast Rodgers and his men had been almost without food or water. They had been forced to land at sea after the second day out from San Francisco when their fuel supply was exhausted.

From then until they were picked up eight days later they drifted at the mercy of the wind and waves, yet Rodgers and his men said that at no time did they give up hope of being rescued.

Rodgers ripped off the fabric from the wings and used it for sails and also to catch rain water for drinking purposes, but other than that the seaplane was in perfect order when it was picked up.

The day after Rodgers and his crew reached Honolulu he was promoted to the post of Assistant Chief of the Bureau of Naval Aeronautics as a reward for his heroic conduct. In announcing the selection of Commander Rodgers for the position Secretary Wilbur said:

"It was made not only because of his sterling qualities as an aviator, but also because of his ability as a seaman and navigator."

Just Put at Head of New Squadron.

A "swivel-chair" job in Washington did not suit Commander Rodgers's temperament, accustomed as he had been to active duty, and early this month he applied to be transferred to active service again. On Aug. 16 he was appointed to the command of a new scouting seaplane squadron, created for experimental purposes, at San Diego, Cal.

The new squadron was to comprise two new large flying boats to be known as the PN-10 model, which is understood to be an improvement of PN-9 of Hawaiian flight fame. Other units were to have been added to the squadron later.

Commander Rodgers was not due for sea duty when he was recently transferred from the post of Assistant Chief of the Bureau of Naval Aeronautics to the command of the experimental air squadron, but greatly preferred duty at sea, where he had served fifteen years out of a total of twenty-three years in the service.

He was listed for promotion to Captain by the Naval Selection Board last July and was to have assumed his new rank when a vacancy became available.

Commander Rodgers was planning a flight with the two new PN-10 planes from Philadelphia to San Diego, Cal., via the Panama Canal, which was to have taken place in October.

WILBUR MOURNS NAVY'S LOSS.

Says Rodgers Had Bettered His Forebears' Brilliant Records.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 27 (AP).—Secretary of the Navy Curtis D. Wilbur said that he was shocked beyond expression when told of the death today of Commander John Rodgers. The news was given to him while he was attending a luncheon at the Commonwealth Club.

"I am shocked beyond expression at the news of the death of Commander Rodgers," he said. "I feel it as a great personal loss and a loss to the United States Navy. It is also a loss to the aeronautical world.

"Commander Rodgers was one of the world's greatest leaders in aviation. He was a man of ability, courage and resource, and I was happy to regard him as a personal friend. He comes of a long line of naval men, who have had brilliant records in the United States Navy since the Revolutionary War. None was more brilliant, however, than John Rodgers."

Rodgers Death Shocks Coolidge Aids

PAUL SMITH'S, N. Y., Aug. 27 (AP).—Officials and attachés of the Summer White House were stunned at the death of Commander John Rodgers at Philadelphia today. He was held in highest esteem and respect by all and his passing was referred to as an "irreparable" loss. President Coolidge had returned to White Pine Camp from the Executive Offices when word of the fatal accident was received and comment was unavailable tonight.

CATHARINE SINGER IS ENGAGED TO WED

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. M. Singer to Marry Alexander Randolph Holladay 2d.

MISS MEGEATH BETROTHED

Yonkers Girl to Be Bride of Captain Paul H. Streit—Ceremony to Take Place Early in Fall.

Mr. and Mrs. Mortimer Merritt Singer of 311 West Seventy-fourth Street have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Catharine Singer, to Alexander Randolph Holladay 2d of Wilmington, Del.

Miss Singer was graduated from the Veltin School and attended Barnard College for a year. She is a sister of Miss Elizabeth Singer, whose marriage to Herbert D. Lancaster, son of Edwin W. Lancaster of 30 East Sixtieth Street, will take place on Nov. 11 in St. Thomas's Church.

Mr. Holladay is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bolling Holladay of Wilmington. He prepared for college at the Harverford School, Haverford, Pa., and was graduated last June from the Sheffield Scientific School at Yale.

No date has been mentioned for the marriage.

Megeath—Streit.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel A. Megeath of 288 Palisade Avenue, Yonkers, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Metta Miller Megeath, to Captain Paul H. Streit, Medical Corps, U. S. A.

Miss Megeath was graduated from Miss Masters's School in Dobbs Ferry and from the University of Wisconsin. She received a Master of Science degree from Columbia University, and later took a course in dietetics at the Presbyterian Hospital. Captain Streit is a graduate of the University of Texas, the Texas Medical School and the Army Medical School. During the war he served in France.

The marriage will take place early this Autumn at the home of the bride's parents. Because of the recent illness of Mrs. Megeath only the immediate members of the two families and a few intimate friends will attend.

SOCIETY AT NEWPORT THRONGS CASINO AGAIN

Neither Bad Weather Nor Luncheon Hour Causes Crowd to Desert Tennis Matches.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 27.—There was another big gathering of Summer residents and their guests at the Casino this morning for the semi-final matches in the invitation tennis tournament. Many new York men who had come up to spend the week-end with their families were present for the first time. The majority of the assemblage went without luncheon to remain for the finish of the Tilden-Alonso match at 2 o'clock.

It was another day for storm clothes, but shortly after noon signs of a clearing of the dismal weather that has marked tournament week were hailed with joy by the tennis committee.

There was no luncheon in honor of the players. The final luncheon will be given tomorrow by Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Harding aboard their yacht, Wildfire.

The women members of the tennis committee gave another tea on the horseshoe piazza at the Casino for the players and their friends. The visitors were represented tonight among the guests at several of the large dinner parties.

F. M. Davis of New York, who is visiting his brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. William H. Vanderbilt, at Oakland Farm, looked on at the tournament today with Mr. Vanderbilt. A. J. Drexel-Biddle had as his guests M. Dorland Doyle of New York and Vincent Youmant of Larchmont. Gardner Emmons and Arthur Richardson of Boston, guests of H. G. Cushing, and Miss E. R. G. Duval of East Islip, L. I., were also present.

Mr. and Mrs. T. Suffern Tailer gave a dinner at Honeysuckle Lodge tonight for Mr. and Mrs. John Clinton Gray. Dinners were given also by Mrs. Miguel de Braganza, Mr. and Mrs. Marion Eppley, Mrs. Harold Brown, Mr. and Mrs. William Gammell, Mrs. H. H. Thorndike and Mrs. F. Lothrop Ames at their Summer homes. Mr. and Mrs. Henry Coleman Drayton gave a dinner at the Embassy.

CONEY MARDI GRAS PLANS.

Festivities Announced From Sept. 6 to 18 by Board of Trade.

Plans for the annual carnival and Mardi Gras at Coney Island were announced yesterday by the Coney Island Board of Trade. The carnival will be held the week of Sept. 6 and the Mardi Gras the following week. An elaborate display of fireworks will be given nightly from a point off the beach during the carnival, while there will be nightly pageants with many floats during the Mardi Gras.

Governor Smith, who has for ten years been a regular attendant at the Mardi Gras, has been invited as the guest of honor Thursday night, Sept. 16. That night has been designated as Fireman's Night, and it is expected that thousands of active and exempt firemen from near-by towns will be present. The Mardi Gras will close Saturday, Sept. 18, with the baby parade, for which $2,000 in prizes has been set aside.

GERMAN TRIBUTE SPURNED.

Bouquet for French Unknown Soldier' Ordered Removed.

PARIS, Aug. 27 (AP).—A policeman on duty at the Arc de Triomphe, according to the Petit Parisien, saw four women and a man, evidently foreigners, approach and lay a large bouquet of superb red flowers on the Unknown Soldier's tomb.

On their departure, out of curiosity, the policeman examined the bouquet. On it was a card, written in French and in German saying, "To the Unknown Soldier from a German youth."

The patrolman immediately reported the incident to the District Police Commissary, who ordered the flowers removed from the tomb and thrown into a garbage can.

MRS. BELMONT WED AGAIN.

Becomes Bride of Arthur White Near Reno After Winning a Divorce.

Special to The New York Times.

RENO, Nev., Aug. 27.—Mrs. Carolyn Hulbert Belmont became the bride of Arthur White of Middleburg, Va., in a ceremony performed by the Rev. J. C. Carpenter, pastor of the Reno Methodist Church, at Tahoe Tavern on the shores of Lake Tahoe this afternoon. The wedding was delayed an hour and a half because only a few of the invited guests had arrived at noon, the time set. Motor trouble and bad roads were blamed.

The bride was attired in a gown of old blue. She was unattended, while Mr. White was attended by Dr. C. W. West of Reno. A luncheon in a private dining room followed the ceremony and late in the afternoon Mr. and Mrs. White left by motor for a tour of California and Canada. They will make their home in Middleburg, where Mr. White operates a farm and devotes most of his time to his thoroughbred horses and hunting dogs.

BRITISH OFFICIALS HERE TO VISIT KAHN

WILL GO TO CALIFORNIA

Both Say They Will Seek Seats in Parliament—Leave for West Wednesday Night.

Rear Admiral E. A. Taylor, C. M. G., C. V. O., of the British Navy, who commanded the battle cruiser Renown when the Prince of Wales went to Australia and Africa, and later visited the United States and Canada, arrived yesterday on the Cunarder Berengaria. He was accompanied by Lieut. Col. Norman G. Thwaites, C. B. E., M. V. O., M. C., who was the head of the British Transport Mission in this country during the latter part of the World War.

The visitors are here as the guests of Otto H. Kahn, and will accompany him on a tour of the country which will start about Sept. 1. Mr. Kahn said last night that others who would be his guests on the tour would be Frank Crowninshield, editor of Vanity Fair; Arthur W. Loasby, President of the Equitable Trust Company, and David Gray, a writer.

Mr. Kahn said he was making the trip with the idea of getting first-hand information about conditions in the United States and also reviving old friendships in various parts of the country. He said that the party would go first to the Pacific Northwest, then down the Pacific Coast and back through Texas and the Middle West. The tour would take about six weeks, Mr. Kahn said.

Admiral Taylor and Colonel Thwaites will spend the week-end at the Kahn Summer home on Long Island.

Asked about the condition of the British Navy, Admiral Taylor said that the present need was more cruisers and destroyers. Battleships also were needed, he said, but that under the disarmament plan that was not possible. He added that it might be unwise to let the pendulum swing too far.

"What is your opinion of the reports that aircraft would make battleships useless in time of war?" he was asked.

"That is a lot of tosh," he replied. "There has been the same kind of talk ever since iron ships replaced wooden vessels. The experts claimed that battleships could not float the seas with the powerful underwater craft shooting torpedoes at them, but they did. It was necessary to increase the armor plating and put on bulges and other protections against the submarine, the same as the upperworks of the battleships will need to be reinforced against aircraft.

"How, for example, would aircraft fly 3,000 miles across the Pacific to look for battleships? When they found one it is very unlikely that the bomber could hit it. Small aircraft armed with pompoms which could fly close and blaze away might make things uncomfortable for the officers on the bridge, but they would have to take cover. Also the battleships would be equipped with very powerful anti-aircraft guns."

Admiral Taylor, who is in his fiftieth year, is taking a vacation from the navy to enter politics as a Conservative. He is a member of the London County Council and will contest the seat in Parliament for Finsbury at the next election. He said that he believed Premier Baldwin would remain in power for some time to come. The Labor Party, he added, had been taught a lesson and was breaking away from trade-unionism. The coal miners, he said, were returning to work steadily at the rate of 5,000 to 10,000 a week in Wales and Leicestershire.

Colonel Thwaites said he had been in Germany recently studying the military situation, and observed that the soldiers were being trained in small numbers to act as a complete unit in time of war. He said that it would be impossible to move large bodies of troops by daylight because of the enemy aircraft. Armies, he explained, would be divided into small units in future wars, and the movements would be made at night.

"The latest thing in commercial aviation in England," he said, "is the small airplane called 'Moths,' which can be driven by anyone after a few lessons. At present the cost of one of these machines is $5,000, but we expect to have it reduced to half this amount in a few months. The airplane takes up very little space and can be kept in a garage or a back yard easily."

Colonel Thwaites also is entering politics. He said he would contest a seat in Parliament at Shefifeld in the next election.

Yanks Win on Lazzeri's Homer; Pirates Down Giants and Reds Defeat Robins

LAZZERI'S HOMER BEATS THE TIGERS

20TH VICTORY FOR PENNOCK

Star Southpaw Holds Detroit Scoreless After First, When Three Hits Account for Lone Run.

By JAMES R. HARRISON.

Mr. Tony Lazzeri was struck with the happy thought yesterday that it would not be untimely or amiss if he should smite a homer into the right field bleachers. His idea proved correct, for this valuable contribution gave the Yanks the three runs that put the Tigers out of commission, 4 to 1.

The popular firm of Lazzeri, Pennock & Co. did nine-tenths of the offensive and defensive damage. Pennock, out to win his twentieth victory of the year, pitched a masterful, earnest and entirely satisfactory game. The Tigers scored one run on three hits in the first inning. Thereafter they made five hits, but didn't score at all.

In the last eight innings Herbert wobbled around loosely like the Rock of Gibraltar. After the first and up to the ninth the Tigers didn't push a runner past first base. In the final chukker Heilmann doubled with one down, but O'Rourke filed to Ruth and Pennock then made Pinch Hitter Wingo look slightly foolish by tossing three strikes past his broad chest.

Up to the time of the seventeenth Lazzeri homer of the season the Yanks had made no inroads on the southpaw collection of Earl Whitehill. There was no suspicion that Earl was about to assume a reclining position. With one out in the fourth he walked Gehrig but fanned Ruth, giving the rally something of a pallid look.

Lazzeri Breaks Up Game.

Bob Meusel, however, who has been hitting two points under the size of his hat band, directed a neat two-bagger toward right centre field, sending Gehrig to third. Mr. Lazzeri then picked out a nice looking pitch and clubbed it into the lower right hand corner of the right field bleachers.

Another barbed shaft was sent winging toward Mr. Whitehill in the fifth. Pennock hit a hefty single to left with one down. Gazella cracked one to centre and Pascal did the same to left centre, scoring Pennock. Manush overran the ball in his eagerness and Gazella and Paschal went on an extra base.

Here was a great chance for Gehrig to do something, but the Columbian grounded to Gehringer and Gazella was out by two minutes, elapsed time, at the plate. Ruth responded to the pleas of his fellow taxpayers by hitting a long grounder to the pitcher.

Pennock's first inning was a trifle muddy for a good pitcher like Herb. He struck out Blue, but Manush, Fothergill and Heilmann singled in succession, scoring one run and leaving Tigers on first and third.

It was a matter of no little consequence that Heilmann, at this interesting moment, took forty winks near first base and was picked off by the trusty arm of Pat Collins. Pennock took heart from this episode and nailed O'Rourke on strikes.

Another Rally Checked.

The Tigers took the crumbs after that. Heilmann opened the fourth with a single to Gazella, but again fell victim to the mighty arm of Mr. Collins. O'Rourke hunted in front of the plate and Collins's pretty throw forced Harry at second. O'Rourke tried to steal and was cut down by Pat, and Gehringer then struck out.

A double play manipulated by Lazzeri wiped out a rally in the fifth. Bassler grounded to the Italian, who lunged at Tavener on the base line. Tavener was out for running out of line and Lazzeri's toss doubled Bassler.

INDIANS TURN BACK THE RED SOX TWICE

Sherrod Smith's Homer in 12th Takes Nightcap, 5-4, After 9-3 Verdict in Opener.

BOSTON, Aug. 27 (AP).—Pitcher Sherrod Smith's home run in the twelfth inning won the second game of a double-header for Cleveland from the Red Sox today, 5 to 4, after the Indians had walked away with the first game by a 9-to-3 score.

The first man up in the twelfth, Smith sent the ball over the left field fence for the run that broke a 4—4 tie. Boston was unable to tally in its half of the inning. In the first game the Indians hammered Zahniser and Welzer for sixteen hits.

BARNES FALTERS IN 7TH

His Support Also Cracks as Buccaneers Push Four Runs Over the Plate.

By IK SHUMAN.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 27.—Bullet Joe Bush was in his rarest form here today both on the mound and at the plate. He held the Giants to four scattered hits in a pitchers' battle with Virgil Barnes and then helped decide that battle with a single in the seventh which scored one of the four runs the Pirates made in that inning to beat the Giants, 4 to 0.

The victory kept the Pirates in first place, and to Bullet Joe should go most of the credit. He pitched, as the four hits indicated, splendidly. Indeed, it was such good pitching that most of the time his teammates had very little to do, but when the occasion demanded they were equal to it. In one inning Hal Rhyne helped throttle a Giant attempt at a rally with a hair-raising catch of a liner by Freddy Lindstrom which he turned into a glorious double play.

Only One Giant Passes First.

But most of the credit is due Bullet Joe. Only once did he let a Giant get past first. And that was in the eighth, after he had got a four-run lead. Paul Florence, the Giants' catcher, hit a liner then to right centre on which he took third, but Joe stopped the threat to score by striking out Emil Meusel, who was hitting for Barnes, and forcing Melvin Ott to lift an easy fly to Kiki Cuyler in centre.

Only one other time did the Giants make a serious threat. That was in the sixth, when Rhyne came to Bush's assistance. Ott had scratched a hit past short. He was the first man up, and it seemed that the Giants had a chance to score. Lindstrom immediately lifted a liner over Rhyne's head. It looked like a certain hit, but Rhyne leaped high in the air, caught the ball with his gloved hand and fell prone on the ground as Ott, off with the crack of the bat, was crossing second. Instantly Rhyne was up on his feet and Ott was so far away from first he did not take the trouble to try to get back as Rhyne threw the ball to Johnny Rawlings for a double play.

Barnes pitched just as well as Bush until the seventh, and had received such good support that not a single Pirate had been able to get past first, although five singles and a base on balls had been wrested from the Giants' pitcher. But Barnes and his support weakened simultaneously as the seventh was started with Clyde Barnhart singling to right.

Jackson Makes Fast Recovery.

However, it was not to come for another minute, because George Grantham's hard grounder through the box, which looked good for a single, was deflected by Barnes and recovered by Travis Jackson, who forced Barnhart at second.

Rawlings hit a hard one to Barnes, who again got his hands on the ball, but this time it went straight up in the air and fell in the box. Lindstrom got it and threw to first as Grantham circled toward third. The throw was too late and by the time Bill Terry could get the ball across the diamond Grantham had reached third safely.

Earl Smith hit a slow grounder to Terry as Grantham started home. Terry threw low and badly, Florence missed the ball and Grantham scored the first run on the error, while Rawlings took third and Smith second.

Here Bullet Joe hit his single, which went to right field, scoring Rawlings. It was Joe's third successive hit. Then a double to centre by Waner and a single by Rhyne past short scored the other two runs.

The Giants will play here again tomorrow and then go to Brooklyn for two games, starting Sunday.

Pickups and Putouts

Bill Skiff, one of the Yanks' four catchers, was released yesterday to the Toronto club, of the International League. Bill will arrive two days too late to cut into the players' share of the little world's series, if Toronto should win the pennant, and he loses a share of the Yankee coin.

Combs was benched to let Paschal hit a southpaw delivery for two singles and a double.

Ruth cut loose with a healthy swat into the bleachers in the fourth, but it was foul by a foot. Then he fanned. From the sublime to the ridiculous.

Yankees Get Ruether in Surprise Deal; Six Clubs Waive on Crack Senator Southpaw

Baseball men everywhere were completely mystified by the deal. They were amazed to learn that six American League clubs had waived on the Senators' most effective pitcher, a southpaw who won eighteen games last year and already this season is one of the league's leading twirlers, with thirteen victories and only five defeats.

The price paid by the Yankees was not disclosed but it was well in excess of the waiver price. As soon as the six clubs below the Yanks in the standing had waived on the left-hander, the Senators were permitted by baseball law to make their own deal with the Yankees. Ruether will report here tomorrow.

Besides being Bucky Harris's most successful pitcher, Ruether was the only southpaw on the Capital staff. The failure of Coveleskie, Johnson and Bush to win left Ruether as the Senators' only standby.

Washington's willingness to dispose of Reuther probably means that the Senators will be repaid in kind next Winter. It is believed that this is the first step in a deal involving several players of the two clubs—something like the deal last Summer which sent Andy High to the Braves as the forerunner of the Winter trade involving Jess Barnes, Mickey O'Neil, Eddie Brown and Zach Taylor.

Reuther's age and the size of his contract may have weighed against him in the eyes of other magnates. Dutch is 33 years old and has been pitching in the big leagues for ten years. His contract is a large one and clubs like Boston, St. Louis and Chicago probably did not feel like paying $4,000 or more for a high-salaried ten-year man who may have only one or two good years left.

The Yanks will be Ruether's fifth stopping place in the big leagues. He broke in with the Cubs in 1917, was one of the Cincinnati Reds' star pitchers in the 1919 world's series and pitched four years for the Robins.

CARDS AGAIN TRIP OVER THE PHILLIES

Drop Back to Third Place as Three of Their Hurlers Fail and They Lose, 9-7.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 27 (AP).—The Cardinals' hope of winning the National League pennant was dimmed somewhat today when they lost the second straight game to Philadelphia, 9 to 7. St. Louis, which two days ago stood at the top of the league, dropped into third place after the Phillies' victory today.

Philadelphia overcame the Cardinals' lead three times and touched three St. Louis pitchers for 14 hits, one a homer by Bentley, who also got a double and a single.

CUBS MAKE IT SIX IN ROW.

Beat Braves, 5-1, as Kaufmann Yields 5 Hits—Homer for Grimm.

CHICAGO, Aug. 27 (AP).—Steady pitching by Tony Kaufmann, who allowed five hits, enabled the Cubs to defeat the Braves, 5 to 1, today and run their winning streak to six games. Genewich was hit hard in two innings, when the Cubs scored all their runs. Grimm cracked out a home run with a man on in the sixth.

HUDKINS TRIUMPHS OVER PHIL M'GRAW

ROSENBLOOM IS VICTOR

At the end of a slashing 15-round bout, fought last night at the Coney Island Stadium, Ace Hudkins, the Nebraska lightweight, received the decision over Phil McGrath, the Detroit Greek. It was a bitter, slambang battle from start to finish, with the crowd in a uproar most of the time.

Hudkins's aggressiveness and punching power won the fight for him and several times had McGraw on the verge of a knockout. Following the decision the McGraw rooters stood around the ring and hooted the verdict, but it was the only fair one that could have been given.

Both fighters were badly cut up during the bout, McGraw's left eye being practically closed at the finish. The Detroit boxer gave a very game exhibition in the face of the Nebraska wildcat's steady bombardment, but had no chance with Hudkins after the sixth round. A crowd of 15,000 saw the show and the receipts were $37,467.

Hudkins weighed 136, being one pound overweight, and McGraw 133¼. The referee was Eddy Purdy. The boys danced to the centre and Hudkins missed a wild right swing. McGraw then worked him into a corner and landed heavily with rights and lefts to the body after which they stood toe to toe and slugged with honors even, continuing the slugging after the bell.

Pounding Away at the Bell.

Ace ran out for the second and put a heavy left to McGraw's jaw, and then in some heavy infighting both landed heavy lefts to the jaw. Going in close Hudkins crashed two lefts to the body while McGraw came back with two right uppercuts to the jaw. At the bell both were pounding away with McGraw having slightly the better of it.

Ace ran out as usual for the third and there was a fierce mix-up in which Hudkins hit McGraw low and was cautioned by the referee. Ace jabbed straight lefts to the face, cutting McGraw's mouth, but a right uppercut by McGraw cut Ace's mouth as the round ended.

Ace went on the warpath as the fourth opened, crashing McGraw back to the ropes with rights and lefts to the jaw, but McGraw came back heavily, and the two were fighting with their heads down at the bell.

McGraw caught Ace wide open with right and left swings to the jaw in the fifth that had Hudkins dizzy, but he still was full of fight. One of his jabs started the blood flowing from McGraw's nose.

Ace landed crashing lefts to the body as the sixth opened and a heavy right to the body and a left to the jaw had McGraw hanging on. Ace followed this up with another heavy blow to the jaw but Hudkins let him recover and finish the round in fairly good shape.

Hudkins Crowds Rival.

Ace grinned as he ran out for the seventh to put on the finishing touches if possible. He landed a heavy right to the jaw. McGraw was staggering, but rallied gamely and threw in a couple of short swings to the jaw. He was very tired as the round ended.

Hudkins started the eighth with a series of straight lefts. In a fierce exchange Ace swung terrific rights to the jaw and lefts to the body and McGraw almost fell through the ropes just before the bell ended the round.

A series of clinches in the middle of the ring featured the ninth round, with both fighters landing heavy body blows. Ace finally crashed a left to the pit of McGraw's stomach and hen the latter in a bad way, but McGraw came out refreshed for the tenth and landed a series of left jabs to the mouth which kept Hudkins off for a time.

Hudkins backed Phil to the ropes in the eleventh and landed heavy rights and lefts to the head and in the twelfth McGraw's left eye was practically closed. Phil hung on the ropes, practically out on his feet, but Ace was wild and could not land a finisher.

Hudkins rushed McGraw to the ropes in the thirteenth and heavy rights and lefts to the body again had Phil groggy.

McGraw Almost Out.

Ace caught Phil again with a fierce left to the jaw as they came out for the fourteenth. A series of heavy drives to the body had McGraw almost out, but Hudkins was also tired and could not put over the knockout.

Ace came out like a wildcat for the final round and swung his right to McGraw's jaw an instant after they had shaken hands. Ace rushed and crashed heavy rights and lefts to the body which had McGraw reeling, but he could not stop the game Detroit boxer.

In the semi-final of twelve rounds Maxie Rosenbloom of this city won the decision over Johnny Wilson, former middleweight champion, who was attempting to stage a come-back for another try at the title. Rosenbloom weighed 164¼ and Wilson 160.

A pair of hard-hitting welterweights, Joe Marino of Staten Island and Sid Sockelyn of Omaha, slammed their way through six rounds in the second bout on the program, Marino getting the decision after having Sockelyn almost out in the final round.

In the opening bout of four rounds Irving Price of Harlem, 134 pounds, got the decision over Harry Mulcahey of Ozone Park, 132¼.

SALVIA GETS VERDICT.

Leads Sammy Fulton Throughout in Long Branch Bout.

Special to The New York Times.

LONG BRANCH, N. J., Aug. 27.—Tony Salvia of New York, weighing 145, defeated Sammy Fulton, Trenton, 144, in the eight-round final at the Ocean View A. A. here tonight. Salvia led all the way. In the semi-final of eight rounds, James Fernandez, Perth Amboy, 133, gave Johnny Dixon, Newark, 129, a boxing lesson, the battle being replete with action from start to finish.

Eddie Barton, Long Branch, 134, knocked out George Epstein of Rumson, 133, in the fifth chapter of a scheduled six-round clash, and in another Freddy Polo, Bloomfield, 145, won on a foul from Jack Williams, Norfolk, Va., 144, in the second round. A third six-rounder resulted in a victory for Mickey Driffen, Newark, 126, over Jimmy Willard, Trenton, 133, while the opening six-round bout ended with Joe Hurbelt, Newark, 130, beating Terry McGovern, Trenton, 133.

Philadelphia Weather Fair As a Rule on Date of Big Bout

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 27 (AP).—What will the weather conditions be the night Gene Tunney tries to take the world's heavyweight title from Jack Dempsey? The weather man admitted that he could not give such a long distance forecast, so he delved into his record books and found the following:

1916, partly cloudy; 1917, clear; 1918, clear; 1919, cloudy, rain all day up to 1:15 P. M.; 1920, clear; 1921, clear; 1922, clear; 1923, cloudy, showers up to 5:20 P. M.; 1924, clear; 1925, sprinkling.

In the fifty-four years of observation rain has fallen on seventeen days of this date. The average temperature for Sept. 23 is 69 degrees.

TUNNEY TO DELAY MOVING HIS CAMP

CHALLENGER IS CONFIDENT

By RICHARDS VIDMER.

Special to The New York Times.

SPECULATOR, N. Y., Aug. 27.—Dark clouds and a raw atmosphere hung over the training camp of Gene Tunney, the challenger for the heavyweight championship, here today, but the dismal gloom outdoors failed to dim the brightness that reigns in the cottage in the woods, where the mighty marine rested cheerfully between an eight-mile swing along the road and a fourteen-mile paddle on the lake.

If confidence alone makes champions Tunney will be the next ruling heavyweight of the world. Gene thinks he will win, and those who have surrounded the challenger during his days of preparation here are sure of it.

"It's in the cards, that's all, it's in the cards," Gene repeats with finality. "Champions come and champions go. By all the signs a champion is about to go."

Gorman Notes Improvement.

Bud Gorman, the heavyweight who helped condition both Dempsey and Tunney for their battles with Tommy Gibbons, and who is here helping the challenger again, is in a specially qualified position to pass judgment, and Bud declares that Gene is a far better fighter now than he was when he knocked out Gibbons, accomplishing what Dempsey failed to do at Shelby. Bud also declares that he doesn't think Dempsey is the impetuous, flaming battler that he was three years ago.

Then there is Billy Osborne, whose qualification as a judge rests on the fact that he fought alongside of Tunney in Gene's greatest battle of all, fought not in the ring but through the wheat fields of France. Billy is the genial host of the challenger here and refuses to consider the possibilities of Gene losing.

Pants Lawrence, the old scout and most famous character in the town of Speculator, is another who is certain that a new champion will be crowned, and the rest of the community follows the words of Pants as they would the sayings of an oracle.

Departure Is Delayed.

The citizens and Summer visitors at this peaceful resort have set Tunney on a high pedestal and follow his every move with awesome eyes. They were pleased to hear today that Gene's departure for his new training quarters at Stroudsburg, Pa., had been postponed and that he will be here a day longer than he had planned.

A long-distance telephone call from Billy Gibson, the challenger's manager, indicated that the departure of Tunney's party, which had been planned for Monday night, would not be necessary for an extra day because of complications at Stroudsburg.

It was not only good news to the inhabitants of Speculator, who cheered at the prospect of having the smiling challenger with them a few days longer, but it also was welcome information to Gene himself, who is well satisfied with his present surroundings and loath to leave.

Tunney tapered off in his training program today, fearful of becoming too fine in his condition before the proper time arrives. Yesterday after his six-round workout against Osk Till, Billy Vidabeck and Bud Gorman, his three sparring partners, the challenger weighed in at 187 pounds, and as he has his ringside weight at 184, he is well satisfied for the present.

Works on Road and Lake.

He confined his activities to a road run this morning and a long paddle in a canoe on the lake this afternoon. Between times he took a long rubdown from his trainer, Louie Fink, and rested in his cottage for an hour reading "Fix Bayonets," John W. Thomason's story of the marines in the war, of whom Tunney was one.

Tunney's quarters are separate from those of his sparring partners, who camp together in a cottage on the main road. The challenger has a small wooden shack to himself, with the deep woods surrounding him on three sides and the silvery Lake Pleasant stretching out before his door on the other. There Gene sleeps and dreams his solitary dreams of the future.

Dixie Kid Stops Hunter.

PATERSON, N. J., Aug. 27 (AP).—The Dixie Kid of Brooklyn stopped Gus Hunter of Englewood, N. J., in the sixth round of a scheduled ten-round bout here tonight. Referee McCoy interfered to save Hunter from being knocked out. The men are middleweights.

Grove Victor Over Murphy.

Two Victories for Cutler.

Albert Cutler defeated John Kunst, 35 to 21, in forty-nine innings in a three-cushion match at the Fourteenth Street Academy yesterday afternoon. In the evening, playing 18.1 balkline, he defeated C. Kortman, playing 18.2, 300 to 67, in seventeen innings.

DEMPSEY WORKOUT IS AGAIN TOO TAME

BUT HE IS NOT WORRIED

By JAMES P. DAWSON.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Aug. 27.—The call has been broadcast for sturdier sparring material for Jack Dempsey. The stronger and more robust are asked to come to the assistance of the world's heavyweight champion in training here for the defense of his title at the Sesquicentennial Stadium in Philadelphia against Gene Tunney on Sept. 23.

Dempsey is alive to the necessity of letting himself out in his training bouts, and likewise to the unfavorable effect of suppressing his punches.

He has to adjust himself now to hitting outbursts. He must soften his punches for the lighter men of his camp and he must accustom himself to quick changes in increasing the power of his blows as he faces heavier men. This is a task for the Dempsey who has always been noted for his inability to repress himself even in friendly impromptu bouts.

His characteristic spontaneous savagery in the past aroused the admiration of throngs. Judged on his public appearances here he has lost some of this quality. The untitiated look askance as Dempsey drills at the local dog racing track and in the open air and wonder if this Dempsey is the Dempsey of old.

Appearances Against Him.

To outward appearances he is even below the standard of the fighter who was battering his sparring partners for eight days at Saratoga Lake. For his punching is far below expectations in timing, judgment of distance and force. The underlying reason, however, is that he must exercise restraint and he must be careful to miss those blows which he unintentionally lets fly with full force, or take the risk of maiming men.

Dempsey admits the unfavorable light in which he appears in these sparring matches, but at the same time he has almost a month in which to whip himself into his accustomed fighting form, and he is not worrying as much as some of his most severe, though sincere critics.

"Let's see, today is the 27th, isn't it?" shot back Dempsey before his workout this afternoon when asked about this condition. "The fight's a good way off yet. I still have plenty of time for the real tough work and can afford to lead up to it gradually. But there is no denying the truth. I need better sparring partners. I am handicapped a little now because I don't want to hit those fellows out there and I can't let my punches go except against the few stronger ones. I have been trying to get some good men.

Sees No Cause to Worry.

"But there's no need of worrying I'll get tougher men. I have some on the way here now. And there's plenty of time to dig them up."

"What will you do in the Tunney fight, Jack?" the champion was asked.

"Why, I'll beat him, sure," shot back Dempsey. "I'm not thinking of that, either."

Dempsey went through his fourth matinee workout here this afternoon before a gathering of some 1,500 men and women, and, on the whole, he looked better than he did yesterday. The champion shone when he let himself out against the men who could absorb some of his hardest blows, and he didn't look so good against the lighter men where restraint was necessary. Yet he was up on his toes all the time, dancing in and pressing forward, bobbing and weaving, ducking and slipping punches, and all the time he was perspiring freely.

In this connection it is worthy of note that Dempsey has shed four pounds since he started working here last Monday. The champion weighed 199 pounds when he quit work last Sunday afternoon at Saratoga Lake, and it was announced this morning by Trainer Jerry Luvadis that Dempsey weighed 195 pounds.

Gunboat Smith Disappointed.

Contradictory opinions were expressed by two experienced critics on the form of the champion. Gunboat Smith, California heavyweight, whose proud distinction is that he hit Dempsey the hardest blow the champion has ever received, viewed the workout and was disappointed.

"He's not as good as the Dempsey who fought me on the Coast, or the man who fought me in Buffalo," said the Gunner, who lost the Coast bout on decision, after almost knocking out Dempsey, and who was knocked out by Dempsey in Buffalo. "He's missing too many blows, and he is handicapped by the kind of sparring partners he's got.

"I don't think the Tunney who beat Carpentier or the Tunney who beat Gibbons will beat Dempsey. But a much improved Tunney will beat the Dempsey I saw in action today. I think, however, the man who will knock Dempsey out is a good one-two puncher—the fellow who can stand up with Dempsey and slug blow for blow and then stand off and measure Dempsey with a left and cross a right with accuracy and force."

At the same time the Gunner concurred in the view of Dempsey that there still is time to attain fighting form by easy stages.

On the other hand, Harry Ertle, New Jersey's referee who officiated in the battle between Dempsey and Carpentier, expressed the opinion that Dempsey is now at the proper stage.

Harry Greb was there this afternoon, too, and while he criticized the brand of sparring partners, the former world's middleweight champion expressed the opinion that Dempsey looked better today than he did yesterday.

Dempsey Does Ten Rounds.

Dempsey's workout consisted of the equivalent of ten rounds, six of which were devoted to sparring against five sparring mates. Frankie Carpenter, Freeport, L. I., light-heavyweight, who joined the camp today, faced the champion for two rounds, alternating with Big Bill Tate, negro heavyweight, in the champion's opening three rounds. Carpenter gave Dempsey a good workout in the first round, and the crowd saw Dempsey punching viciously to the body and head.

Tate entered the ring for the second round while Carpenter rested, and the big negro, as usual, carried Dempsey along at a lively clip. The champion still is trying to connect with a left hook to Tate's jaw, but Bill, accustomed to the champion's every move and able through long years of association with Dempsey to anticipate these moves, has equipped himself with a right-arm block for Dempsey's left hooks, past which the champion has been unable to get home a telling blow.

After the Tate match Carpenter took to the ring again against Dempsey, but was not as good as in the first round. The Long Islander was stung early by a Dempsey right to the head and another which grazed the jaw and he started to sink toward the canvas, but Dempsey grabbed him and clinched with the lad until his head cleared. Carpenter had a lot of respect for Dempsey's plunging, tearing style thereafter.

Jimmy Brown, Panama negro welterweight, next entered the ring with the champion and gave Dempsey the usual task of chasing him all over, meanwhile stabbing lefts and hooking lefts to the champion's face and head.

A round with Joe Kurn, Shamokin Pa., light-heavyweight, followed, and this was devoted principally to the champion's battering his rival about the head and body, several blows grazing Kurp's jaw. The sparring closed with a round against Johnny Saxon, Bridgeport welterweight, which was spirited and lively until near the bell, when Dempsey nicked his mate with a right which grazed the jaw and made Saxon's body heave convulsively.

Then Dempsey went through a session of wrestling, tugging and mauling with Tate, and a round of body exercising and calisthenics, closing with a few vicious swings at the heavy stuffed bag. Beginning his workout Dempsey did a round on the pulleys and another at shadow boxing.

The champion enjoyed a run of five miles out on the roads near his West Atlantic City home this morning and expressed complete satisfaction with the conditions at the bungalow.

TREMAINE IN DRAW WITH EDDIE O'DOWD

Carl Tremaine, Cleveland veteran, and Eddie O'Dowd, New Jersey bantam, boxed ten rounds to a draw last night at Boyle's Thirty Acres. The battle was even all the way, neither boxer showing definite superiority in any round. The Clevelander weighed 120 and O'Dowd 117½.

O'Dowd hit with more accuracy than his opponent, but none of his punches carried any force with them. Tremaine showed a tendency to be wild, his lunges and jabs failing to come near their mark.

Tom Kirby of Boston, a former national amateur heavyweight champion, won by a decisive margin over Billy Vidabeck of Bayonne, one of the sparring partners at Gene Tunney's camp. Kirby showed boring-in ability against his bigger opponent, although Vidabeck was the more aggressive. Kirby weighed 169 and Vidabeck 171.

The Boston lad landed most of his blows going away from Vidabeck, whose leads were for the greater part blocked by deft defensive work. Kirby took almost every round but the seventh, when the Bayonne boxer rushed Kirby and found openings in his opponent's defense.

Billy White, Jersey City favorite, brought a quick termination to his scheduled ten-round bout with Roscoe Hall, New York lightweight. White knocked Hall out in the first round after having floored his opponent twice, once for a count of four and again for one of five. White's weight was 137 and Hall's 135.

The opening ten-rounder also ended in the first round, when Alec Rely, South American light heavyweight, unleashed a furious attack and knocked out his opponent, Jack Monroe of the Pacific Coast, soon after the first round started. Rely sent Monroe down with a right. The South American was at a disadvantage of eight pounds, scaling 171.

ROSENBERG GETS DRAW IN SARMIENTO BOUT

CHICAGO, Aug. 27 (AP).—Charlie (Phil) Rosenberg of New York, world's bantamweight champion, and Pete Sarmiento, the Filipino, fought a vicious ten-round draw at the White Sox ball park here tonight.

The champion scored four knockdowns in the late rounds, but needed all of them to even up a terrific beating he received in the first six rounds. The title was not at stake.

KEPPEN OUTPOINTS PISANO

Special to The New York Times.

LONG BEACH, L. I., Aug. 27.—Boxing with skill and fighting hard, Sig Keppen of Beaver Falls, weighing 135 pounds, carried off the decision over Augie Pisano of Coney Island, his equal in weight, in the main bout of six rounds here tonight before a crowd of 2,500 persons. Pisano was not outclassed very far and the bout proved full of thrills.

In the semi-final Murray Layton of New York, 123¾ pounds, outpointed Romeo Vaughan, 128, of Flatbush. In another six-rounder Joey Eulo, 114½, of Lyndhurst knocked out Bobby Bolin, 106½, of Yorkville in the last round. Bolin twice went down for the count of nine in the first round and again in the third. In two other six-rounders Milton Cohen, 122½, Harlem, outpointed Lou Presti, 127½, Yorkville, and Al Irving, 140, New York, won on points from Johnny Darcy, 133¾, of Bayonne. In the opener Jimmy O'Connell, 120, of Brooklyn knocked out Vincent Cantalon, 116, Long Beach, in the second round.

Dempsey Need Not Appear in Kearns Suit; Decision Is Reserved on Attachments

When the motions made in behalf of Jack Dempsey in the suit brought against him by Jack Kearns, his former manager, to recover $333,333 came before Justice Walsh yesterday, counsel for Kearns consented to vacate the notice for Dempsey's examination before trial. The Court then reserved decision on the applications to vacate the attachments against Dempsey's property obtained on the ground that he is a non-resident. Dempsey's automobile and $9,000 in a local band have been attached.

Richard J. Mackey, arguing in behalf of Dempsey, said that the papers fail to show that anything is due Kearns on the Wills or Tunney contract, and that the contracts themselves had not been attached to the papers. Justice Walsh inquired whether such contracts were in existence, and Arthur N. Sager of St. Louis, appearing for Kearns, said he had them and got leave to file them.

Mr. Mackey objected, saying that he wanted the motions decided on the original papers, but the Court said he would like to read the documents to guide him in deciding the case.

Attorney Sager said that there was an "absolute breach" of the Wills contract by Dempsey, and that Kearns had sued on the Tunney contract as an "anticipatory breach."

PERSSON MAY GET ON DEMPSEY CARD

4 SECONDS AT BIG BOUT

Towel or Sponge Barred as Token of Defeat—Promoter Visits Philadelphia.

The auspicious American début of Harry Persson, the Swedish heavyweight champion, in Madison Square Garden last Thursday night when he pounded his way to the decision over Johnny Risko of Cleveland in a ten-round bout, probably has earned the invader an opportunity of displaying his talents before the crowd of 130,000 which is expected to turn out for the Dempsey-Tunney bout in Philadelphia Sept. 23.

This was indicated yesterday when Tex Rickard, just before leaving for his Quaker City headquarters, stated that he had been very deeply impressed by Persson's showing and intimated that he might put him on in one of the preliminaries to the big championship fight.

Nor was Rickard the only one with whom Persson won favor. Local critics practically were agered that the future looms exceptionally bright for the Swedish battler. Although still crude, Persson showed himself to be an exceptionally fast man for his size, a good puncher and, most important of all, displayed that he had the stamina and courage to withstand a good pounding. Risko shot across a number of crushers, but they seemed not to bother the Swede in the least.

May Be at Garden Again.

There is also a possibility that Persson will be seen at the Garden again before the championship fight in Philadelphia. Matchmaker Jess McMahon said yesterday he was working on a bout for early September with Persson meeting either Harry Wills or Jack Dorval, Jack Kearns's latest heavyweight protégé.

Rickard appeared at the Garden yesterday morning only long enough to issue a few orders and then make a hasty departure for Philadelphia, accompanied by a staff of four assistants. The advance sale has now assumed such proportions that it now is occupying nearly all of the promoter's time. So tremendous has the rush become that Rickard has called a meeting at the Garden tomorrow afternoon of all those associated with him in the promotion of the fight to go over all the requests for reservations already received and complete details for handling them.

Rickard stated yesterday that he had instructed his staff to exercise every care to prevent any of the tickets from falling into the hands of scalpers, and said that every application was being carefully scanned and checked up. For a person to make application for tickets he must do more than merely send in his name. His address, business address and the nature of his business also must be given.

Following the lead of the State Athletic Commission, the License Committee, now functioning separately from the commission, considers the Jack Dempsey-Gene Tunney championship fight in Philadelphia a closed chapter so far as this State is concerned. The committee, which blocked the title bout from coming to this State by denying a license to Dempsey, met yesterday morning in the Fuller Building, but disposed of nothing more than routine matters.

When asked whether the committee contemplated taking action against Gene Tunney and ordering his license revoked in this State for agreeing to meet Dempsey, an unlicensed boxer here, Colonel John J. Phelan stated that "the matter was not even discussed." He likewise declined to discuss any other phase of the heavyweight situation.

Throwing in Sponge Barred.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 27 (AP).—With the arrival today of Tex Rickard, New York fight promoter, in connection with the Dempsey-Tunney championship fight at the Sesquicentennial Stadium Sept. 23, preparations for the contest received new impetus.

A conference with members of the Pennsylvania State Athletic Commission, the opening of the main ticket offices at 1,420 Chestnut Street with a large corps of box office experts and the working out of details to provide additional seats at the big stadium were crowded into Rickard's activities.

Following the conference with the Athletic Commission it was announced that for the Dempsey-Tunney battle four attendants or seconds will be permitted in the ring to look after each boxer. It was further agreed that the referee shall be informed that the throwing of a sponge or towel into the ring while the fight is in progress shall not be taken as sign of defeat of either fighter. This arrangement was made to avoid the possibility of having the fight stopped should a sponge or towel be cast into the ring by an outsider.

Plans for the reception to be accorded Gene Tunney were also made. The challenger is expected here Wednesday en route to his new training camp at Stroudsburg, Pa., and will arrive at Broad Street Station at 12 o'clock noon. He will be met by Mayor Kendrick and officials of the Sesquicentennial and escorted to the exposition grounds for a tour of inspection. A large number of marines now stationed here will join in the welcome.

Rudolph Wins Twice With Cue.

Erwin Rudolph won from J. Altieri, 100 to 28, in seven innings in pocket billiards at Dwyer's Academy yesterday afternoon. In the evening he outplayed T. Kimmerle, 100 to 19, in eleven innings.

SARAZEN RETAINS LEAD IN WESTERN

HAGEN EQUALS COURSE MARK

INDIANAPOLIS, Aug. 27 (AP).—Gene Sarazen of New York today retained his lead in the Western open golf championship at the Highland Golf Club with a total of 141, although he receded from his 69 of yesterday one under par, to 72 for the second round. This left him only one stroke ahead of P. O. Hart of Marietta, Ohio, who today added a 72 to his par 70.

The most spectacular performance of the day was provided by Walter Hagen, who equaled the course record of 68 and got within two strokes of the leader at 143. Hagen, with a 75 yesterday, played brilliantly today, ending his round with a 20-foot putt for a birdie 3.

Jock Hutchison was robbed of a tie with Sarazen by a misadventure at the eighteenth hole. His perfect drive landed in a divot hole, and in digging it out with a mashie niblick he pushed his ball into a deep trap whence he failed to escape in one, and was forced to take six strokes instead of a sure four and a possible three. His 70, including an excellent 33 on the first nine holes, was three strokes better than his first round, and tied him with Hagen at 143.

Smith Still Far Back.

None of the favorites disappointed their admirers today, except that MacDonald Smith of New York, defending champion, did not gain sufficiently on the vanguard to display auspicious signs of retaining his title. He had a good 72, but with his 76 of yesterday, was seven strokes back of Sarazen and a dozen players were ahead of him. Laurie Ayton of Chicago was one of them, getting a 73 to add to his 71 of yesterday.

Many of the stars came forward with better scores today. Al Watrous, runner-up to Bobby Jones in the British open, after taking 79 for the first round, covered the first nine today in 33, two strokes better than Chick Evans, who had par 35, and three better than Joe Turnesa, runner-up to Jones in the national open. All three slipped on the second nine, but Watrous got home with 71 for 150, Evans with 74 for 149, and Turnesa with 76 for 151.

Al Espinosa of Chicago played a perfect round of 35, 35—70, as compared with a mediocre 79 for his first effort. His brother Abe was only two strokes behind him today and finished three strokes ahead of Al for the thirty-six holes. Emmet French of Southern Pines, N. C., chalked up a good 71 to total 146, while Harry Hampton of Memphis, with a par 70, had a like total.

Charlie Hall of Birmingham, Ala., who had to bivouac in midfield overnight with two-score others who were unable to finish the first round before dark yesterday, shot 72 today for a total of 147. John Farrell of New York and Ruddy Knepper, Chicago amateur, who sojourned with Hall, were not so good, taking 74 each for totals of 150.

Gallett Slumps Badly.

There were some slumps today also, Francis Gallett of Milwaukee dropping from a good 71 to 79, but 90 per cent. of the contestants improved their first-round scores through familiarity with the course and the moving of the cups to the centre of the greens.

The scores:

MARS WINS 2-HORSE RACE

By HENRY R. ILSLEY.

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Aug. 27.—One of the most sensational performances during the meeting of the Saratoga Association which closes tomorrow was the winning ride of the apprentice jockey, George Hudgins, on the Sagamore Stables' colt Abul Fath in the sixth running of the Consolation Stakes at six furlongs this afternoon. Practically left at the post, Hudgins, through judgment and skill, got the son of Omar Khayyam and Virginia home in a hair-raising finish to win $2,430 for his employer. The winner was heavily played, being backed from 8 to 1 to 9 to 2 at post time.

The Consolation Stakes is for youngsters nominated in the leading juvenile stakes of the Spa meeting and is run under claiming conditions. Half a dozen paraded to the post. They proved a hard lot for Mars Cassidy to handle. They backed and filled, broke the gate and generally misbehaved. When they were finally off Abul Fath was lengths back of the others.

Twinkling, coupled with Polyangle as the W. R. Coe entry and the short priced favorite at 13 to 10, went to the front in the run down the backstretch, closely followed by the Greentree Stables' Ben Omar, another Omar Khayyam colt, and the Carlton Stables' Roi des Montagnes. Hudgins had a seemingly hopeless task ahead of him, but the negro lad used his head better than many a more experienced jockey.

Realizing that Abul Fath was carrying only 104 pounds, Hudgins did not hurry his mount and trailed until the field was rounding the turn. Then he let out a wrap and the colt began to mow down his opposition. One by one Abul Fath caught and passed them until only the green silks with the white polka dots on Twinkling remained in front.

Maiben Rides His Hardest.

Maiben saw the chestnut colt charging down upon him and rode his hardest. Hudgins went to the whip and Abul Fath bounded forward. He caught the filly, faltered momentarily, but then came on with a closing rush that landed him a winner by a length. with Twinkling, six lengths further back, closest of the others. Fractional times were: 0:23 4-5, 0:49, 1:16 2-5.

Scratches robbed the Bluff Point Handicap of its interest, only W. M. Jeffords's fine three-old Mars and the Lexington Stables' Prince of Bourbon answering the bugle, both, mudlarks. It was only a gallop for the son of Man o' War, although he was taking up his weight and conceding nineteen pounds to his opponent. He was quoted at the liberal price of 4 to 5, while the Prince was even money.

Turner had the three-year-old in hand all the way. He allowed Prince of Bourbon to set the pace until the last turn, where Mars came up on level terms. The Prince carried the Jeffords colt very wide, but the latter easily galloped into the lead and was never extended. Under the track conditions the mile in 1:41 4-5 was a fine performance.

After numerous unsuccessful attempts here the Carlton Stables' Donna Mona finally graduated from the maiden class in the claiming event at five and a half furlongs that opened the afternoon's sport. Fairbrother, who was up, got her away well and she showed an early burst of speed that carried her to a long lead. Fisher made a strong bid in the stretch with Mrs. George Read's Eurasia, but the Donnacona filly had plenty to spare at the finish. Donna Mona was the strong favorite at 9 to 5 in a field of seven.

Fraternity II Out of the Money.

Jack Richardson thought that his Fraternity II could not lose against four other platers in the seven-furlong event, and the word was passed around that the English gelding was ready. But Fator was unable to get any speed out of the horse and the favorite was out of the money. Bob Smith's three-year-old Pheasant took the track soon after they were on their way and George Fields kept him out in front to win by two lengths. Those who were aboard with Sunny Bob got 18 to 5.

Saratoga's meeting will come to a close tomorrow afternoon and getaway day will be observed by three feature events that would attract attention at any course—the Hopeful, the Saratoga Cup and the Saratoga Steeplechase.

ADAM SHOWS LIKING FOR THE HOME BREW

CLEVELAND, Aug. 27 (AP).—The Home Brew Sweepstakes, the feature event on the closing day's Grand Circuit card at North Randall, was won by H. K. Devereux's chestnut colt, Adam, a son of Arion Guy, in straight heats. Vic Fleming, the Dundas (Ontario) teamster, drove and made every post a winning one. The best time was made in the first heat, which was negotiated in 2:12 1-5.

Fleming made it a field day by winning the 2:11 trot, with The Editor, which ruled heavy favorite, and the final of the meeting, a classified trot, with Lucille Paige, the Chicago-owned mare.

J. F. Cartnall, the Hanover (Ohio) trainer, won the third event, a classified pace, with Jakie O'Connor, in straight heats.

Following the close of the meeting here, the majority of the Grand Circuit horses were shipped to Syracuse, N. Y., where the next meeting in the chain begins Monday afternoon, with the $75,000 Hambletonian Stake featuring the opening.

FRANCE OVERCOMES JAPAN IN DOUBLES

VICTORS START WITH RUSH

Taking their cue from the unexpected strength of the Japanese players on the opening day, Jacques Brugnon and Henri Cochet took no chances at all in the doubles yesterday, and as a result France goes into the final matches today of the interzone Davis Cup tennis final at Forest Hills, needing only one match to win the right to face the United States.

The Frenchmen literally smothered their opponents in the doubles match. Takeiichi Harada, who had defeated René Lacoste in their singles the day previous, teamed with Tsumio Tawara, the newcomer who had given Cochet such a struggle in singles. But they were no match for the Frenchmen.

France lost just two games in three sets, both in the last, and the doubles, which had taken on such an important bearing on the proceedings after the drama of the opening split in the singles, came as an anti climax. The French team won, 6—0, 6—0, 6—2.

Match Is Over Quickly.

The entire match was over so soon that the gallery sat still and Vincent Richards was rushed out to fill out the program by taking two brilliantly stroked exhibition sets from Zenzo Shimizu, the present captain of the Japanese forces, who was himself once a challenger for world honors.

At no point in yesterday's proceedings was there any hint of the thrill that came on the opening day when the Japanese team put up such brilliant opposition. The Frenchmen were taking no chances and immediately assumed command.

Cochet, who was thrown off his game by the speed of Tawara at the start of the first match of the tie, started off at the top in the doubles, but through the day it was mainly the superb artistry of Brugnon which carried things in favor of the French.

Brugnon, a perfect stylist, is at his best in doubles and at the net he formed a barrier with Cochet which the losers never could surmount. The gallery, on hand in expectation of another hard fight, remained to cheer a steady ripple of brilliant volleys from the flashing racquets of the Frenchmen at the net.

Japanese Rallies Fail.

The Japanese managed to carry the second and the final games of the opening set to deuce, but when Cochet and Brugnon had swept through the third game of that set at love it was apparent that they were not to be headed.

Harada and Tawara were swept off their feet in the second set. The amazing forecourt work of the French during the first set had put them back on their heels and they were able to take only six points in the six games.

Their errors, too, began to mount in this set and there never was a period during it when they even threatened to take a game.

The winners of the American zone of the play, with their backs to the wall, braced perceptibly in that final set, but the ultimate winners had gained too much of an impetus to be headed. They were stopped in the third game at last, after running off fourteen in a row, but only after the score, on Tawara's service, had gone to deuce four times.

In this game the Japanese managed to bring into action for the first time the deep, powerful drives which had been such factors for them in the singles play, several times finding an alley between the Frenchmen for scoring shots.

French Then Jump Ahead.

The stay of life was only temporary, however, for Cochet went on to take his service and, though Harada also won his for the second game for the Japanese, it was their last.

In the final game, with the French again serving, the losers pulled up from 15-40 to deuce the game and put off the inevitable for a while, but Cochet and Brugnon stormed forward to the net again and finished things off with more of the steel-cut volleys that featured their play throughout the afternoon.

This afternoon at 2:30 the final singles matches will be started, with René Lacoste facing Tawara and Cochet opposing Harada in the second, to be started at about 4:30.

The feeling now is strong that the second match will be merely for exhibition purposes, for Lacoste is in possession of too much tournament experience for the Japanese champion who nearly upset Cochet.

DEMPSEY CAPTURES TITLE BIKE RACE

WALKER FINISHES SECOND

Moves Up to Within Three Points of Bill Spencer, the Leader, Who Goes Unplaced.

George Dempsey, sprint champion of Australia, won the quarter-mile national championship race, the eighteenth of a series of twenty-four races to decide the bicycle championship of America, at the New York Velodrome last night before 14,000 fans. Dempsey defeated Cecil Walker, all-around champion of America, and Harris Horder, diminutive Australian star, in a close finish. Orlando Piani outraced Bill Spencer and Arthur Spencer in the heat to decide fourth place.

Walker, by finishing second last night while Willie Spencer was shut out, made a substantial gain on Spencer in the race for the title. Willie now only has a three-point lead on Walker, with six more races left to decide the title. The standing of the riders is as follows: Bill Spencer, 33; Cecil Walker, 30; Arthur Spencer, 27; Fred Spencer, 25; George Dempsey, 17; Harris Horde, 16; Alois Degraces, 12; Orlando Piani, 12; Reggie McNamara, 4; Alex McBeath, 3; Bill Keller, 3; Tony Beckman, 2; Charley Winter, 1; Alf Grenda, 1; Pete Van Kempen, 1.

Dempsey won the final of the quarter-mile dash by getting off in front and legging it all the way to the tape. Horder rode on the outside of Walker and held him until the homestretch was reached. Walker then got out and rode hard, finishing only inches behind to second place, with Horder third.

Vincent Madonna, Italy's premier pace follower, leading from the crack of the gun and riding a strong, steady race, won the forty-mile national motor paced championship race, the twenty-sixth of the series of thirty-six races to decide the American championship. Frank Keenan, the Boston boy, by finishing in second place, went into a first place tie with Charley Jaeger for the lead in the titular competition. Madonna defeated Frank Keenan, Victor Hopkins of Iowa, Robert Grassin, the world's champion; Jaeger and George Chapman, the American champion, in that order.

The standing in the championship now reads as follows: Jaeger, 48; Keenan, 48; Hopkins, 47; Grassin, 43; Madonna, 42; Chapman, 40.

Cup for Handicap Yachts Put Up by Commodore Ford

Commodore James B. Ford of the Larchmont Yacht Club has donated the prize to be sailed for on Long Island Sound tomorrow, off Larchmont, by yachts of the handicap class, in a race marking the twentieth anniversary of this popular division. The start will be made off the Larchmont breakwater at 1 o'clock and the Ford Trophy will go to the yacht making the best corrected time over the course. The entries will race in three divisions and the division winners will receive prizes from the Handicap Class Association. Edmund G. Anderson, Chairman of the Larchmont Yacht Club Race Committee, will have charge of the race.

SCORE OF 100 WINS TITLE FOR YOUNG

JOHNSON FINISHES SECOND

Triumphs After Tie at 99 With Vail and Boyce, Who Are Third and Fourth in Order.

VANDALIA, Ohio, Aug. 27 (AP).—Already twice a champion, Charles A. Young of Springfield, Ohio, annexed the trapshooting crown of the Western Hemisphere when he won the Grand American Handicap by breaking 100 targets at twenty-three yards, a perfect score, at the Amateur Trapshooting Association ground here today.

Second, third and fourth places were taken respectively by R. G. Johnson, Cable, Ohio; T. R. Vail, Industry, Ill., and E. C. Boice, Pontiac, Mich., after they shot off a tie of 99.

Ten shooters, tied at 98, contended for fifth and sixth places. R. M. Jenkins, Orleans, Ind., took fifth, C. L. Ritchie, Goshen, Ohio, taking sixth after two shoot-offs.

Lawrence Langners Have a Son.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Langner yesterday announced the birth of a son, Philip. Mr. Langner is a playwright and a director of the Theatre Guild.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

The opening of "Queen High" at the Ambassador Theatre, announced for next Wednesday night, has been deferred until Wednesday, Sept. 8.

The Columbia Theatre will begin its regular burlesque season tonight with "Dancing Around" as the attraction. As usual, there will be a weekly change of bill.

John Marston will succeed Louis Kimball in "The Little Spitfire" next Monday night. Mr. Kimball will be seen in another play.

Al Roberts will play the leading role in "Henry's Harem," opening at the Greenwich Village Theatre on Sept. 13.

Oscar Straus will write the score of a new musical play for the Shuberts, in which Allan Prior, seen here in "The Love Song," probably will have the leading role.

Howard Marsh and Evelyn Herbert will head the cast of "Princess Flavia," on tour, this season. Winnie Lightner has been engaged for the new edition of "Gay Paree."

MUSIC NOTES.

A young singer of seventeen, Lucretia Goddard Bush, will make her debut with the San Carlo Company as Marguerite in "Faust" on Oct. 18, in her home city, Boston. She is the daughter of Henry P. Bush, a Boston banker. Miss Bush will sing under the name of Lucretia Goddard.

The Heckscher Foundation Orchestra, under the direction of Isidor Strassner, a member of the New York Philharmonic Orchestra, will begin its rehearsals Sept. 5 at 10 A.M. in the Children's Theatre of the Heckscher Foundation, 1 East 104th Street. Three concerts will be given during the season. Boys or girls who can play instruments are invited to join.

CITY BREVITIES.

The Frank Joyce Association of the Fifth Assembly District will hold its annual outing tomorrow, when about 700 members will go to Rye Beach for athletic contests and a picnic lunch.

An Open House Day, and Gold Cup Baby Contest open to the general public, will be held at the Brooklyn Hebrew Maternity Hospital, 1,395 Eastern Parkway, Brooklyn, the first week in September.

Among those who sailed last night on the Lancastria for London was Leif Eid of Everett, Wash., holder of a Pulitzer "Traveling Scholarship to Europe." He graduated from the School of Journalism at Columbia last June, and will spend a year studying conditions in France, England, Italy and Spain.

PEGGY HOPKINS JOYCE BACK

Doesn't Want to Be Called Countess, She Says—To Act In Film.

Peggy Hopkins Joyce returned from Europe yesterday on the Cunarder Berengaria. She was on the passenger list as Countess Margaret A. Morner, but said she preferred to be addressed simply as Miss Joyce.

While stepping on the tender at Cherbourg the actress sprained her left ankle and had to be treated by Dr. J. D. Doherty, the senior surgeon of the ship. When she left the Berengaria Peggy Joyce said she was suffering with a pain in her ankle and an ulcerated tooth. She will begin work on a picture here next month.

Florrie Le Vere Wed at Midnight.

Special to The New York Times.

GREENWICH, Conn., Aug. 27.—Florrie Le Vere, vaudeville actress in Keith's circuit was married to Lou Haudman, song writer of New York last midnight. The wedding party at an inn at Larchmont was kept waiting four hours when the couple was unable to locate the town clerk. Dixie Hamilton, actress, was in the party.

CIVIC THEATRE'S REPERTORY

Eva Le Gallienne to Offer Six Plays Between Oct. 18 and Dec. 13.

Eva Le Gallienne announced yesterday the production schedule for the first ten weeks of the forthcoming season of the Civic Repertory Theatre in Fourteenth Street. Between Oct. 18 and Dec. 13 Miss Le Gallienne will make six productions, including four plays in which she has not previously been seen.

The opening play will be Benavente's "Saturday Night," and will be followed the next night—Oct. 19—by Tchekov's "Three Sisters," which was prominent in the repertory of the Moscow Art Theatre. On Oct. 25 Miss Le Gallienne will revive Ibsen's "The Master Builder," which she acted here last season, and on Nov. 8 she will again act "John Gabriel Borkman," which she also played here last year. Goldoni's "La Locandiere" will have its first performance on Nov. 15, and "Twelfth Night" will be produced on Dec. 13, with Miss Le Gallienne as Viola.

These six productions will be played in varying sequence during the first ten weeks of the season. Another series of plays, to be announced later, will be offered during the second ten weeks, beginning Dec. 27.

WOMEN BACK PLAY VENTURE

A play-producing venture, said to be backed by women's clubs representing a total membership of 5,000, was announced yesterday by the Threshold Matinée Theatre. The new enterprise is an offshoot of the National Threshold Theatre Association, organized last year by Mrs. Clare Tree Major. The organization is on a non-commercial basis and it announced that it will confine itself to plays which are "so original and so good that the average producer would never dare to present them."

There will be four matinées weekly at the Princess Theatre—Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Friday—beginning Nov. 1. Among those announced as pledging their support to the venture are Mrs. Harry Thomas, Mrs. Esther Leigh, Vice President of the Century Theatre Club; Mrs. Howard Doane, President of the Clio Club; Mrs. William Foster Rowland, Mrs. M. Locke Pray, Mrs. Emma Kip Edwards, President of the Colonial Club and of the Daughters of New Jersey in New York; Mrs. Fred Joel Swift, President of the Fortnightly Literary Club; Mrs. William M. Ferguson, President of the Jackson Heights Woman's Club; Mrs. William Cumming Story, President of the National Emergency Relief Society; Mrs. Otto Hahn, Vice President of the New York State Woman's Literary and Civic Association; Mrs. Albert Snowden, Vice President of the Phalo Club and President of the Theatre Club, Inc., and Mrs. Edward Burdick, President of the Rejuva Club.

'Requiem' Heard Again at Stadium.

Verdi's "Requiem" was given for the second time at the Stadium last night under the direction of Willem van Hoogstraten by the Philharmonic Orchestra and the chorus from the Oratorio Society, trained by Francis E. Marsh. The same soloists as on the evening before participated. Although some of the women's voices seemed to be lacking, the singing in general was even better, and certainly more devotional, than the night before; it was less operatic and therefore more truthful and moving. Tonight there will be an orchestral performance at the Stadium, featuring the First Symphony of Brahms.

"Number 7" Opens on Sept. 8.

"Number 7," an English mystery play by J. Jefferson Farjeon, will open at the Times Square Theatre on Wednesday night, Sept. 8. The play is being produced by Earl Carroll. Simultaneously it is announced that Mr. Carroll's production of "Laff That Off," which had been announced to end its run at Wallack's Theatre, will instead be continued indefinitely.

A NOVELTY IN PLATFORM-MAKING.

A happy thought has come to the Republican managers in this State, at their wits' end as they are over the question how to "straddle" the prohibition issue in their party platform. The bright idea is to have the thing written by a large committee, numbering as many as fifty members. This might be said to be, as the New Jersey Court of Errors and Appeals was once described, too large for a jury and too small for a mass meeting; but the Republican leaders seem to think that it will serve. It will be so truly "representative" of all shades of Republican sentiment! But if it is, it will be unable to agree. This is because there is only one plank in the platform at all in controversy, but that controversy goes deep and wide. It is the division between Wets and Drys which has been thrust like a sword into the Republican Party of New York. The two factions can no more be mixed than can oil and water. If the harmonious fusion cannot be efficient by a committee of thirteen, it cannot be by a committee of fifty. The latter would only increase the possibilities of quarrel and uproar.

Platform-writing is one of the oldest and best understood literary arts in the United States. It has boasted several eminent practitioners. For many years the late CHARLES EMORY SMITH of Philadelphia was the most famous author of Republican national platforms. Of course, they always were solemnly reported out by the Platform Committee of the National Convention, but had usually been put into nearly finished form beforehand. Some innocent member of the Platform Committee would draw a manuscript out of his pocket and say, "Oh, by the way, I've got the platform here." Minor changes were frequently made in the original draft, but ordinarily the work of the nominal committee in charge of it was superficial and perfunctory in the extreme. Politicians have many amusing stories to tell about the way in which some powerful delegate would "slip in" a little plank of his own quite "unbeknownst"; but as a rule everything was cut and dried, and until recently it has been supposed to be a mark of political verdancy to imagine that the Platform Committee has really anything to do with the platform.

If New York Republicans think they can change all that, it will be highly diverting to watch them in the process of trying to do it. At first it seemed to be thought that the proposed committee of fifty would fairly represent the cleavage between Greater New York and the counties to the north. Here the party would be Wet; above the Bronx it would be Dry. But already this neat bisection is challenged, and challenged from up-State itself. Republicans in Buffalo, Syracuse, Rochester, Albany and other of the larger cities resent the assumption that they wish to have either a Dry Governor or a Dry platform. It is even reported from some counties where the population is almost entirely rural that the Dry sentiment is so rapidly drying up that unless some kind of astute wink is given in the platform the Republicans may lose two or three Representatives in Congress to the brazenly Wet Democrats, even in what had been supposed to be Republican strongholds.

If this novel Republican plan of making a platform by a multitude of counselors is persisted in, all the old jokes about party platforms will have a good chance to be revived and given a fresh run. It will be said that a candidate, of course, stands on the platform of his party: how else could he trample it under his hoofs? But the matter bids fair to go far beyond joking for the New York Republicans. They have on their hands, in the rising dispute over prohibition, a renewal of what that New York Republican of other days, WILLIAM H. SEWARD, called "an irrepressible conflict." It cannot be avoided. It cannot be straddled. The party must be one thing or the other in its leadership and declared purposes. The issue will stay up until it is settled; and it cannot be dodged even this year by a committee whether of five or of fifty.

PRESSING AVIATION FORWARD.

The new Assistant Secretaries of Aviation—the three guardsmen of expansion—were on view at the dinner of the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce of America. As speakers they gave encouraging promise of performance. Mr. DAVISON for the War Department pointed out that development must wait on appropriations. There is a five-year program, a committal, that is, by Congress, and it involves a pledge to find the money. Critics of progress must bear in mind that bricks are not made without straw. Expansion will probably be steady even if gradual. Mr. DAVISON testified:

> The industry is today performing its task—producing planes and equipment unsurpassed by any in the world. The future holds out to the producers an ever-increasing opportunity for service to the nation on the one hand, and promise of sound growth and development on the other. In meeting this problem the Government should make every effort to avoid entering into competition.

Mr. E. P. WARNER, the Navy's Assistant Secretary, pleaded for high quality of material and workmanship. There are no "keep-off-the-grass" signs attached to any of the types of planes the department wants. But he reminded the country that "in case of the coming of war there is no recipe for an over-night raising of the standard of design if the background of continuous engineering study does not exist." The American genius for aeronautical engineering which he spoke of was not manifested conspicuously during the war. The country will not put up with another exhibition of haste and waste. Mr. W. P. MACCRACKEN of the Department of Commerce said a happy thing when he declared that two omissions of the Aviation act should never be supplied. There was no provision for subsidies, and authority was not vested in any governmental agency to regulate rates or service:

> If commercial aviation will render an economic service worth what it cost, the subsidy will not be necessary; and if the men engaged in aeronautics set for themselves a high standard of business ethics, it will not be necessary for any governmental agency to attempt to regulate either rates or service.

All this was very handsome, and the earnestness of the speakers left no doubt that they have their heart in the work and will not spare themselves. It remained for Major L. D. GARDNER to add a sobering note. There was to be a hard road to travel before America could be first in the air. He had been making the round of the European workshops and air fields. He declared that only by intensive utilization of equipment and all the Government aid available could air transportation be made to take its place in the United States as a dependable service.

DOINGS IN NEW HAMPSHIRE.

Wherever Senator MOSES is, there is sure to be fun. After the Illinois and Pennsylvania generosities, no candidate for Senator anywhere is likely to be impetuously lavish in expenditure. New Hampshire is bright with buttons bearing the legend, "Unpaid Moses Worker." Aspirants vie with one another in openness of virtue, rigid bookkeeping, closeness of fist. Frugality is prescribed. At any moment we expect to hear that former Governor BASS, chief competitor of Mr. MOSES, has "laid off" his chauffeur, locked up his limousine, and is going among the plain people in his own plain Ford. Meanwhile, he proclaims about twice a week that "the first effective Corrupt Practice act was passed" in his Administration. He has just offered $3,500 for evidence that will convict any person of the illegal use of money in the September primary or at the election.

A Dover Republican, so eminent that we never heard of him, has come out for BASS because "capitalists from other States are the chief contributors to the Senator's campaign fund." Who are these impudent outsiders? Their names will have to be published and JIM REED will get them if they don't watch out. The main contribution from the outside that we have noticed comes from the colleagues of Mr. MOSES in the Senate. Of course, they want him re-elected. What should he be called, the sunbeam or the scorpion of the Senate Chamber? They give him, so to speak, their prayers. These have been collected in a pamphlet which every voter has received. Nobody has sent us a copy, but Colonel FRANK KNOX'S Manchester Union breaks into this delirious jazz:

> Democrats and Republicans, Ransdell from the alluvium of Louisiana where the richly variegated ocelot of the palpitating swamps sends through the aisles of ancient cypress northward his screech to greet the soberly garbed bobcat sunning on the granite backbone of Waumbek Methna, hopes New Hampshire will return Senator MOSES. COLE BLEASE from the fiery Palmetto State, STEPHENS of Mississippi that guards the grave of JEFFERSON DAVIS, SHIPSTEAD of Minnesota, sole bearer of the banner of the Farmer-Labor Party; FRAZIER, the Non-Partisan Leaguer of North Dakota, all express admiration and regard for MOSES of New Hampshire. Perhaps not the least notable tribute is from that distinguished American, that great barrister, that statesman as unafraid as MOSES'S self, REED of Missouri, Democrat of Democrats.

From some of these friends Mr. MOSES may pray to be delivered, for purposes of this campaign. The ocelot and bobcat looked suspicious. Was Colonel KNOX spoofing? You were almost sure he was when his newspaper yesterday discovered nineteen Burns detectives wandering in New Hampshire, questioning politicians, carrying on openly a secret investigation into primary expenditures, agents of an as yet unrevealed organization. But doubt of Colonel KNOX'S seriousness soon vanished. Mr. JAMES W. REMICK, the third Republican candidate for Senator, tells the Anti-Saloon League that some months ago a Democrat, "high in the counsels of his party," offered to have him "endorsed" by that party if he would be false to the Eighteenth Amendment and the Volstead act. Mr. REMICK replied that if Democrats, Republicans and Progressives offered him their combined endorsements on such terms he would say to them: "Get thee behind me, Satan!"

The nineteen detectives are probably looking for Satan in behalf of the New York Historical Society, which is naturally eager to keep this old patron of New York at home. The detectives won't find him. New Hampshire is too "poor pickin's" for his genius. He won't wander from his own fireside.

MAKING LONG ISLAND MORE ACCESSIBLE.

The newly formed Long Island Chamber of Commerce outlined on Thursday some of the many tasks which it might undertake in order to improve conditions on Long Island. Of these it especially stressed the building of more highways. Obviously the Chamber has as its ultimate objective the general prosperity of Long Island, which implies greater earning power, and also a larger population. In such a program roads—and better railroad facilities—are of vital importance. But it should not be overlooked that everything which helps lure more people to Long Island, either as visitors or as temporary or permanent residents, puts a heavier strain on the approaches to the Island. Great as is the need for more and better roads in the central and eastern sections, the necessity of widening and improving the main roads that lead to the Fifty-ninth Street Bridge and into Brooklyn is even greater. The new boulevard toward Jamaica now being built will be of help. But it is by no means enough to do away with traffic congestion. Broad highways leading in along the North Shore, and the South Shore as well, are needful, so that the great bulk of the traffic will not centre in Jamaica.

It is essential to eliminate the narrow passages on the Merrick Road that feeds so much of the South Shore, and on the road from Flushing to Queens Plaza that takes much of the North Shore traffic. The Merrick Road in particular is still a disgrace to Long Island. The combination of limited roadway, grade crossings and junctions with other main lines of traffic makes the congestion on it so heavy that during the rush hours it is often impossible to cover more than a few miles in an hour.

Before devoting attention to attracting more automobiles and more residents, it would be well to concentrate all possible influence on the improvement of the main feed lines, so that people can get to and from Long Island in a reasonable time. Further development is inevitable. Doubtless it will be of benefit to Long Islanders; but unless it is preceded by widening the principal routes from Manhattan and Brooklyn it will serve only to add to the discomfort of all who at present have occasion to visit or live on Long Island.

OTTOMAN ATAVISM.

Whatever the effect of MUSTAPHA KEMAL'S policy of punishing to death his political enemies may be at home, it is seriously damaging his reputation and that of the young republic abroad. It may be said in extenuation that the Turkish view of life is less humane than that which prevails in the West. Of TAMERLANE, who overthrew BAYAZID, the Osmanli Emperor called "The Thunderbolt," in a memorable battle at Angora, it was said that he did not lament even the deaths in his own army; and there was no good reason, added his biographer, why a good Moslem should lament them. It was their happy fate. But it was a fate which he denied BAYAZID, the predecessor of MUSTAPHA KEMAL, for instead of killing him the victorious TIMUR the Lame had his captive put in a litter surrounded by bars "like a menagerie cage" and carried about, wherever his jailer captor went, like a jungle beast, until his haughty spirit was broken and death came to release him, "the most cruel fate imaginable for such a man."

Our Western codes, political and moral, to which it has been hoped the Turk was gradually conforming his ways, look with disapproving horror upon such summary means as MUSTAPHA has used to rid himself of the political leaders who have not entirely sympathized with his policies. Let it be admitted that these victims would probably have been as remorseless in their dealing with MUSTAPHA had they secured the upper hand; let it not be forgotten that they were of the group of powerful young Turks who led their country into the World War on the side of the Central Powers; let it be remembered, too, that it was the brutal hand of those who organized and led this group in the days of its triumph that murdered Armenians and oppressed the Arabs; and let it be kept in mind that two of the greatest of these leaders were assassinated by the Armenians whom they sought to exterminate. And yet, with all this, the act cannot be condoned by the thought of civilized communities in this century. Five centuries ago the Ottoman sovereign began a practice, which in another century was formulated into a law of the State, which declared it to be a "solemn obligation" of the new ruler on seizing the throne to murder his brothers that there might be no danger of the division of the empire through amicable arrangement or by forcible opposition. Though nominally President of a republic, MUSTAPHA KEMAL Pasha has not wholly freed himself from the despotic ways of those Osmanli emperors upon whose splendid tombs of blue and green and lapis lazuli, in beautiful Brusa, he still goes to hang his banners of remembrance and reverent homage.

There was a concession, to be sure, to Western practice in this uncivilized disposition of political enemies. The accused men were given a trial before the "tribunal of independence," but the impression of vengeance rather than of justice which was given the modern world a few weeks ago by the thirteen bodies hanging from the gibbets on the quay of Smyrna, against the background of the burned city, has been deepened by the sentence of a political court. It will have the effect in this country of alienating the sympathy of many who have been urging the ratification of the Lausanne Treaty as a means of bringing America into more helpful relations with the supposed westward-looking democracy of Turkey and of strengthening opposition to it. It can only be hoped that there was more justice in the judgment of the court than is to be inferred from the partisan nature of the indictment.

HALIDE HANOUM, who has done so much for the freedom of her Turkish sisters, gave to MUSTAPHA KEMAL Pasha "before his full powers were proven to all," as the author of "An Englishwoman in Angora" has stated, the following epitaph, found on the gravestone of an old Turkish padishah:

> I was not appointed to rule over a rich but over a poor people scantily supplied with food and clothing. For the Turkish race I slept not at night, I rested not by day. I worked for my people till death.

But she is now in virtual exile because of her hostility to some of the policies of the Government, and one wonders whether the words with which she defined the purposes and sacrifices of MUSTAPHA KEMAL still accurately represent his attitude, now that he stands secure in his full fame.

What was once written by some Turkish poet concerning peoples is true of individuals: that "many linger who are counted by man as dead." These condemned men might, living, have been wisely led to help build and solidify a republic, while their death may but tend to divide and weaken it. It is not the way of a true democracy, as it was of the early Ottoman Empire, to require a "solemn obligation" on the part of its Chief Executive to take such fierce measures as did BAYAZID I to prevent opposition and insure a united people.

RESPONSIBILITY FOR MANUSCRIPTS.

The frequent failure of publishers, theatrical producers and magazine editors to return manuscripts has long been a source of complaint by authors. Considerable confusion exists as to the degree of responsibility incurred. A case recently decided in England has special relevancy.

One JOHN SUMMERS sued Mr. BROMLEY CHALLENOR, a comedy actor, for the return of the MSS. of two farces. The actor, it appears, had acknowledged their receipt and had promised to read them. Counsel for Mr. CHALLENOR submitted that if manuscripts were sent to an actor without being asked he incurred no liability; but the Judge held that by having written promising to read Mr. SUMMERS'S efforts Mr. CHALLENOR had to some degree incurred responsibility for safe custody. He therefore awarded Mr. SUMMERS the cost of having fresh copies typed. Mrs. CHALLENOR in giving evidence remarked: "We have dozens and dozens of play manuscrip's sent us. We have a cupboard full of them at home."

A publisher or play producer undoubtedly is in a somewhat awkward position. He knows that a great amount of the material submitted to him is certain to prove the veriest trash, the work of earnest but misguided amateurs lacking both talent and technique. He hesitates, however, to issue a statement that no unsolicited MSS. will be read, because he never knows when a diamond will be turned up in the midst of the dross. Yet, if an enormous number of manuscripts are handled, there is always the possibility of a few being lost.

Play producers are particularly swamped by offerings, because for some reason the amateur who would never dream of writing a novel or an epic believes cheerfully in his ability to make a successful play. He does not know that playwriting is a peculiarly difficult art. The inference in the English case is that a producer would not be legally responsible for an unsolicited MS. if he gave no written undertaking to read it.

SWEDEN'S EXPERIENCE WITH CRIME.

Since capital punishment was abolished in Sweden, five years ago, murders have decreased and the number of life prisoners has also gone down. So states Dr. VIKTOR ALMQVIST, head of the Swedish penal system. For the decade 1870-80 murders and manslaughters averaged 60 a year, whereas in the years 1922-24 the average was between 19 and 20. Fifteen years ago there were 69 "lifers" in the Swedish jails. At the beginning of this year there were but 27.

Even before the death penalty was discontinued in 1921 there had been a steady decrease in serious crime. In 1846-55 murder cases averaged 16.6 per million inhabitants, whereas in 1922-23 the figure was 1.36. In 1921 life sentences numbered 1.84 per million inhabitants; the next year 0.51, in 1923 0.71, in 1924 0.66. Consequently Mr. ALMQVIST infers that the menace of a lifetime in prison has been more effective than the death penalty as a preventive of crime.

In general, "lifers" are among the best-behaved prisoners. The majority are young when convicted, and as the Government grants pardons for good behavior the average time actually served is less than twenty years. Relapses by liberated prisoners are rare. Mr. ALMQVIST recalls only one case, a gypsy who was later convicted as receiver of stolen goods. Only two Swedish prisoners now in for life are suffering from mental breakdowns. No woman is now serving a prison term for life in Sweden, but two were pardoned last year.

It is not safe to assume that the decrease in the number of murders was due to the abolition of capital punishment. The Swedish system of control of the sale of liquor may have been partly responsible for the smaller number of murders and homicides. There may have been still other factors. At any rate, the number of murders was not increased, as was feared by some that it would be, by doing away with the death penalty.

A CORRECTION.

A statement was made on this page, August 18, that the average circulation of THE NEW YORK TIMES is 370,000 daily and 625,000 Sunday. These were gross round figures. The net paid circulation of THE NEW YORK TIMES for the three months ending June 30 was 360,841 daily and 602,034 Sunday.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Sages Should Shun Interviewers.

It certainly needed no Hindu avatar or reincarnation to tell Americans that they have no music in their souls, and are fit only for treasons, stratagems and spoils. They have been informed of that unpleasant state of things by many ordinary tourists, and even by divers of their own countrymen. No foreigner ever said anything about our esthetic deficiencies sharper than were the repeated comments of the late JOSEPH PENNELL, who took delight in bewailing the low condition of art in America, and perhaps equal delight in making it the residuary legatee of his estate.

Not long ago there was quite a movement of our dissatisfied young intellectuals toward Europe and even the Orient. They thought that there they could find the "rhythm" of inward beauty and tranquillity which they could not discover here. So they shook off our sordid and bourgeois dust from their feet and sailed across the seas in search of freedom and expansion for the life of the body and the soul.

Most of them returned, rather sheepishly and furtively. If they then had any lectures to give, it was on the shortcomings of foreign nations, not their own. They were not unlike KEYSERLING, who made his philosophic travels around the world in quest of a deeper philosophy, but came back with nothing better than he had packed in his own bag when starting.

Making England Brighter and Richer.

With a cordial enthusiasm that should influence American tourists in other years, the Federation of British Industries has adopted the slogan, "Come to Britain." Of all the passengers who landed from the United States in the United Kingdom during 1925, about three-quarters were tourists. Many of these visitors are content to pass but a few days in England. Then they rush on to the Continent. Most of them spend most of their time in France.

Vacationists can find much to instruct and entertain them in Britain, according to the Federation. History and romance have their roots in all the cities as well as in the countryside. Novelty, beauty, comfort, good food and drink are promised to visitors. No barrier of language rises between the tourist and his desires, as may be the case in other European countries. The welcome that is offered is the heartiest imaginable.

There is nothing coy, coquettish or reserved about it. They say frankly that they are glad to have us come, and they want us to stay longer. If we spend most of our vacation time and all of our vacation money in France one Summer, we ought to find pleasure and possibly a happy throb of virtue if we spend all of both in Britain the next.

Altering When He Alteration Finds.

The Psalmist who praised the man that swore to his own hurt and changed not hadn't much acquaintance with United States Senators. "They didn't know everything down in Judee." Down in Idaho they know a great deal more—at least, on which side their political bread is buttered. The case of Senator GOODING is in point.

In the Senate he voted for our joining the World Court, but in Idaho has just accepted a renomination on a platform declaring irrevocable opposition to the Court or any other "alliance" with European nations. He cheerfully announces that if he had the opportunity to vote over again, "it would be against the World Court."

This is frank if not very noble, but the Senator makes the mistake of giving his reasons. This is always a blunder, as the English Judge told the incompetent member of the judiciary in one of the colonies. "Decide, but never say why." Senator GOODING has made his decision, but the reason he assigns for his change is "the attitude of the French people toward the United States on the war debt." But there is nothing new in this. It was as evident when the Senator voted for the World Court as it is today. He must know that everybody will seek the true explanation of his shift in unwillingness to go counter to Senator BORAH, and party organization, in his own State.

More Heat or More Clothes.

Some surprise has been caused in England by the statement at the recent congress of scientists in Oxford that Americans are acclimatized to a temperature six degrees warmer than Englishmen. The English, said one of the lecturers before the physiology section, are most comfortable at a temperature of 64 degrees, the Americans at 70 degrees Fahrenheit. He lays this difference to the prevalence of steam heating in America.

It is difficult to distinguish between cause and effect. The instinctive response of the American who has frozen in English houses is that the difference is largely a result of dress. The English wear thicker suits and more wool than do the Americans. Otherwise, they would surely die of lung and throat diseases, as the so-called fires which they burn in their grates are, in the opinion of Americans, more ornamental than useful. To be sure, they make up for it by internal warmth. But Americans living in England, even in Summer, have been forced to adapt themselves to local conditions and to wear much heavier clothes than they would at home.

Probably the difference in preferred temperature can be traced to the generally cooler and more equable English climate. With our intensely cold Winters it is impossible to dispense with artificial heating to the extent that the British do. At the same time, our very hot Summers make it out of the question to wear heavy clothes all year round. We have by necessity adapted ourselves to more warmth. They have found it easier—and cheaper—to live in a cooler temperature.

Notices to Bondholders.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I recently applied by letter to eleven of the largest corporations, giving them the numbers of certain of their callable (bearer) bonds, with the names of the owners, and requested them to put such names on a list to be notified by mail in case the bonds were called before maturity. Three agreed to do it. Eight practically refused, using such excuses as "We will not undertake to keep such a list," "To get notice, you must register your bonds," &c.

There can be no reason for not keeping such a list. It would not be, of course, a list of all holders of bearer bonds, but only of such as requested in writing that notice be sent. The cost and the trouble to the corporation would be negligible, but it would save much worry, and to many it would mean the saving of six months' interest. A corporation having convertible bonds should also take care of the owners by mailed notice.

I believe Mr. Heaslip is wrong when he attributes first use of the name "The Fifth Estate" to Mr. Travers and Mr. Crowell.

I have a reprint of a lecture entitled "The Fifth Estate" and delivered by Dr. Arthur D. Little in connection with the Centenary Celebration of the Founding of the Franklin Institute and the Inauguration exercises of the Bartol Research Foundation, Sept. 19, 1924, and published in the Journal of the Franklin Institute, Vol. 198, No. 5.

FIRST SIGHT OF THE WEST.

From a Maxfield Parrish sky
That strikes the canyons crimson
As it piles the distance high.
Where the twisted pines on the mountain top
Bow down to the northern gale,
And the rugged rocks mount purple guard
Over the wooded vale.

As pale as a fog at sea,
And clear as the bowl of a crystal cup,
And cold as eternity.
Where the shadows play through the netted trees
Like the tones of a Paisley shawl,
Creeps up to the mountain wall.

I'm out in the West, with a horse to ride
Where the trails are calling me
To claim the beauty and the wealth
Of sun and sky and tree!
At home I live with the works of man,
Where the pavement spurns the sod.
But here for a month I'm a pioneer
In quest of the works of God!

REWARDS FOR PEACE.

Plan to Make Debt Cancellation Subject to International Amity.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In regard to the war debts owed by the European nations to the United States, I think that, regardless of the legal or moral aspects of the case, there is no doubt that their existence will continue to cause ill-feeling toward us as long as any part of them is outstanding. On the other hand, if the United States were to cancel these debts, it would enhance the credit of the European nations and furnish them with the necessary funds to prepare for further wars.

We have dealt fairly with all of our debtors, but, regardless of this fact, they will never feel that we have done so. Would it not, therefore, be the sensible as well as magnanimous thing to prove to Europe that we are not Shylocks, and that the peace of the world means more to us than all the money they owe for their war debts?

Why would it not be wise to propose something of this kind to the European nations: That, if they will pay their obligations, as they have agreed to, for a period of thirty-three years—one generation—without war or preparation for war, the United States will refund the whole amount they have paid in these thirty-three years, together with the interest they have paid thereon, and cancel the then remainder of their debt to us? In other words, show our debtors that we are willing to cancel their debts if this money is used for upbuilding their own countries, and not for belligerent purposes.

The existence of these debts will always make it easy for a combination of these nations against the United States, which might eventually lead to war should the chance of winning seem probable. Japan might also be in a proper frame of mind to act with such a combination. It is not difficult to unite peoples having a common grievance. A successful war against us would not only mean the abolition of all their obligations, but an indemnity compared with which what Germany was originally asked to pay would seem a mere bagatelle.

Looking at it strictly as an investment, would it not be worth its cost to us to have peace and a friendly and prosperous Europe for thirty-three years or longer? We have the brains, energy and capital, and during that time our increased business with Europe would repay many times the $10,000,000,000 they owe us.

Lebanon, Pa., Set Right.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Having a feeling akin to that of seeing a foreigner pull the eagle's tail, may the writer crave your indulgence for a few seconds of time? Only with the hope that it may result in a few minutes of thought—even afterthought. The article in your Sunday's issue, referring to us must be met with a murmur from at least one of us.

It seems your "Sesqui" correspondent was trying hard to be funny at our expense. * * * It is scarcely a month since eighty-eight little children from the tenement districts of your city were entertained here in private homes throughout the county willingly and gladly. And now we are pictured as a "hick" town!

Friday half-holiday is observed throughout the Summer months, but last week it was so arranged that all stores and other places of business should close down for the entire day to visit the Sesqui. Going to Philadelphia or New York is a common occurrence with us, there is such excellent train service. If the motor is not used. Perhaps on this day some "cars of ancient vintage" were used by the people throughout the county. But a visit to our city any day in the year will amaze one by the number and quality of cars he will see. The "plain folk from Lebanon" * * * did not deserve that kind of a write-up. Yes, it was a large crowd, larger than the crowds other cities sent on their respective "days"; but it was not a Coney Island crowd; not an Atlantic City crowd. They went to the Sesqui because they knew what it commemorated. Many were from churches whose bells rang out the glad news 150 years ago, bells that are still ringing.

The Concert Was Over.

One of your correspondents, who signs himself "British Concertgoer," speaks of attending a concert in the Great Hall of the City College at which the American audience walked out, en masse, before the last number of the program was concluded. Having attended the concert, I am in a position to inform the gentleman that the number—Rimsky-Korsakoff's "Spanish Caprice"—was completed and that the audience was doing the only appropriate thing.

It is true that Mr. Stock did make a few remarks. They were, in substance, as follows: "I thank you from the bottom of my heart. Let us hope that we will have better weather, in which case everything else will take care of itself."

THOMAS B. SIGMUND.
New York, Aug. 24, 1926.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Having attended the concert of Aug. 18 in the City College Great Hall, I was interested in the letter of "A British Concertgoer," who, writing in THE TIMES of Aug. 24, wondered whether New York audiences were musical.

But, if I remember rightly, the reason for the exodus of the audience was the natural one that the concert was over. As some of the movements of Rimsky-Korsakoff's "Spanish Caprice" are played without a pronounced pause between them, it is readily understandable why the writer, if not familiar with the work, might lose track of the movements and think that there was more to come when the piece actually was finished. Frederick Stock, the conductor, did, indeed, address the audience, of which a delegation had gathered in the front of the hall for prolonged applause, but his remarks were to express thanks and to suggest that all pray for fair weather

To the Editor of The New York Times:

It seems the principal pastime these warm Summer days is shooting police officers. It seems that the cure for this sort of disease would be to have laws making it a capital offense to shoot at a police officer, regardless of whether the officer was hit by the shots.

One of the things I fail to understand about American police officers is the care they take in bringing in criminals known to be murderers and desperate. Why not save the taxpayers expense by shooting them on most any pretext?

Another thing that has no justification is the Parole Board, commutation of sentence, &c. If a Judge says ten years, twenty years or life, let that mean what he says, and not a day off for any reason whatsoever.

Still another thing is to keep the thrill writers of crime properly subdued. Instead of "bobbed-hair bandits," "weepers," &c., let them call offenders what they really are and stop the appeals to the sentimental idiots who read that sort of news for steady mental diet.

Any sort of police officer's life is worth more than all the criminals in prison and out.

TELLS PLANS AT CAPITAL

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—Colonel William Mitchell, former Assistant Chief of the Army Air Service, today declared that he would devote his time in the next few months toward building up a strong organization that would work in behalf of greater recognition for aviation. He spoke before the Loyal Knights of the Round Table at the University Club, and his remarks were regarded as positive indication that he was to become allied with the National Aeronautic Association or some similar body.

Colonel Mitchell's speech was regarded in some quarters as the initiation of a campaign for his election as President of the National Aeronautic Association.

"I shall devote a large part of my time in the immediate future," said Colonel Mitchell, "toward building up a great civilian body of that kind which will be an authoritative source of information and development for this all-important and essential element which concerns the future of our country."

Asked what association he meant in these remarks, Colonel Mitchell said: "If we can rehabilitate the National Aeronautic Association, we will. If not, we will get another one."

When he was questioned concerning the announcement of Charles L. Lawrence in New York last night that the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce and the aircraft industry would oppose his candidacy for the Presidency of the association, his only response was: "That doesn't bother me."

Text of Colonel's Speech.

Colonel Mitchell's address follows:

Progress in aeronautics in the United States has lagged because the body of the people has been left in ignorance of what a great influence the development of flying means to the economic future of our country.

Ever since the first public flight of the Wright brothers we have striven to put suitable and adequate laws on our statute books so as to place American aeronautics in a dominant position.

It has been my privilege to have initiated action about this before Congress each year since 1913 and to have argued the case of this great new force before the responsible officials. During the last year we carried the matter directly to the people, so that executive and legislative action was forced.

As a result of this you now have three Under Secretaries, one in the Department of Commerce, one in the Department of War and one in the Department of the Navy.

If these three Secretaries are to be effective they must be backed up by public opinion. The action of the bureaus of the Government is not enough. A great national civilian society, dedicated to the furtherance of American aeronautics is a necessity.

Educational Campaign Needed.

American aeronautical thought leads the world, but it is unorganized and without expression. A definite society is necessary around which this thought may rally and find expression. There must be an organized campaign of education throughout our great country to teach the people the tremendous advantages that we may derive from aeronautics.

This society must have a board of executives of such standing before the country at large that their public statements will carry weight and in which the people and Congress will have confidence.

I have been pushing the campaign for aeronautics in the past largely on my own responsibility and with the assistance, devoted in the extreme, of those, actuated by patriotic motives alone, who voluntarily came forward to aid.

Now, in order to further develop this tremendous force of the future, we need the support of all the thinking people of the country.

Publicity alone has only a temporary and fleeting effect. We have pushed it in the past so as to lay the facts about aeronautics before the people, which we could do in no other way. Now the individual citizens must do their part to keep up the development.

Advantages of Air Transportation.

Transportation is the essence of civilization. Intercourse with our neighbors causes an appreciation of each other's problems and a diminution of international friction, which often leads to war. Air transport offers the safest, most comfortable, direct and rapid means of transportation the world has ever seen. All of the civilized nations of the world are now specializing in it.

Distances are measured in hours, not in miles. Already our air mail is of inestimable value to our bankers. The saving of interest on commercial paper alone as a result of rapid air transport means a saving in the national wealth.

There is no reason why passengers should not be carried from one of our coasts to the other within the span of a single day, to Europe in the same time and to the centres of population of Asia in a little more.

To do these things the people must be directly interested and assist.

Richard Byrd enlisted the aid of Mr. Rockefeller, Mr. Ford, Mr. Hoyt and several others and then accomplished the conquest of the North Pole by air. When he returned, and the expedition had incurred debts beyond its resources, Rodman Wanamaker came forward and settled them. It was not our Government agencies that did this, but the enterprise of our far-seeing citizens.

History of Government Agencies.

Government agencies are the creatures of the people, presumably to carry out their wishes. It is the history of all such organizations that, when left to themselves, progress ceases and the lines of least resistance are followed.

We have many associations, societies and clubs devoted to the cause of aviation. Most of them are local in character, but they all recognize now that their local strength will be vastly enhanced by joining a great national body handled and controlled by those tied by no affiliations to political factions or interests, governmental or otherwise, that are attempting to control this matter to further their own ends.

I shall devote a large part of my time in the immediate future toward building up a great civilian body of that kind, which, will be an authoritative source of information and development for this most important single element which concerns the future of our country.

UNION'S REJECTION OF SMITH CENSURED

Leaders of Garment Strike Misstated Facts to the Governor, Finder Says.

HE WELCOMES ARBITRATION

Louis Hyman, for Employes, Insists Industrial Council Does Not Control Industry.

The refusal of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union to accept the plan of Governor Smith to arbitrate the present garment workers' strike brought yesterday an exchange of statements between Henry H. Finder, President of the Industrial Council of the Cloak, Suit and Skirt Manufacturers, Inc., and Louis Hyman, Chairman of the General Strike Committee.

Mr. Finder accused the union of misstating facts in saying that the inside shop manufacturers employed only about 25 per cent. of all the workers involved. The strike leader repeated that the figures given were correct.

Mr. Hyman said that Mr. Finder quoted figures supplied by the Unemployment Insurance Fund. These, he said, could not be complete as among the present strikers are many union workers who are not registered with the fund.

The figures given by the union in its reply to the Governor, Mr. Finder said, only beclouded the issue and indicated that the union did not wish to place its case in the hands of an impartial tribunal. Mr. Finder quoted a report of the Research Bureau of the Governor's special commission to show that the members of the Industrial Council employed 7,500 workers on their premises and, together with the independent "inside shop" manufacturers, employed 15,000 workers out of a total of 29,000 union men in the industry.

"The Industrial Council, whose members are style creators of the industry and whose treatment of the workers has been highly commended by the Governor's commission, welcomes the intervention of Governor Smith and sincerely trusts that his efforts will bring this costly strike to a speedy conclusion," Mr. Finder said.

Mr. Hyman said: "The more significant proof that the Industrial Council, considered strictly as inside manufacturers, do not control even 25 per cent. of the industry is evidenced by the fact that a good many of them, if not the greater part of them, work for jobbers. The same is true of independent manufacturers. That being the case, it is absurd for Mr. Finder to leave the impression that the Industrial Council, viewed as a group of exclusive manufacturers, is a force to contend with."

The Strike Committee announced yesterday that twelve more cloak manufacturers and jobbers had signed the new agreement, which includes the forty-hour week and a 10 per cent. increase in wages. The strikers say that this makes 181 manufacturers who have settled.

BURNED AS HIS YACHT CATCHES FIRE, SINKS

A. Ludlow Kramer Jr. in Hospital After Gasoline Is Ignited on Cruise at Southampton.

Special to The New York Times.

SOUTHAMPTON, L. I., Aug. 27.—A. Ludlow Kramer Jr. of Philadelphia and Westbury, L. I., is in the Southampton Hospital suffering from burns on his hands and feet received when his 45-foot sloop Thelma burned at 3 o'clock this morning.

Young Kramer and his companions, John Bishop of Philadelphia and Lyman N. Wright of Pau, France, who is spending the season at Southampton with his father, John H. Wright, had been cruising about in the Thelma for several weeks. They were aboard the sloop, anchored off the Sebonac Yacht Club, last night and were about to sail for Newport early this morning. When Mr. Kramer started the engine it backfired and ignited gasoline leaking from the tank. His hands and feet were burned, the other two boys escaping injury. Fearing an explosion they burried ashore in a rowboat.

The crew of the Ohonkara, Carl Tucker's schooner yacht, anchored near by, gave first aid and telephoned for an ambulance, also notifying Mr. and Mrs. Kramer at Westbury of their son's injuries. Mr. and Mrs. Kramer arrived at the Southampton Hospital two hours later to find their son resting comfortably and in no great danger.

Jeddu Krishnamurti, the young Hindu "holy man," left New York early yesterday morning. Accompanied by Dr. Annie Besant, his white-haired sponsor, Bishop Irving Cooper of the Liberal Catholic Church, James B. Pond of the Pond Lecture Bureau, L. W. Rogers, President of the American Theosophical Society, and a score of theosophists, he set out for Chicago, where he will be presented before the annual convention of the society which begins today.

The party occupied a special car, which was attached to the Chicago express on the New York Central. Only a few persons were at hand at train time, and but for the flowing white robes of Dr. Besant the party would not have attracted any attention. Krishnamurti walked up and down the platform restlessly while waiting for the train to start. Asked how he expected to pass the hours of his journey, he pointed to a pile of books in his compartment.

"I don't know just what they are, but I fancy they will keep me busy," he said. "There are one or two by Quiller-Couch, I know, and I shall read them first of all."

None of the party had anything to say to reporters, though Bishop Cooper was willing to answer one question.

"Do you think that travel on this train will be safer because of Krishnamurti's presence?"

"I don't really know," he answered. "All I can say is that Krishnamurti himself will come to no harm."

EXPLORERS IN NORTH GETTING RADIO DATA

The Rawson-MacMillan Sub-Arctic Expedition to Labrador expects to return to America on Sept. 11, so Austin G. Cooley, radio operator on one of Commander Donald F. MacMillan's vessels, the Sachem III, reported to Willis K. Wing, editor of Radio Broadcast, in a message made public yesterday.

The message disclosed also that the expedition's study of radio communication in the North, one of its objects, was successful.

Many facts relative to the relationship between the radio, the aurora borealis, the barometer and mirages are being obtained, Mr. Cooley reported. He also said he was prepared to measure earth currents when conditions, recently unfavorable, permitted.

The expedition had found that there it a definite relation between the fading of radio signals and the aurora, Mr. Cooley said. Radio appeared to be most affected when the aurora was strongest in the opposite direction from the approaching signals. Transmission was practically unaffected when thin aurora bands traveled perpendicular to the axis. Sometimes a lagging of about one minute appeared between the shift in the aurora displays and the fading.

"If the earth currents, radio and barometric pressure are related, I am confident that the theories and mathematics on mirages can be applied to the reflection and refraction of radio waves," said Mr. Cooley.

Commander MacMillan was interested in the experiments, Mr. Cooley reported, and intended to take complete data at a station which he would have next year at Nain, Labrador.

The expedition sailed in two vessels, the Sachem III and the Bowdoin, last June for Wiscassett, Me., to study Norse relics in the sub-Arctic region as well as scientific phenomena.

HEIFETZ OPERATED ON; LISTED AS 'JOHN SMITH'

Under Knife for Appendicitis, Violinist Is Doing Well—Sought to Dodge Publicity.

Jascha Heifetz, world famous violinist, was operated on for appendicitis at Mount Sinai Hospital on Thursday, it was learned yesterday. The utmost secrecy was maintained concerning his illness, and at the hospital yesterday it was said that no patient was registered under that name. Dr. Albert A. Berg of 10 East Seventy-third Street, one of the head surgeons of Mount Sinai, admitted, however, that the operation had been performed and that Mr. Heifetz's condition was satisfactory in all respects.

Mr. Heifetz is registered at the hospital under the name of "John Smith," to avoid publicity. Dr. Berg declined to discuss this, declaring that this detail was the concern only of the patient.

The violinist arrived in New York on July 6 after an extensive tour through Europe and the Near East. He gave forty concerts in Great Britain, several in Paris and also gave seven recitals in Palestine for the benefit of the Hebrew University in Palestine. He donated the receipts, amounting to $5,000, to found a music department in the institution. He has been spending a vacation in Newport, and recently announced that in September he would go to Mexico to give a series of concerts.

SPURNED PARACHUTE TO STICK TO BETTIS

Fliers Who Carried Injured Aviator to Washington Took Equal Chances With Him.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—Despite army regulations prescribing that parachutes must be worn on all flights, the army fliers brought Lieutenant Bettis, injured when his plane crashed last Monday in a Pennsylvania wilderness, from Bellefonte, Pa., to Washington, determined not to make any effort to save themselves by jumping in case of an accident, but to stick to their helpless companion.

Captain Ira Eaker, pilot of the plane, explained that as Lieutenant Bettis was unable to make use of a parachute, the others had taken theirs off and sat on them. The other two officers aboard the plane were Lieutenant John E. Upston, stationed at Bolling Field, and Captain A. W. Smith, flight surgeon.

Lieutenant Bettis was strapped to a litter placed in a hammock. Captain Eaker selected a circuitous course from Bellefonte to Middletown to take advantage of better ground in case of a forced landing and then steered a straight course to Washington.

The condition of Lieutenant Bettis was pronounced so satisfactory at Walter Reed Hospital today as to lead to the hope of his early recovery from his injuries.

A thorough examination this morning revealed that he had sustained a fractured nose, simple fracture of both jaws, fracture of both bones of the left leg below the knee and bruises on the face and body. His eyesight has not been seriously impaired.

Girl Student Chemist Found Dead.

Clad in a nightgown and with an empty glass and spoon near by, the body of Miss Ida Wisler, 28 years old, a chemistry student of 1,077 Teller Avenue, the Bronx, was found yesterday morning in the bathtub in her apartment by her mother, Sarah. The glass is believed to have contained poison, but its nature was not determined. The body was removed to the Fordham Morgue for an autopsy. Miss Wisler's brother, Frank, said his sister worked in the chemical laboratory of a Columbia professor until his death, a year ago. She brooded over his death, he added.

French Honor for Jules Mendel.

Jules Mendel of the firm of Howse, Mead & Sons, Inc., woolen jobbers, has received the cross of the Legion of Honor, according to word received yesterday by friends in this city. Mr. Mendel, who is now in Paris, is expected to return on the steamship France, due Sept. 1. Mr. Mendel, French by birth, but a resident of this city and a naturalized citizen for twenty-five years, has been active in the work of various Franco-American societies.

VALENTINO BURIAL AWAITS HIS BROTHER

Alberto Guglielmi, Due Here on Wednesday, Will Decide Final Resting Place.

HOLLYWOOD WANTS BODY

Pola Negri Expected Tomorrow—Actor's Friends Honor Memory in Los Angeles.

Whether the last resting place of Rudolph Valentino will be in Hollywood, where he won success, or in Italy, where he was born, will rest entirely upon the decision of his brother, Alberto Guglielmi, who will arrive here on Wednesday on the White Star liner Homeric. His friends desire that he be buried in California and S. George Ullman, his manager, said yesterday that it was hoped that the brother would consent to the plan. He added that no radio message from the brother had been received, intimating that he would consent to burial in Hollywood.

Mr Ullman held a conference with Commissioner of Health Dr. Louis I. Harris at the latter's home, 808 West End Avenue, and obtained from him a permit extending for forty-eight hours the time that Valentino's body may remain unburied after the church services on Monday. After the services in St. Malachi's Roman Catholic Church, 241 West Forty-ninth Street, the body will be brought back to the Campbell Funeral Church at Broadway and Sixty-sixth Street and it will be viewed there by the actor's brother.

The policemen on duty at the funeral church had little to do yesterday except to keep moving small groups that gathered at intervals to walk about aimlessly and stare through the plate glass windows into the lobby of the building. Some stood along the curb and stared across the sidewalk. There was never more than a score, and those who stopped drifted off after being told to move on by the police.

Pola Negri is expected to arrive at the Hotel Ambassador tomorrow. She wired Mr. Ullman asking that no attempt be made to interview her. Her grief, she said, was too severe. Among those who called at the Funeral Church yesterday were Marilyn Miller, Ben Lyons and other stage and film figures.

Mr. Ullman said the report that Valentino and others who had been in his party on the Saturday night before he was stricken had been poisoned as the result of food or drink taken on that occasion was false. He was asked whether Valentino had ever known Peggy Scott, an actress, who committed suicide in London after writing that with the film star's death her "courage had flown." He said that so far as he knew Valentino was not acquainted with Miss Scott.

Joseph M. Schenck, Chairman of the Board of United Artists' Corporation, said yesterday that hundreds of film players, directors and Hollywood friends had petitioned him to lend his aid in bringing Valentino's body to Hollywood for burial.

"Hollywood made Rudolph Valentino the great figure he was, nurtured him in his early struggles, encouraged him in his ambitions, acclaimed him when he was pre-eminent and loved him for himself," said Mr. Schenck.

"The sincerity of the affection in these appeals cannot be lightly held by one who knew Rudy's regard for these friends. He was fond of entertaining them, of being a guest in their homes. He knew every one intimately and they all liked him. It is but natural that they should wish his final resting place to be among them."

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 27 (AP).—Rudolph Valentino's horse, on which the screen star was accustomed to ride the hillside trails with fellow members of the Breakfast Club, will open the memorial services to be held here by the club this morning. The horse, led by Norman Kerry, film actor, and George Fitzmaurice, director, will follow the same trails today, his dead master's boots reversed in the stirrups.

LAYS DEATH TO VALENTINO'S

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 27.—"I am only a little butterfly made for sunshine and I cannot stand loneliness and shadow." So wrote Peggy Scott, a pretty London girl, who was found poisoned shortly after the announcement of the death of Rudolph Valentino in a letter read today at the Coroner's inquest over her body. In other letters read at the inquest she said she had become a friend of Valentino at Biarritz.

"With his death," she wrote in one, "my last bit of courage has flown. I feel I have been stretched for years like a piece of elastic. In 1922 Rudolph helped me carry on. He told me a lot of his own sufferings. Perhaps it was only a matter of time anyway before the elastic snapped. I have had wonderful moments. There's a lot I cannot tell you."

Witnesses said that besides the shock caused by the film star's death the girl had not been able to obtain work for some time.

WARSHIP OF 1692 IS FOUND.

Copyright, 1926, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Aug. 27.—A great page in naval history was recalled today when dredgers working in Cherbourg Harbor discovered the old wooden warship Triomphant embedded in the sand where she had rested since May 29, 1692.

The Triomphant was one of three French vessels which, fleeing from the Dutch and English fleets, were caught by the tide and took refuge at Cherbourg, where they were burned by the enemy. That day the French fleet of forty-four frigates, commanded by Count de Tourville, met eighty-two enemy vessels off Barfleur, and after sinking two escaped without loss. The tide caught part of the French ships, and while three reached Cherbourg, twelve were unable to move, and doggedly fought the enemy until flaming missiles accounted for the last of them in the battle known as La Hogue. This marked the end of France's reign as the greatest naval power.

For several weeks dredges have been recovering arms, cannon balls and utensils belonging to the Triomphant, and now it will be necessary to raise the 125-foot hull. In view of its condition, however, it is not expected the gallant vessel can be lifted unless it is cut into fragments.

MRS. SYMINGTON WINS INJUNCTION APPEAL

Justice Walsh Grants Order to Restrain Husband From Prosecuting Maryland Divorce Suit.

Supreme Court Justice Walsh granted yesterday the application by Mrs. Ida May Symington for an injunction restraining her husband, Thomas H. Symington, wealthy railway supply manufacturer, from prosecuting the divorce suit recently filed against her in Harford County, Md., on the ground that the action in which the same allegations of misconduct are made, filed by Mr. Symington against his wife in New York, is still pending, and the courts here have jurisdiction over him. After reviewing the history of the Symington case Justice Walsh said:

"In the circumstances it is clear, in my opinion, that the equitable powers of this court may be extended to restrain the plaintiff from carrying on the Maryland suit, the only purpose of which is to harass, annoy and vex the defendant. Such inequitable conduct should not be tolerated."

Justice Walsh will sign an order pursuant to his decision in a day or two, and a copy will be submitted in the Circuit Court of Harford County, where the hearing in the Maryland suit began on Thursday, regardless of the temporary injunction granted here. The Maryland court then will be required to decide whether to ignore the ruling of the New York court.

Max D. Steuer, attorney for Mrs. Symington, has announced that he would go to Maryland with a copy of the New York order, as a friend of the court, but that no appearance will be made in behalf of Mrs. Symington, on the ground that the papers have not been served on her legally. The temporary injunction granted here was not filed in the Maryland court, but an unsuccessful attempt was made to serve it on Mr. Symington and his chief Maryland attorney, Thomas H. Robinson, Attorney General of the State.

Robinson Says He Will Ignore Writ.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, Md., Aug. 27.—Attorney General Robinson said today that he would disregard the writ of the New York court in the Symington divorce case.

"We do not care about any injunction," said Mr. Robinson. "We don't recognize the right of any New York court to interfere in a case where the State has jurisdiction."

One witness, who is said to be ill, is still to be examined in the ex parte suit here.

PRIEST DIES VISITING DOG.

Nearly Blind, He Is Killed by Street Car in Waukegan, Ill.

WAUKEGAN, Ill., Aug. 27 (AP).—The love of a priest for his dog led Father E. W. Gavin, 58, almost blind, to his death today. He was struck by a street car, dying of a skull fracture, while en route to make his daily visit to his pet, now nearly 25 years old. The dog had been under treatment by a veterinary.

The priest, pastor of the Church of the Immaculate Conception for 54 years, and the aging animal had been almost inseparable companions.

BATTLE CELEBRATION TODAY

Brooklyn to Observe 150th Anniversary of Long Island Fight.

The sesquicentennial anniversary of the Battle of Long Island will be celebrated in Brooklyn today. A bronze tablet on the South Brooklyn Savings Bank at Atlantic Avenue and Court Street, marking the spot from which George Washington watched part of the battle, will be unveiled at 11:30 A. M.

The chief exercises will be held in front of the Lefferts Mansion and the bandstand in Prospect Park, starting at 3 P. M. Several detachments of soldiers, sailors and marines will take part. The speakers will include Colonel Washington Bowie of the Fifth Maryland Foot, a regiment which took part in the battle. Rear Admiral Charles P. Plunkett will be present.

The principals in the celebration will have luncheon at the University Club, South Oxford and Lafayette Streets, Brooklyn.

MAJOR CHANLER BURIED.

Special to The New York Times.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Aug. 27.—His hunting cap, horn and whip lying upon his coffin, the body of Major Winthrop Astor Chanler was lowered today to its final resting place in St. Mary's Catholic Cemetery at Geneseo.

Scores of friends and relatives from New York attended the last rites in the chapel of the Major's estate, Sweet Briar Manor. They were conducted by the Rev. Edward Boyer, pastor of St. Mary's Catholic Church at Geneseo, and several out-of-town priests.

Mrs. Mary Stevenson.

Special to The New York Times.

PLAINFIELD, N. J., Aug. 27.—Mrs. Mary Stevenson, 90, widow of John C. Stevenson, Judge of the County Court, County of Haldimand, Province of Ontario, died here today at the home of her son, the Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson, rector of Grace Episcopal Church with whom she lived for twelve years. She was of Irish lineage, her father, Robert Vicars Griffith and his wife being among the early settlers on the Grand River in Canada where she was born Aug. 26, 1836. Beside her son here a younger son, Allen F. Stevenson of Niagara Falls, Ont., survivies. Services will be held at St. John's Church, Cayuga, Ont., next Wednesday.

Mrs. Caroline Henderson Wadhams.

Word was received last night of the death yesterday of Mrs. Caroline Henderson Wadhams, wife of Rear Admiral A. V. Wadhams, at Wadhams, N. Y., where interment will take place at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. Before her marriage to Admiral Wadhams in 1870 Mrs. Wadhams had lived in New Orleans. During the World War she acted as her husband's assistant during his service with the Red Cross in Washington. Their two sons are Judge William H. Wadhams, who resigned from the bench of General Sessions in 1921, and Albion J. Wadhams, who served ten years in the navy before becoming General Superintendent of the International Nickel Company at Bayonne, N. J.

W. Anderson Dies in Greenwich.

Special to The New York Times.

GREENWICH, Conn., Aug. 27.—William Anderson, prominent resident of Glenville, died last night at the Greenwich Hospital. He was born in County Antrim, Ireland, fifty-nine years ago. He leaves a wife, Mrs. Elizabeth Anderson of New York, and two daughters, Miss Amy Anderson and Mrs. George Hagen of Brooklyn,

F. J. SCHMITZ DEAD; QUEENS ALDERMAN

IN ILL-HEALTH FOUR YEARS

President McKee Voices Sorrow Over Death, Which Causes Third Vacancy in Board in Year.

Frank J. Schmitz, Alderman from the Sixtieth District, which includes College Point, Corona and part of Flushing in Queens, died yesterday at his home, 406 Eleventh Street, Flushing. Mr. Schmitz was serving his sixth successive term. He had been in ill health for nearly four years and was operated on several times for intestinal ailments.

Mr. Schmitz, who was 46 years old, was born in Germany and came here with his parents when he was 7 years old. He was President of the College Point Democratic Club. His election in the Sixtieth Aldermanic District had become something of a community tradition and he was always elected by an overwhelming majority. He began his first term as Alderman eleven years ago. Until his illness he conducted a printing business.

He was a member of several Queens social and fraternal organizations. The funeral services Monday afternoon at his home will be conducted by Anchor Lodge, F. and A. M. Interment will be in Flushing Cemetery. A widow, one son, two daughters and two brothers survive.

Joseph V. McKee, President of the Board of Aldermen, said:

"I have learned with regret of the death of Alderman Frank J. Schmitz. He was a member of the important committees on finance, public letting and apportionment.

"For about a year the Alderman has been in failing health and last year took a trip to Bermuda in the hope of benefiting his physical condition. He seemed to be somewhat improved on his return, but of late has been gradually failing. He was noted for his regular attendance at board and committee meetings until his health became so impaired as to interfere with his official duties. He was of a bright and sunny disposition and during his incumbency established warm friendships on both sides of the Aldermanic Chamber."

Mr. Schmitz's death caused the third vacancy in the board during the last year and this vacancy with the two others will be filled at the November election. The other vacancies are in the Thirty-fifth District in Brooklyn, caused by the election of Alderman George Joyce to the Municipal Court bench, and in the Sixty-fifth District, Staten Island, caused by the death of late Alderman John J. Corcoran. Thomas F. McNamara is filling the seat in the Thirty-fifth District and Dennis Corcoran the seat in the Sixty-fifth District, formerly held by his brother.

FREDERICK LOUIS WILK.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Aug. 27.—Funeral services for Frederick Louis Wilk, retired Vice President of the Union Trust Company, who died last night at the Presbyterian Hospital, will be held at 2 P. M. Monday at the home of his son, Frederick L. Wilk, 5,442 Sheridan Road. Death followed an operation. He was 70 years old.

Besides his wife and son, Mr. Wilk left two daughters, two sisters and a brother, Louis Wilk, Superintendent of the Illinois Research Hospital. Mr. Wilk was a Mason and a member of the Union League and Chicago clubs. He was a Trustee of the Chicago Academy of Science. Although long active in Republican politics, he held only one public office, that of Lincoln Park Commissioner, from 1907 to 1913.

Wr. Wilk was born in Columbus, Ohio, May 25, 1856. In 1871 he became an errand boy for the company in whose employ he rose to the Vice Presidency.

Frank Briden, Civil War Veteran.

WILLIAM HOOD DEAD; BUILDER OF RAILROADS

As Engineer Put Southern Pacific Across Rockies—Transcontinental Pioneer.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 27 (AP).—William Hood, whose engineering skill was a factor in building two transcontinental railroads, died here last night. He was born in Concord, N. H., eighty years ago. For many years he was chief engineer for the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, retiring in 1921.

He began work as an axe man with the Central Pacific Railroad in 1867 and was with the engineering crew that connected the Central Pacific with the Union Pacific at Promontory Mountain, Utah, in 1869, the two lines forming the first transcontinental railroad.

While with the Southern Pacific Mr. Hood put that road across the difficult Tehachapi Pass in California, built the Lucin cut-off across Great Salt Lake, conceived an "S" line to cross the Siskiyou Mountains between California and Oregon, constructed the Dumbarton cut-off across Lower San Francisco Bay and completed a line between San Diego and Arizona points.

He covered practically every one of the 11,000 miles of the Southern Pacific system on foot before the rails were laid.

He once worked on a plan for E. H. Harriman's "dream railroad," which was to have connected North and South America.

BISHOPS OF MEXICO REASSURE THE POPE

They Cable to Rome Denying Reports Church Is Yielding in Clash With State.

REPLY TO TEJADA ATTACK

Copyright, 1926, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 27.—The Mexican Episcopate, after a conference today, made public a telegram to Pope Pius XI. assuring him that the clergy are standing firm and that there is no truth in the reports that they are weakening in the Church's conflict with the Government, caused by President Calles's enforcement of the religious clauses of the Constitution.

The Episcopate also replied today to the statement made yesterday by Adalberto Tejada, Secretary of the Interior, that the amendments to the Constitution sought by the Catholic Church would be a menace to the national aspirations in the economic, moral and intellectual order.

The Bishops' reply to Señor Tejada declares that the Catholic Church is the mother of civilization, that she has always fought for the rights of the poor and the working men and that she has also stood for the complete equality of capital and labor, always opposing tyranny on the part of either class.

Say Rights Only Are Demanded.

The Church, the statement says, is seeking only what is due it, that is, the right to live in this country and the right of Catholics to worship in their own way.

The Bishops deny that the Catholic Church is seeking recognition as the only church, and they demand the right to enjoy liberty of faith and worship the same as other religions.

It is pointed out that for many years Catholicism was the only recognized religion in Mexico, and it is added that other religions were permitted to exist.

The Bishops also deny that the Church's wealth really injured the nation, and assert that while the Church enjoyed the liberty of holding property its riches were used to help alleviate the condition of the poorer classes.

The statement charges that the principles of the revolutionists were based on a desire for personal profits, not for the benefit of the whole nation, but for only a selected few.

Messages of Vatican and Bishops.

The telegram which the Episcopate sent to the Pope was in reply to a message from the Vatican, which read as follows:

Press reports announce that you are entering into agreements which do not conform to the instructions given by the Holy See. We are awaiting information. Meanwhile, we will not depart from the determination which the Episcopate from the first has taken with such firmness and which was eulogized by the entire world. Cable without delay.

GASPARRI.

The Bishops' reply follows:

The published reports are absolutely false. In no manner will we depart, with the help of God, from the instructions given by the Holy See. Firmness is the attitude of the Bishops. All are absolute in their obedience and filial love. They implore the Holy Father's blessing.

MORA.

Cardinal Gasparri replied to this cablegram in a message in which the Pope gave the prelates the blessing they asked.

Episcopate's Reply to Tejada.

The reply of the Bishops to Secretary Tejada follows:

"There has appeared in these moments of expectancy for both Mexicans and foreigners a statement by the Minister of the Interior, Adalberto Tejada, relative to reform of the Constitution, on which we hasten to comment. The Minister said:

"'My opinion has been clearly defined in all that I have said on this question. The amendments spoken of would throw us back to before 1856 and would oblige the Mexican people to wage a new fight to regain their liberty of conscience.'

"The judgment of Señor Tejada, as may be seen from his statement, is in error, because, unless we formulated a petition for reforms, he could not judge them.

"If the minister had in mind the only thing that the Church could ask, namely, the genuine liberty to which it has every right, the right of teaching, worship, association and to the properties necessary for its life, it is impossible for an honest man of sound judgment to condemn such a petition in the manner in which Señor Tejada does.

"To do so in this manner the passions must be substituted for reason, and passion is a bad adviser, especially for Governors.

Tejada Conclusion Held False.

"Now the Catholic Church does not ask to be recognized as the only one, but simply that it be permitted to live as it is with its worship, hierarchy and rights, which would allow other religions and sects the same liberty as churches have in all civilized countries.

"The opinion of Señor Tejada is so absolutely false on this point that we cannot see to what it will lead or how it could logically follow that because the Church receives the liberty to which it has right, the Mexican people will lose their liberty of conscience and be obliged to regain it by force of arms.

"The Mexican Catholic people may, with all justice, complain when they see that they are deprived by the Constitution and the latest regulations of their most legitimate liberty, not only the freedom of conscience and religion but also of the liberty of thought.

"Señor Tejada goes on to say that such reforms would be a menace to the national aspirations in the economic, moral and intellectual order, and would place Mexico in the situation of the Dark days that preceded the Reform laws.

Danger Seen for Revolutionaries.

"Señor Tejada is right in saying that he sees danger in the reforms of pure and sincere liberty which the clergy and the Catholic people request. The truth is that these are all that the Church needs to live and prosper. But, as the Mexican revolutionary doctrine claims infallibility, under which it has ruled, without appeal, that Catholicism is a menace and has been a menace throughout history, especially in Latin America, it is natural that the revolutionaries should wish to kill the Church.

"The national aspirations in the economic order are those of liberty for both capital and workers, preventing the latter from becoming the slaves of capital, and equal rights for both.

"The emancipation of the workingmen, without converting them into tyrants, is the Catholic doctrine.

"Why must the liberty of the Church be a menace to the national aspirations in the economic order?

Clergy Declared Poorly Paid.

"The Minister refers to the cost of the churches, teaching and the upkeep of the clergy and charitable institutions. Could that be ruinous to the national wealth?

"There is no profession in such poor economic condition as the clergy. There are no establishments more economically and better administered than those of the Church.

"Minister Tejada expressed the fear that if the Government recognizes the right of the Church to hold property it will become the owner of four-fifths of the national wealth.

"Very impartial studies have demonstrated that the wealth of the Church, which did not amount to $30,000,000 in the time of the so-called Reform laws, was a source of economic welfare for the country, and, in spite of the stupid laws which took this wealth from the Church and gave it to the nation, the Church's wealth was taken to enrich a few and opened the door to usury, which has devoured and continues to devour the poor people.

"The thousands of millions of dollars' worth of property of the religious corporations of the United States has not disturbed but has helped the admirable prosperity of that nation.

Christian Morality Defended.

"The minister adds that these reforms would be a menace to the national aspirations in the moral order.

"Of all the moral systems which have been and will be, none can compete with the Christian, for the reason that it is divine and has the only sanction worthy of man and worthy of God.

"There is a menace in divorcing the moral from the religious; this is a criticism against the materialists and atheists, but not against the Mexican people.

"The minister goes on to say that the reforms will be a menace to the national aspirations in the intellectual order.

"It seems impossible that to the mother of civilization, which is the Catholic Church, the minister could address this insult. It will cause the pity of all men for Señor Tejada.

"The truth is that in a summing up of the statements of Señor Tejada and those of Minister Saenz, made recently in San Antonio, Texas, there is not a ray of hope for Catholics, because their Government has not shown the slightest sign of willingness to hear their just complaints.

"We hope that the Government, when taking into account the agitation among Catholics anxious for liberty, will sincerely work to reform these laws which do violence to the faith of Catholics in such a way as to satisfy the just aspirations of a people who wish nothing but genuine liberty of conscience, the fruit of which will be peace and prosperity for the nation."

STRONGER PRESSURE ON MEXICO LIKELY

Sheffield's Visit to Coolidge Is Expected to Stiffen Policy on Oil and Claims.

Special to The New York Times.

PAUL SMITH'S, N. Y., Aug. 27.—The Administration may modify its Mexican policy and strengthen its demand for the settlement of old claims and more definite action on the land and oil laws.

That such a move is contemplated and may be carried out is becoming apparent to those in touch with developments in our relations with Mexico.

Ambassador Sheffield intends to return to Mexico, it was said here today, and before he goes President Coolidge will confer with him here and learn at first hand Mr. Sheffield's interpretation of the Mexican viewpoint and the status of the negotiations to settle the pending disputes between Mexico and the United States.

President Coolidge let it be known today that he regarded Mr. Sheffield as an able, trained Ambassador who had made an excellent record in the difficult problems with which he has had to deal.

He has handled them with great discretion, the President thinks, and any representations he may make about our policy will have great weight with Mr. Coolidge.

Mr. Sheffield accepted the position at great personal sacrifice and in doing so has performed a distinct public service, the President feels.

It is known that Ambassador Sheffield had considered resigning and that he intended so notifying this Government while on his vacation. That the Administration knew of his purpose and was informed of the reasons is also known.

Present indications are that some of the causes that might have influenced Mr. Sheffield to leave the service and return to the practice of law have been removed.

His visit to President Coolidge, which will be made early in September, will lead, it is believed, to a better understanding on our future Mexican policy, which will be one with which Mr. Sheffield is more in accord.

That the policy will be modified so as to deal in a more assertive way with the pending problems without changing the present program is the belief here.

Reports coming here show that Ambassador Sheffield will return to Mexico and remain there until the questions with which he has been charged to deal are disposed of.

The Administration wishes this to be known and feels that it is unfair to disseminate reports that tend to weaken this Government with Mexico and destroy the prestige of its Ambassador.

This refers to reports from Mexico that Mr. Sheffield would resign because of differences over policy.

10 HURT IN TROLLEY CRASH

Motorman Held for Intoxication After Brooklyn Accident.

Ten persons were injured yesterday when a Fifth Avenue trolley car crashed into a crosstown car at Atlantic Avenue and Columbia Street, Brooklyn, Terence McGoveren of 150 Mill Street, motorman of the Fifth Avenue car, was arrested, charged with intoxication and disorderly conduct.

Mrs. Emma Roberts of 280 Eighty-sixth Street and Mrs. Christilla Wittke of 273 East Ninth Street, both of Brooklyn, who made the complaint against the motorman, said that he had used objectionable language while operating the car and that they had just left it when it crashed into the crosstown car.

Women on both cars screamed when the crash came and there was a rush for the doors. Peter Daly of 324 Hicks Street received a fracture of the knee and was taken to the Holy Family Hospital. Nine others, slightly injured, were attended at the scene by ambulance doctors.

OUTLINES 12 IDEALS IN LABOR DAY CREED

Church Council Cites Justice as Main Need Between Workers and Employers.

JOHN CALDER THE AUTHOR

He Proposes Abolishing Child Labor and Favors Eight-Hour Day for All Employes.

Twelve "Christian social ideals" were incorporated in a Labor Day message which was issued yesterday by the Social Relations Commission of the National Council of the Congregational Churches, 287 Fourth Avenue.

Its author is John Calder, Chairman of the commission, who is a consulting engineer. Mr. Calder has been actively engaged in the handling of industrial relations in many large industries throughout the country, his most recent experience having been in the organization of the industrial relations of Swift & Co. The "ideals" are as follows:

1. Justice: Labor and capital demand justice. The Church concedes it and imposes much more, viz., a reciprocity of service—that group interests, whether of labor or capital, must always be integrated with the welfare of society as a whole, and that society in its turn must insure justice to each group.

2. The Common Good: A frank abondonment of all efforts to secure something for nothing, and recognition that all ownership is a social trust involving Christian administration for the good of all and that the unlimited exercise of the right of private ownership is socially undesirable.

3. Protecting the Young: Abolishing child labor and establishing standards for the employment of minors which will insure maximum physical, intellectual and moral development.

4. Guaranteed Leisure to Enjoy Life: Freedom from employment one day in seven, the eight-hour day as the present maximum for all industrial workers.

5. Safeguarded Health and Subsistence: Providing safe and sanitary industrial conditions especially protecting women; adequate accident, sickness and unemployment insurance, together with suitable provision for old age.

6. Organization of Opportunity: An effective national system of public employment bureaus to make possible the proper distribution of the labor forces in America.

7. Adequate Subsistence and Return: That the first charge upon industry should be a minimum comfort wage and that all labor should give an honest day's work for an honest day's pay.

8. Public Interest and Service in Disputes: Adequate provision for impartial investigation and publicity, conciliation and arbitration in industrial disputes.

9. Labor Reserves the Right to Make Its Own Mistakes: The right of labor to organize with representatives of its own choosing and, where able, to share in the management of industrial relations.

10. Economizing and Cooperating in Distribution of Necessities: Encouragement of the organization of consumers' cooperatives for the more equitable distribution of the essentials of life.

11. Service and Equity Rendered in Love: The supremacy of the service, rather than the profit motive in the acquisition and use of property on the part of both labor and capital, and the most equitable division of the product of industry that can be devised.

12. Where Do We Go From Here? The church answers: God is Love and loving is the only practicable way of living.

Each of the "ideals" was elaborated upon in the message, which consisted of several thousand words.

MEXICAN STRIKE ORDERED.

Hour's Halt Will Take Place When Court Gives Ruling on Dispute.

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 27 (AP).—A one-hour strike by all union workers throughout the Federal District, which will tie up all transportation and industries, has been ordered by the Executive of the Federation of Unions.

The strike will take place when the Supreme Court decides the question placed before it by the Mexican Match Company as to whether the Supreme Court or Workmen's Arbitration Boards constitute the highest tribunal in Mexico in labor disputes.

The question arose over a strike in the match company's plant, called because of the discharge of workmen. The company obtained decisions and injunctions against the strikers, but the Workmen's Arbitration Boards continued to issue contrary rulings.

It is expected that the Supreme Court will rule in favor of the match company.

The frequency of labor disputes is indicated by a statement in the local newspapers that there are 2,400 applications for injunctions pending in the courts against Arbitration Board decisions in the Federal District.

NEW CATHOLIC PROVINCE.

Pope Creates Church Unit With Metropolitan See at San Antonio, Texas.

ROME, Aug. 27 (AP).—A new Ecclesiastical Province of the Catholic Church, of which the Metropolitan See will be at San Antonio, Texas, has been created by Pope Pius.

Mgr. Arthur J. Drossaerts was made Archbishop of the new province, which includes, besides the Archdiocese, the Dioceses of Galveston, Corpus Christi, Dallas and Oklahoma, and a new diocese in Texas to be known as the Diocese of Amarillo.

Mussolini Erases Monument Tribute

ROME, Aug. 27 (AP).—At Premier Mussolini's request the inscription has been changed on the monument erected at Jamiano, where he was wounded while serving during the war. The old inscription read, "Here the enemy tried to destroy the destiny of the nation, but in pain Benito Mussolini conceived the greatness of new Italy!" The new inscription reads, "Here many sons of Italy fought and died."

Corrects Story of Twilight Inn Fire.

Miss Ida Lathers writes to THE TIMES from St. Malo, France, calling attention to the fact that in an account of the burning of Twilight Inn, near Haines Falls, N. Y., on July 14 last, in which twenty persons lost their lives, a cottage adjoining the inn which also was destroyed was described as the property of General George W. Wingate. The cottage belonged to Miss Lathers and had been subleased by her for the season.

TOPICS TO INTEREST THE CHURCHGOERS

Presbyterian Membership Rose Last Year, but Sunday School Attendance Fell Off.

TO BEAUTIFY CHURCH PLOTS

National Flower Guild Sponsors the Move—Epworth Leaguers in Conference Today.

The Presbyterian Church lost 15,479 members from its Sunday schools last year. The total membership is 1,580,780, according to the statistics for the year, which were made public yesterday at the Witherspoon Building, Philadelphia. The total communicant members is 1,909,111, a net increase over the previous year of 35,252. The total number of churches is 9,565, a loss of eighty-four during the year. The total number of ministers is 9,990, a loss of twenty-seven. Contributions for the year were $61,186,722, a gain of $3,803,734. The sum given to benevolences was $16,063,742, a gain of $806,339. The total given to congregational expenses was $44,731,062, a gain of $2,979,764. Of the sum for benevolences $4,069,695 was contributed to foreign missions.

A movement to make church grounds more beautiful has been begun by the Church Garden Club Department of the National Plant, Flower and Fruit Guild, 70 Fifth Avenue. Dr. John H. Finley is President of the guild. A pamphlet, "Beautifying the Church Grounds," has been published by the guild. Ministers and landscape architects have endorsed the project. Mrs. Ida White Parker is director of the guild.

The Rev. Dr. M. Joseph Twomey, pastor of the Peddie Memorial Baptist Church, Newark, has received a call to the pastorate of the Temple Baptist Church, Los Angeles, to succeed the Rev. Dr. J. Whitcomb Brougher.

Epworth League delegates from Methodist churches in Brooklyn, Queens and Long Island will gather today in Jamestown, L. I., for the sixth annual Jamestown Epworth League Assembly. This will continue through Labor Day. The young people will be housed in the several dormitories located upon the fifty-acre tract of land that the leaguers own on the shores of Great Peconic Bay. The institute will be under the auspices of the Brooklyn North District Epworth League, which consists of sixty chapters.

After waiting more than a year, the congregation of the First Presbyterian Church, Fifth Avenue and Eleventh Street, has appointed a committee to "find an additional minister." The Rev. Dr. George Alexander is the pastor of the church and the Rev. Thomas Guthrie Speers the associate pastor. The additional minister is to take the place of the Rev. Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick as "special preacher." Arthur Curtiss James, Roger H. Williams, who is clerk of the session, and Henry H. Welles Jr. are among the members of the committee.

A new three-manual Skinner organ, which has been placed in the Episcopal Church of St. Matthew and St. Timothy, Eighty-fourth Street, just west of Central Park West, will be used for the first time tomorrow at the 11 o'clock service. During the vacation of Walter Henry Hall, Herbert Foster Sprague is acting as organist and director of the choir.

The Rev. Dr. Thornton Whaling of Louisville, Ky., until recently Moderator of the General Assembly of the Southern Presbyterian Church, is visiting at the Biblical Seminary, Lexington Avenue and Forty-ninth Street. He has become an advocate of the organic union of the Northern and Southern Presbyterian churches. Dr. Whaling is here "to discover at first hand what the real facts are as to the Presbytery of New York." The presbytery has been looked upon for many years as being extremely liberal.

There are now 173 meetings a week being conducted under the auspices of the Evangelistic Committee of New York City, the headquarters of which are at 1,514 Grand Central Terminal Building. These are being held in seven tent centres, seventy-nine open-air centres, twenty-one places for boys and girls. The services are in Chinese, English, Greek, Hungarian, Italian, Polish and Scandinavian. There are meetings in negro sections. Through the courtesy of Station WFBH, Hotel Majestic, the committee is broadcasting an "Hour of Meditation" Thursdays at 4 o'clock.

The second of a series of weekly Summer conferences will open Monday at Lutherland, the vacation resort of the Lutheran Churches at Pocono Pines, Pa. This conference will continue through next Saturday. The Rev. George C. Koenig, pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran Church, the Bronx and the Rev. Fred Lindemann, pastor of the Redeemer Lutheran Church Orange, N. J., will give daily lectures.

A. C. Sharpell Jr., an elder, has been appointed Chairman of the committee to nominate a new pastor for the Park Avenue Presbyterian Church at Eighty-fifth Street. The Rev. Theodore F. Savage, Secretary of the Church Extension Committee of the Presbytery of New York, has been appointed Moderator of the session. The Rev. Tertius van Dyke, the r[illegible] for the last eight years, begins this Fall as pastor of the Congregational Church at Washington, Conn.

SAN SEBASTIAN, Spain, Aug. 27 (AP).—General Primo de Rivera, Premier-Dictator of Spain, has changed San Sebastian from an international gambling paradise into a modest law-abiding city.

The order of the Dictator that gambling in Spain should cease has served to close the Casino and drive all the international "sports" out. They have crossed over to Biarritz, noted resort on the Bay of Biscay in France, and the bediamonded women and the men who cannot live without hearing the whirl of the roulette wheel and flirting with the fickle goddess of fortune have followed them.

Thus San Sebastian has been turned back to the use of the Spaniards. It has become again a family place and normal life has been resumed.

The beautiful beach daily is used by Spanish families, and children by thousands are to be seen playing in the sands and wading in the waters of the Bay of Biscay.

M'CARL UPHOLDS PAY OF DRY INFORMERS

RULING BACKS ANDREWS

Decision as a Whole Is Viewed as Approval of Prohibition Unit's Secret Methods.

DENVER CASE PROVIDES TEST

Payment Was at First Refused on Ground Services Were "Voluntary."

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—Controller General McCarl endorsed today the practice of prohibition agents in enlisting the services of "under-cover" men and held that they could be reimbursed for their work from moneys in the Treasury, but he rejected an item in an expense account in which a claimant sought reimbursement for funds paid to a woman who was employed to aid the informer in gaining access to a suspected roadhouse.

The decision, which arose from a case in the Denver prohibition district, is regarded as a distinct approval by the Controller General of the use of informers by General Lincoln C. Andrews, head of prohibition enforcement, in his pursuit of violators of the dry law.

According to a statement of the case that appears in the Controller General's ruling, Horace E. Harden requested an allowance of $82.50, representing expenses he incurred "as an informer for the Bureau of Internal Revenue." His original claim was rejected on the ground that he had performed voluntary service, which is prohibited by law. Harden asked for a review, denying that he was a volunteer, but that he was employed by the Federal Prohibition Director for Colorado with the express understanding that he would receive his expenses and any amounts which he might expend for the purchase of liquor as evidence.

Harden represented that his work brought about the conviction of the persons after whom he was sent, resulting in the collection of fines of $500, in addition to jail sentences of sixty days.

Five Items Listed by Informer.

There were five items in his expense account: Street car fares $2.05, $7 for lodging, $20.50 for meals and other expenses, $27.75 for the purchase of evidence, including whisky and beer, and $25 to reimburse Marian Butler for information given by her at various times. Marian Butler was described by the Denver administrator in this way:

"You are informed that Marian Butler was a woman who worked with Mr. Harden, going to a roadhouse with him while he obtained information in regard to violations. It was necessary for Mr. Harden to take a companion with him in order to make the buys. Mr. Harden also obtained part of his information from Marian Butler."

The Controller General allowed the item for car fare. He rejected the claim for reimbursement for lodging, explaining that such allowances were not granted to persons in civil work while performing services at their designated posts of duty.

Liquor Purchases Approved.

He approved the item of $27.75 for the purchase of evidence in the form of beer and whisky, stating:

"With respect to item 4, the ordinary procedure is for prohibition agents working in conjunction with informers to procure and pay for the evidence necessary to show a violation of the prohibition laws. It is shown in the present instance, however, that the informer procured and paid for the evidence for the reason that the prohibition agents were known at this place, and that it would have been impossible to procure such evidence unless through the claimant. Under the circumstances the claimant may properly be reimbursed for the expenses shown to have been incurred for the purchase of whisky."

As to the item covering a total of $25 paid to Marian Butler, the Controller General said:

"It has been held that the appropriations made for the enforcement of the national prohibition law do not authorize expenditures by way of entertaining friends, &c., as distinguished from dining or supper. The facts in the present case fail to show that claimant was authorized under his employment as informer to engage at the expense of the Government the services of an assistant or woman companion, and such authority as may have been given him could not empower him to engage another to obtain the information or evidence which he had been engaged to procure."

LEAGUE KEEPS ALOOF ON OUR RESERVATIONS

Adopts Policy of 'Hands Off' on Conference to Study Court Entry.

GENEVA, Aug. 27 (AP).—The League of Nations is adopting a "hands off policy" in connection with the special conference of powers which is to meet on Sept. 1 to discuss the reservations of the United States to its adherence to the Permanent Court of International Justice.

This policy will be demonstrated by the fact that the conference will take place in the International Labor Office building instead of the League of Nations Palace, and by the announced intention of the League to refrain from interfering in any way with the proceedings.

The conference will be confined to the signatories of the World Court convention as such and not as members of the League. Only in the event that the delegates request the League to send interpreters or other members of the personnel will the League organization function. Efforts are being made to have the sessions open to the public.

It is considered likely that the first step of the conference will be to refer the reservations to a committee for examination and report. Some delegates who are already here have announced that they will seek to have the reservations declared acceptable so as to bring the United States into the Court as a member.

Tears Down Sign as Nuisance, Quotes Old Law to Justify It

After quoting old English law to justify his tearing down an advertising placard which he said had obstructed his view, Branson Stimmel of 343 West End Avenue, with an insurance brokerage business at 15 Park Row, was nevertheless held in $50 bail for trial in Special Sessions yesterday by Magistrate Henry M. R. Goodman.

Stimmel was summoned to court by the Forty-second Street, Manhattanville & St. Nicholas Avenue Railway Company, which alleged malicious mischief, asserting that on Aug. 5 he tore down an advertising sign pasted on a window of a Third Avenue elevated train.

The defendant contended he was justified in his action and quoted an old English common law, which said that any citizen had the right to remove a public nuisance.

WINANT SEEKS DATA ON 'LIQUOR INQUIRY'

LOOKS FOR ITS BACKERS

Governor Says Agent Declared He Was Inquiring Into Prohibition.

CONCORD, N. H., Aug. 27 (AP).—Governor John G. Winant ordered Attorney General Jeremy Waldron today to investigate the reported inquiry into New Hampshire primary campaign expenditure by nineteen detectives working under William H. Barbour, of a private detective agency for a national nonpartisan organization. Suspicion that the inquiry was not the disinterested investigation it was at first represented to be was expressed by the Governor.

"If Mr. Barbour of the Burns Agency is in fact in New Hampshire to investigate campaign expenditures," said Governor Winant, "he lied to me when he told me that he was in New Hampshire to investigate prohibition. If Mr. Barbour of the Burns Agency did not tell me the truth in regard to his real mission in New Hampshire, it is fair to assume that the investigation of primary expenditures is not a disinterested investigation, but conducted under cover to aid individual candidates.

"Any candidate who would be a party to the wholesale employment of outside 'sleuths' paid by outside interests and working under the mask of a prohibition survey, shows no regard for the moral intelligence of the New Hampshire citizens. These methods were employed by Fall and Doheny in Washington. I do not propose that they shall be used in New Hampshire.

"I have ordered an immediate investigation of the facts by the Attorney General's department. I am further advised by the Attorney General's office that the campaign expenditures are having, and will have, the careful attention of the department and that violations will be vigorously prosecuted.

WORCESTER, Mass., Aug. 27 (AP).—Authentic information from official inside sources was received in this city today from Concord, N. H., that nineteen detectives representing a detective agency who, under the guise of making a survey of facts as to public opinion on prohibition, are investigating outlays of political candidates, are soon to visit Massachusetts to inquire into political campaign expenses.

The refusal of the New York office of the agency to confirm or deny that its agents are in New Hampshire is taken with some amusement in Concord, the dispatch states, as the head of the detectives frequently has presented his personal card bearing the agency name and advertising.

CHARGES BIGAMY; MET HERE

Mrs. Kate Horne Has Ernest Brandon Arrested in London.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 27.—A wealthy woman of 59 who, while residing in New York, in 1922 engaged as her secretary a London engineer whom she later married at Cape Town, today had him arraigned in court here on a charge of bigamy. She was Mrs. Kate Snyder Horne, and the prisoner is Ernest Edwin Brandon.

He was held without bail till next Friday.

The woman's attorney said that she believed Brandon to be single till their wedding day, but that just after the ceremony she discovered a deed in which appeared the name of Lillian Frances Brandon as Ernest Brandon's wife.

In her testimony the complainant said that during her investigation of Brandon's past she returned to New York in 1923. She produced a certified copy of Ernest Edwin and Lillian Brandon's marriage certificate, showing that they had been married in Trinity Church, New York, on Aug. 10, 1913.

The complainant also offered in evidence a document served on her in Paris in 1925 in which Lillian F. Brandon named Mrs. Horne as defendant in a suit for the alienation of the affections of Brandon. Lillian Brandon asked damages of $100,000.

Mrs. Kate S. Horne, who formerly had lived at the Hotel McAlpin but who was then residing in Paris, was sued on Oct. 18, 1924, in the Supreme Court in Brooklyn by Mrs. Lillian Brandon for $100,000 damages for alleged alienation of the affections of her husband, Ernest E. Brandon.

Mrs. Horne and Brandon were alleged to have gone through a wedding ceremony abroad in March, 1923.

Mrs. Brandon said she and her husband had lived happily at West Englewood, N. J., for ten years after they were married.

Robs Woman in Home of $1,500 Gems

SOUTH ORANGE, N. J., Aug. 27.—A neatly dressed man walked into the home off Mrs. Walker Forstner at 566 Hamilton Road this afternoon and forced her at the point of a revolver to go upstairs while he stole $1,500 worth of jewelry and escaped in an automobile. Mrs. Forstner, who is 50 years old, was too excited to give the police a good description of the robber.

MAGISTRATE DENIES WARRING ON POLICE

"ODD," McLAUGHLIN SAYS

Court Should Rather Declare War on Crooks, He Declares—Wants Grand Jury Hearing.

Acting District Attorney Pecora announced yesterday that he requested from Magistrate Edward Weil in the Essex Market Court a transcript of the testimony in the hearing on Wednesday of two prisoners discharged by the Magistrate after two detectives had charged they found pistols on the men in a raid on the Lincoln League Republican Club, at 264 Grand Street, before dawn last Saturday. Mr. Pecora had just received a communication from Commissioner McLaughlin requesting that the detectives' charges against the two men, Joseph Schwartz of 81 Eldridge Street and Nathan Feinberg of 65 Forsyth Street, be laid before the Grand Jury. The prosecutor said that further action by him would depend on the contents of the record.

Inspector David J. McAuliffe, commander of the lower east side district, had sent a communication the day before to Commissioner McLaughlin expressing the belief that Detectives McSherry and Ford of his staff had presented a "bona fide case" against Schwartz and Feinberg at the Magistrate's hearing and suggested that the Commissioner ask for a Grand Jury investigation.

Statement by McLaughlin.

Mr. McLaughlin made public the Inspector's report and later, while engaged in the trial of another case, Magistrate Weil told a detective that he was ready to wage "war" on the Commissioner. Mr. McLaughlin, on reading the Magistrate's announcement yesterday, issued this statement:

"I regard it as a very odd statement for a Magistrate to make that the policy he intends to pursue is 'war upon the police.' I regret that that is his intention, as it indicates to me that he is going to assume an antagonistic attitude to the police in all cases that they have before him. I would much rather have him declare war upon the criminal element, particularly those individuals who are carrying guns and who are hired as protectors at gambling establishments.

"So far as going to the Grand Jury with the cases of the two gun toters, both of whom had been convicted previously of serious charges, I regard it as my duty in a case of that kind to see that the facts are brought to the attention of the District Attorney and the Grand Jury.

"There is nothing new in this, for Magistrate Weil, as a former Assistant District Attorney, knows that the submission of cases to a Grand Jury after they have been dismissed in the Magistrates' courts is an old and a sound practice."

Weil Explains Statement.

Following the announcement of Mr. Pecora, Magistrate Weil issued a statement, in which he said:

"I am sorry that there should be a misinterpretation on the part of Commissioner McLaughlin regarding my attitude toward the police. Far from declaring war upon the police, I have always since I entered public life, a quarter of a century ago, waged war on the criminal element. Now, as a magistrate, it is my ardent wish that the police furnish me with such evidence as will enable me to hold criminals under the law.

"I am not only willing but eager to cooperate with the Commissioner and the Police Department in the prosecution of crime and criminals. However, the Commissioner, who is himself a lawyer, should undoubtedly know that Magistrates' courts function under the law. The fact that two defendants in the case under discussion had been previously convicted of misdemeanors, not felonies, although even if convicted of felonies the same law would have application, must not be considered by the Court in determining the guilt or innocence of a person charged with crime. And this is the law as established by the Court of Appeals of the State, over and over again.

"I yield to no man," not even the Commissioner, in my obligations to and zeal for the welfare of our great city."

MRS. MAYO, ACTRESS, GETS ANNULMENT

Testifies Movie Player Had a Wife When She Married Him—He Does Not Contest Suit.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Aug. 27.—The marriage of Dagmar Godowsky Mayo to Frank Mayo, both motion picture performers, was annulled today by Supreme Court Justice George H. Taylor Jr. on the grounds that Mayo had another wife when he married Dagmar Godowsky, daughter of the pianist, at Tiajuana, Mexico, on Oct. 2, 1921. Mayo appeared in court and said he did not care to defend the suit.

Mrs. Mayo testified she was deceived into thinking that Mayo was single when she married him. Evidence was offered that the first wife, Joyce Hill, whom Mayo married in London on June 6, 1914, divorced him twenty-four days after his second marriage. The interlocutory degree was granted in Los Angeles on Oct. 26, 1921, and the final decree permitting remarriage by Mayo was not granted until May 28, 1925.

Justice Taylor called for Mayo, who had been pacing the corridors for hours. When he took the stand, Justice Taylor warned him, "Do not answer any question that will degrade or incriminate you. What I want to know is, do you want to deny any of the allegations made by your wife?"

Mayo groped for words and finally mumbled, "No."

Chef Kills Himself in Seattle.

SEATTLE, Wash., Aug. 27 (AP).—The suicide by hanging yesterday of Harry Stahl, restaurateur, said to have once been a chef at the Waldorf-Astoria in New York, in a sanitarium, was learned today. No motive is known. Stahl had said he was a musician and that he had accompanied Mme. Schumann-Heink in concerts in Germany and the United States.

Augustus Nuller, managing director of the Waldorf, who has been there twenty-five years, could not recall Stahl yesterday. The present chef, Eugene Thormann, has been at the Waldorf twenty years and also said he did not know Stahl.

Autoist Speeds Across Continent in 83 Hours; Beats Train Time by 10 Hours; Sets a Record

Louis B. Miller, San Francisco auto accessories dealer and speed enthusiast, arrived in this city yesterday afternoon after having completed the trip across the continent in eighty-three hours and twelve minutes, which established a record. Miller averaged more than forty miles an hour for the 3,367 miles he covered and broke the best train records for the distance by ten hours.

Mr. Miller and one companion, J. E. Wieber of Portland, Ore., who acted as mechanic and relief driver, stopped on the trip only to take on gas and oil and occasionally to eat a sandwich. Upon his arrival Miller, who is 51 years old, submitted to a physical examination by Dr. H. G. Bullwinkel at Roosevelt Hospital. He showed no ill effects from the strain except the loss of five pounds.

The men made the trip in a Wills-Sainte Claire stock roadster, in which Mr. Miller a year ago went from New York to San Francisco in 102 hours and 45 minutes. Mr. Miller said that improved roads were the greatest factors in enabling him to cut his former time.

The route followed was the Lincoln Highway. No serious mishaps marred the trip and the only delay came in Newark, where a traffic policeman halted them for a few minutes.

Mr. Miller brought a letter from W. H. B. Fowler, assistant publisher of The San Francisco Chronicle, to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

FRENCH CROWD SEES MURDER RE-ENACTED

Police and Girl's Slayer Put On Spectacle in Field Where Body Was Burned.

BROKER 'CHOKES' GENDARME

Wealthy Parisian Calmly Shows How He Strangled Young Woman In His Automobile.

MEAUX, France, Aug. 27 (AP).—The brutal slaying of a simple country girl by her rich lover from the city was re-enacted in a field near this city today while a crowd of 1,500 Parisians and peasants gazed on the spectacle morbidly. In Paris, twenty-five miles away, and in all the big cities and towns of France millions of others eagerly awaited details of the spectacle in the afternoon papers.

Gaston Guyot, a Paris stock broker, has confessed to strangling Marie Louise Beulaguet while motoring with her on the evening of Aug. 13. He said he had placed the body near a haystack in the field, which was later burned. The prisoner was brought from his prison cell to show the police how it all happened.

The thrill-loving public in this country does not always have to depend on its imagination plus picture newspapers for the details of a sensational crime. It not infrequently happens that the police confront an accused prisoner with a "reconstructed" crime in all its proper setting and all its characters present except the dead and buried victim.

So it was today. Guyot, whose crime for a fortnight has almost succeeded in taking the public mind, off high prices and the falling franc, was brought out here to reconstruct his crime on the scene where he confessed it had occurred. A steady stream of automobiles came from Paris bearing spectators, and all the roads around resounded with the clopping of the sabots of the villagers hurrying to the spectacle.

Policeman Acts as Victim.

Guyot's long, low, red automobile was brought out by the police and the accused placed at the wheel. A big policeman sat beside him playing the rôle of the dead girl. Guyot was then told to demonstrate how he had strangled his sweetheart with his right hand and driven with his left. Unperturbed, Guyot stepped on the gas, pretended to argue with the policeman and gripping the wheel with his left hand reached over with his right and clutched the thick-necked gendarme by the throat.

It was not such a formidable grip as that which left the livid marks on the dead girl's neck. The policeman did not lose his breath. He did not even cough when Guyot released his clutch.

Guyot told the police that he thus choked the girl to death with his relentless grasp. When she slumped down in her seat, quite dead, he said, he turned off on a side road and stopped by a hayfield. With much animation he showed how he dragged the body of the girl from the car and placed it on the new-mown stubble near a haystack, which was found completely burned when the body was discovered by the police.

Then the police brought up bales of hay, with which they reconstructed the stack, so that Guyot might even more vividly re-enact the scene. He explained that he did not intend to set fire to the haystack on the evening of the crime. He said it was an accident.

Nonchalantly Fires the Stack.

Turning to a journalist, he borrowed a match to light his pipe, and then tossed it aside carelessly on the new stacked hay. To the amazement of all the bystanders, whose long experience had left them little faith in the ignition of French matches, the haystack immediately caught fire and quickly burned to the ground. A chemist rushed up and took specimens of the smoke in jars, indicating the defense may contend that the girl died of asphyxiation. Guyot then explained to the police that if he had wanted to burn the body he would have surrounded it more carefully with the hay.

After the spectacle was over the peasants and the city folk sat down to luncheons under the near-by trees. A charabanc loaded with American tourists on their way to the Marne battlefields drew up. The guide pointed out one site not on the usual program, and just then the farmer who owned the haystack, rushing up to Guyot, demanded 22,500 francs for the hay that was burned on the night of the crime. The millionaire broker, with an air of disdain, turned from the indignant farmer to the police officials and said: "Go ahead, pay him. I'm above such details."

MELLON VISITS THE LEAGUE.

Few Recognize Secretary on Informal Call to Headquarters.

Special Cable to the Chicago Tribune Co.

GENEVA, Aug. 27.—The Secretary of the United States Treasury, Andrew W. Mellon, informally and unexpectedly visited the League of Nations today, accompanying Seymour Parker Gilbert, Agent General under the Dawes reparation plan, who interviewed Sir Arthur Salter, Director of the League of Nations' financial section.

Mr. Mellon was not recognized even by M. Titulesco, the Rumanian Minister to London, who negotiated the debt settlement in Washington, or by Afrania Mello-Franco of Brazil, who was paying a final visit to his League colleagues.

On the other side of the hall the disarmament delegates, including the American members of the committee, were indulging in heated arguments over naval and aerial limitation.

The newspaper men lounging in the lobby mostly were unaware of his presence.

Mr. Mellon returned to Evian-les-Bains by motor this evening. He probably will leave for Paris over the weekend.

ALLIES AGAIN CHARGE GERMANY IS ARMING

ALLEGATIONS ARE DENIED

French Militaristic Clique Said to Be Intriguing to Interfere With Locarno Treaties.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Aug. 27.—The receipt of three new allied notes on disarmament, couched in what the Wilhelmstrasse spokesmen termed an "alarming tone," was admitted in official quarters here tonight. In these communications the Council of Ambassadors complains about the military activities of German patriotic societies, illegal enlistment of volunteers in the Reichswehr and deliberate obstacles placed in the path of the Interallied Control Commission's inquiries.

On the German Government's behalf it is alleged that the charges in question are baseless. The reply to the Entente will be formulated, it is stated, not only by Foreign Minister Stresemann, but by General von Pavels, head of the German military commission dealing with disarmament matters. There is a tendency here to attribute the notes to intrigue on the part of the French militaristic clique which is supposed to be desirous of stirring up trouble between France and Germany before the Reich's admission to the League of Nations, and thereby, if possible, preventing consummation of the Locarno treaties.

German officials concede that the Council of Ambassadors' latest move can hinder friendly reception of the German petition at Geneva. While the unpleasant character of the notes is conceded, it is pointed out they are merely additions to some 2,700 messages of a similar character received from Paris during the last six years.

On behalf of Foreign Minister Stresemann, emphasis also is laid on the alleged recent change in attitude of the patriotic societies. The Order of Young Germans, the Wilhelmstrasse declares, now is strongly in favor of the Franco-Russia, and a meeting to discuss joint German alliance against Bolshevist action against the Soviets has been arranged between German and French war veterans.

To a certain extent, the cloven hoof of Premier Poincaré—as he still appears to the Germans—is seen in the allied recriminations. Foreign Minister Stresemann, however, has no doubt that the French Premier means to support the entry of Germany into the League. The disarmament development, it is felt, possibly may be designed for the purpose of bargaining with the Reich over the number of French troops to be maintained in the Rhineland.

SPAIN ASKED PARLEY.

Note to Powers Said to Have Contained General Invitation.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 27.—The Spanish Government has, according to the diplomatic correspondent of The Daily Telegraph, sprung a bombshell upon all the powers signatory to the Tangier Convention and to the Act of Algeciras.

The technical memorandum on the Tangier problem, handed by Spain to the Governments of Britain, France and Italy, included an invitation to a conference on the whole Tangier question to be held in Geneva on Sept 1 on the eve of the meeting of the Council of the League of Nations.

Even more surprising is the fact that this invitation was also extended to all the powers which were signatory to the two documents mentioned above, including the minor signatories, Holland, Belgium, Portugal and also, it is believed, the United States.

Sweden seems to have been included in Spain's circular invitation, not in regard to Tangier but in regard to the question of permanent seats on the League Council, with which Madrid is still seeking to connect the Tangier matter.

The summoning of the minor powers is said to have been wholly unexpected in London.

The Vatican is said to be using all its influence with Spain to dissuade her either from creating undue difficulties in Geneva or from leaving the League.

ABD-EL KRIM GOES TO EXILE.

FEZ, Morocco, Aug. 27.—Mournful, ill, yet patient with the characteristic Moslem fatalism, Abd-el Krim today boarded a special train here for Casablanca, where he will embark tomorrow for perpetual exile on Reunion Island. With him were his brother and War Minister, Si Mohamed Ben Abd-el Krim; his secretary, Abd-el Essem Ben Mohamed, their wives and children, a military doctor and armed guards. In all twenty-four Moroccans comprise the exiled family.

As Abd-el Krim leaves the soil where his exploits brought 250,000 white men to maintain the French and Spanish protectorates and the Sultan's sovereignty, European armies are still battling against the remaining dissidents between Quezzan and Cechhouain. The French in two days have succeeded in regaining sixty square kilometers of territory without loss, and with the Spanish on their left are erasing the rebel zone blocking the mountain passes to Cechhouain from the west.

BRIAND DENIES PLEA OF SPAIN ON TANGIER

French Reply to Madrid Declares No Case Has Been Made for a League Mandate.

NEW ACCORD IS PROMISED

Copyright, 1926, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Aug. 27.—General Primo de Rivera's efforts to obtain a modification of the Statute of Tangier have met with no success in France.

In reply to the memorandum containing the suggestion that Spain receive a mandate over Tangier under the League of Nations, Foreign Minister Briand has replied that, Tangier being an integral part of the empire of the Sultan of Morocco, such a suggestion cannot be entertained.

A League mandate can be conferred on a power, continues M. Briand, only in the case of the failure of the actual rulers to maintain order, or the incapacity of people to govern themselves, and neither of these is the case in either Morocco or Tangier.

The Foreign Minister adds that France will not refuse to examine with every consideration the Spanish claims and will seek, in agreement with Britain and conformably to existing treaties, a solution of the Tangier question which will be acceptable all round.

This polite reply to the Spanish Government cannot, whatever its wording, be interpreted otherwise than as a direct and final "no" to the suggestions which the Spanish Premier, in apparent concert with Italy, has put forward. At least that is the way the note is regarded here.

In the memorandum which the Spanish Government sent first to Italy the main subject of the Spanish complaint was the preponderance of French influence in the administration of Tangier. Their second argument was that contrabrand trade and nationalist propaganda were being extensively conducted through the international zone.

French Counter Spanish Complaints.

But to these two arguments the French reply is, first, that Tangier depends for its existence and prosperity on peace in and commerce with Morocco, and that the affairs of the port therefore are most largely their concern; second, that more contraband trade was done along the Riffian coast under the Spaniards during the Riffian war than was ever done through Tangier.

The Spaniards further attribute to the present statute the decline of trade and the unsatisfactory business conditions of the port. There again, however, the French reply declares that this is due more to the long war with the Riffian tribes and general world conditions.

During the past few days there have been several consultations between the British Embassy here and the Quai d'Orsay on the nature of the reply which was to be sent, and it is understood that an agreement between the British and French as to the impossibility of making Tangier a mandated territory and their future attitude toward a rearrangement is complete.

Think Spain Will Not Make Trouble.

PARIS, Aug. 27 (AP).—The delicate operation of smoothing out all troubles in advance so that the Seventh Assembly of the League of Nations may not be marred by "incidents" has been more or less interrupted by the sudden recrudescence of Spain's demand that the neutral zone of Tangier in Northwest Morocco be given over to Spanish control and Spain's renewed request for a permanent seat in the Council of the League of Nations.

The opinion prevails in Paris that Spain, while she may link Tangier with the question of Council membership as a diplomatic means of getting as much as possible, will not present any serious difficulty to the entrance of Germany into the Council, and there is a general feeling of optimism that the most important matter on the Assembly's agenda (the admission of Germany) will be accomplished.

France is not opposed to Spain's demand for a seat in the League Council and might even support it should the possibility of a compromise arise that would not jeopardize the entry of Germany.

Nevertheless, it is believed that Spain will make no trouble at the coming session of the Assembly on the Council membership question.

TANGIER, Aug. 27.—The international city passed a troubled night, but happily order has now been restored.

On learning that one of their members had been arrested under an expulsion order, the Spanish Workers' Union met at midnight and a great crowd of Spanish workmen filled the streets.

Cafés were visited and waiters turned out and a general strike was announced for today. A Red Cross fête was taking place in the Kursaal which was invaded by the workmen. The Spanish representative was present and addressed the crowd, stating his reasons for the arrest and proposed expulsion and calmed their fear of further acts of repression.

The crowd tried to prevent the arrested man being put aboard a Spanish warship, but, thanks to the Spanish representative's energy and frankness, it was persuaded to desist. He gave out the police record and the prisoner's antecedents with considerable effect on the crowd, which was not awar of the man's history.

The Italian diplomatic agent today visited the French Consul and in the name of the Italian Government protested against the insulting references to Signor Mussolini contained in a manifesto published in the Dépêche Marocaine yesterday.

It is understood he demanded that steps be taken to punish those responsible for this breach of international good manners. Every one's sympathies are with the Spaniards and Italians in this matter.

Sails to Study Housing In London.

Aaron R. Rabinowitz will sail on the Majestic today to study recent housing progress in England in the interest of the New York State Board of Housing, of which he is a member. He will confer with Raymond Unwin, the noted British city planner, with C. B. Purdom of Letchworth and Welwyn Garden Cities, and other housing experts. He will give special attention to the dwellings constructed by the London County Council, in which more than 60,000 former residents of London slum areas are now living.

FRENCH OPTIMISTIC ON LEAGUE SEATS

COUNCIL MEETS WEDNESDAY

Paris Believes Germany's Election to Permanent Seat Will Virtually Be Accomplished Next Week.

By EDWIN L. JAMES.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Aug. 27.—It is the best opinion in Government circles in Paris that Germany will be admitted to the League of Nations during the first few days of the Assembly, which opens in Geneva on Sept. 6

No explanation of this optimism is obtainable and no official announcement has been made of any settlement of the problem of Council seats, which, on the surface, remains as tangled as last March, when certain powers prevented the admission of Germany at that time.

However, conversations have been going on among the jurists of Britain, France and Germany, and Sir Austen Chamberlain and Aristide Briand have been working on the problem.

It is reported that the plan of Viscount Cecil for the creation of semi-permanent seats for Poland, Spain and Brazil will be adopted, although Spain at least has given little evidence of being satisfied with a five-year place instead of the permanent seat on the Council which she has been demanding.

Poland can probably be brought into line by France, and Brazil at present is out of the reckoning, since she has withdrawn from League activities.

The committee in reorganizing the Council will meet in Geneva on Monday and the Council itself on Wednesday, so that it is likely that the problem of Germany's admission will virtually be solved before the Assembly opens; for, in reality, all depends on the decisions of the Council, there never having been any doubt that two-thirds of the Assembly would approve the German application.

Apparently the Germans have made up their minds not to repeat last March's performance of waiting at the door; for they have let it be known that they are ready to go to Geneva as soon as the conditions of their admittance are decided on, which is another way of saying that they will go only when the League is ready to receive them.

There has been no apparent weakening of the German contention that Germany must be the only new permanent member of the Council named on the occasion of their joining the League.

Outside the admission of Germany the coming Assembly promises to be tame, and, assuming Germany is admitted in the first few days, it is not believed that the session will last more than three weeks.

While the Assembly will, of course, take note of the disarmament work done in Geneva, that work has not advanced far enough for the League to call any general conference.

The much-mooted problem of Tangier will be dealt with elsewhere than in Geneva. So that, while one never knows what may happen when the delegates of more than fifty nations gather, the present prospects do not point to an exciting Assembly.

Some observers, however, think Germany, as soon as she is admitted, will try to raise the issue of war guilt, but indications seem to point away from her starting trouble next month.

GREEK ARMY OFFICERS WILL AVOID POLITICS

New Condylis Government Is Informed They Will Not Interfere as in Past.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ATHENS, Aug. 27.—The new Government, after taking the oath, met last night for the first time and drew up a statement of policy. Public opinion in Athens has been reassured by the wording of their pronouncement.

A marked tendency has developed among the army officers to deprecate interference in politics. General Othonais, who has arrived from Saloniki, informed General Condylis this was the unanimous desire of Macedonian garrisons, and other corps commanders made similar avowals. The Government is taking steps to protect the army from political exploitation in the future and will enforce provisions of the Constitution which prevent active and reserve officers from becoming parliamentary candidates.

Resignations of Lieut. Col. Zervas, one of the prime movers in both General Pangalos's and the recent coup d'état, and General Sarrigiannis, Chief of the General Staff are therefore symptomatic. Sarrigiannis, in explaining his resignation, strongly urged that service in the army is service of the country and should cease to be regarded as the service of individual politicians, a plea which he felt would be unconvincing if he remained in the service.

The Government's first act was to sign a decree abolishing the Corps de Securité Générale de l'Etat, thereby effecting an annual economy of 35,000,000 drachmas.

The function of this servicee was surveillance of foreigners and persons inimical to the dictatorship. In its covert internal espionage it employed methods recalling those of medieval Venice. General Condylis declared that his Government required neither bodyguard nor talebearers.

General Tseroulis, Captain Collalexis and M. Bouffides have been released. M. Macris, former Under Secretary of the Council of Ministers, is still imprisoned.

LABOR UNIONS HERE SETTLE OLD FIGHTS

GREEN'S EFFORTS EFFECTIVE

COUNCIL HARD AT WORK

Will Continue Its Sessions at Montreal Until Monday Night.

Special to The New York Times.

MONTREAL, Aug. 27.—The Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor in session here received formal announcement today that the long-standing jurisdictional dispute in New York City between the Tunnel and Subway Workers' International Union and the Blacksmiths, Drop Forgers and Helpers' Union had been settled with satisfaction to both sides. The council noted its approval of the settlement in the official report it is now preparing for the forty-sixth annual convention of the federation at Detroit in October.

Jurisdiction over tool sharpeners, or "dressers," was the bone of contention, and the matter had been pending for several years. The settlement itself was on the basis of a compromise and was arrived at in a conference of both sides which was called this Summer by President William Green of the American Federation.

The amicable termination of the dispute is the latest in a series of significant conciliations effected within the American Federation of Labor under the Green administration. Perhaps the most important in point of numbers has been the progress made in bringing together the carpenters and sheet metal workers, who have been at odds for twenty-one years.

New Materials Divided Unions.

The development of metal doors, sashes, trim and other building materials formerly exclusively of wood divided the two unions on the question of which should do the work. The carpenters contended that a door was a door and a window a window, whether it was wood or metal, and remained carpenters' work. The sheet-metal workers were equally insistent that "sheet metal" was self-explanatory and automatically placed the work in such materials on their side of the contract.

The matter was carried to the Board of Jurisdictional Awards, and peace was almost despaired of until the two sides themselves finally got together a short while ago. Agreement was finally reached on the basis of a fair "give and take" between the national officers of the two unions, and the compact was referred to the respective Executive Boards for ratification.

The carpenters' board has ratified the settlement, President Green announced today. The matter is still pending before the board of the sheet-metal workers, but, it is said, with indications of favorable action. About 350,000 carpenters and 35,000 sheet metal workers are involved, and President Green said that the Executive Council of the Federation expressed much gratification at the turn events had taken.

Root Arbitrator in One Difficulty.

A third jurisdictional dispute which shows hopeful signs is the bricklayers and plasterers' difficulty. Decision in this controversy will be rendered in October by a tribunal of three, of which Elihu Root is Chairman and the impartial third member. The other members are a bricklayer and a plasterer. President Green personally secured Mr. Root's acceptance of the chairmanship in a recent visit to the statesman's home at Clinton, N. Y.

All of these developments are being recorded in the Executive Council's report here, and spokesmen say they are typical of the constructive type of the forthcoming document itself. The council today buckled down to its preparation of the report in earnest, and was hard at it from early morning until 6 o'clock. President Green said at adjournment for the day that the council had prepared and adopted a number of sections during the morning and afternoon sessions and was making substantial progress.

Will Put In Full Saturday.

However, after taking stock of the work still ahead, President Green announced tonight that the council would continue in session throughout Monday at least, and indicated that the council would put itself through "an eight-hour Saturday" to catch up on its schedule.

President Green was forced to cancel a speaking engagement at Silver Bay Lake, N. Y., tomorrow evening at the Industrial council being conducted there by the Y. M. C. A. He said that Vice President Matthew Woll would leave by train tomorrow to fill the date for him.

President Green will address the news writers of Montreal tomorrow on the attitude of the federation toward journalism.

CARPENTERS OPPOSE RULING

Appeal From Referee's Decision Against Brindell's Successor.

A faction of Local 2717 of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America moved in the Supreme Court in Brooklyn yesterday to set aside the judgment of Referee Russell Benedict which enjoined it and John Halkett, successor to Robert P. Brindell as head of the Building Trades' Council, from usurping powers of officials of the local. The judgment also ordered an accounting of funds said to have been misappropriated.

In applying to Justice Burt J. Humphrey yesterday, Halkett and his associates asserted that the referee's decision was premature. They charged that he had not passed upon evidence submitted by them and that it was impossible for them, therefore, to take a satisfactory appeal.

Donald Marks, attorney for Joseph Feldman, whom the referee held to be the duly elected President of the local, opposed the application and called it "a backhanded and insidious attempt to nullify an adverse decision after a fair trial." Decision on the application was reserved.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

More Irregularity in Stocks, Railways Strong—Sterling Lower, Francs Higher.

With no change of importance in the money market, yesterday's movement on the Stock Exchange showed somewhat more of irregularity than that of the day before. Railway shares as a rule continued to advance; some of the day's statements of July earnings were particularly remarkable, the Atchison, for instance, showing an increase of $3,722,000 in net operating revenue for the month, following an increase of $1,155,000 in the same month last year. Even the case of the Pennsylvania, which apparently provided an exception by its decrease of $502,000 in net from July, 1925, was modified by the fact that the road had made in that month the exceptional gain of $4,933,000 over 1924.

Such results in midsummer transportation business, with the subsequent showing of loaded traffic maintaining the previous increase above last year, are bound to make the Autumn and Winter returns extremely interesting. They throw considerable light on the negotiations which have been in progress for the acquisition of other roads by experienced railway men, and at least indicate that the "railway problem" is finding its own solution in the general prosperity of the country. Some of the industrial shares moved up a point or two yesterday, others declined; but the market's general tendency was firm.

Sterling declined to the lowest price of the week yesterday, francs advanced to the highest, but the movement of neither market was important. The return of the franc to a figure a small fraction below 3 cents, and its seeming inability to cross that rate on the rise, would appear to reflect belief in the Paris market that the 3-cent parity is likely to get consideration in the eventual stabilizing of the franc on a gold-redemption basis. The Poincaré Government has been careful not to commit itself on that question; going no further than to declare, when the franc had declined to the neighborhood of 2 cents, that the then-existing price was below intrinsic value.

As was the case in this month a year ago, the mercantile trade reviews, after a rather long series of weekly bulletins reflecting rather the dissatisfaction than the hopes of merchants, have begun to sound the note of cheerfulness, and this is distinctly their character at the present week-end. Dun's Review remarks that "results in the month now closing have been unusually favorable, on the whole"; that "the practical absence of speculative excesses in trade is reassuring, sound basic conditions strengthening prospects for a good Fall business, and conservative optimism the ruling sentiment." In all these present surveys of the state of trade, the noteworthy testimony is the evidence of revival in trades which have shown reactionary tendencies during most of 1926.

The description of the cotton goods market as "well sold up for deliveries into October," and the statement that large buyers have been active in the wool market, with more of the product moved than for a long time past, are fairly safe evidence that the favorable business conditions now prevalent in the country are reaching in all directions. Perhaps the most interesting aspect of this testimony is its proof that business activity and prosperity can occur on the basis of generally declining prices, provided the decline is not precipitous and reflects increasing supplies of raw material in a market where purchasers of finished goods are able to buy freely. The statement of the Reserve Board's end-of-August bulletin, that midsummer sales at department stores and mail-order houses have been respectively 4 and 13 per cent. greater than a year ago, yet that midsummer merchandise inventories were no larger than at the corresponding date in 1925, reflects that phase of the situation.

A PROSPEROUS small business often fails to succeed when it grows big, because there is lacking the personal touch of principal with patron—a factor equally valuable in a banking connection.

FORTY ROADS SHOW 30% GAIN IN INCOME

July Net for All Lines Likely to Reach $120,000,000—High Mark for Atchison.

B. & O.'S NET UP $6,500,000

Boston & Maine, the Northwestern and Rio Grande Among Those Reporting Increases.

The striking increase in profits reported by railroads yesterday indicated that an upward revision would be necessary in the estimate of July net operating income, which was recently placed at $110,000,000. With the first forty carriers reporting aggregate net of $76,952,620, as compared with $59,620,046 in July, 1925, an increase of nearly 30 per cent., the promise is that July of this year will reach a total net operating income of nearly $120,000,000, compared with $99,462,735 in July last.

Gross revenues of the forty roads total $366,881,822, against $342,452,546 in July last year, an increase of 7.1 per cent., and against $354,791,890 in June, an increase of 3.4 per cent.

The most remarkable statement was that of the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe, which reported an increase of $4,996,762, or 24.3 per cent. over July, 1925, the largest percentage of any major carrier to report for July. Net operating income of $8,446,943 compared with $4,724,336, an advance of about 80 per cent. over a month which was 31 per cent. ahead of July, 1924. The figures were made possible by the movement of record grain traffic in the Southwest, where the Atchison has extended its rails into fertile wheat areas previously fifty miles or more away from railroad facilities.

Statement of the Baltimore & Ohio showed an advance in net operating income from $4,197,143 to $5,609,773, and an increase in net for the seven months of nearly $6,500,000.

RATIFY REORGANIZING OF BOSTON & MAINE

BOSTON, Aug. 27 (AP).—Stockholders of the Boston & Maine Railroad voted unanimously toda to ratify all actions taken by stockholders, directors and the Executive Committee relating to the reorganization of the road.

The action was taken at an adjourned special meeting at which 611,497 shares were voted.

The reorganization involves the subscription by stockholders of $13,000,000 in new prior preference stock, the proceeds of which are to be used in improvements for more efficient and economical operation.

The plans also call for an extension of fifteen years from dates of maturity of $43,000,000 in bonds.

At an auction sale after the meeting 14,828 shares of 7 per cent. prior preference stock remaining after subscriptions by stockholders to the 130,000 shares provided under the reorganization plan, were disposed of. Security houses were the principal bidders. The shares brought a high of 198½ and an average of 102½

The establishment of a general agency of the Boston & Maine Railroad at Philadelphia in charge of C. H. Keleher was announced yesterday by Gerrit Fort, Vice President in charge of traffic. The new office increases to fourteen the off-line agencies maintained by the Boston & Maine. It will be opened Sept. 1.

TEXAN OPPOSES LOREE PLAN

Appeals to State Railroad Commission Against Merger.

R. C. Duff, President of the Waco, Beaumont, Trinity & Sabine Railway, has filed a petition with the Texas Railroad Commission alleging that the plan of Leonor F. Loree to operate jointly the St. Louis Southwestern, Kansas City Southern and Missouri-Kansas-Texas Railroads is against the traffic and commercial interest of Texas. The commission has submitted the question to the Attorney General of Texas for an opinion.

Mr. Duff opposes the Loree plan on the ground that if the proposed unification is consummated the M.-K.-T. will be released from a stipulation contained in an agreed judgment several years ago that it shall construct a line from Waco to a connection with the present Waco, Beaumont, Trinity & Sabine Railway at Weldon.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE.

Rates Move Within Narrow Range —Sterling Again Slightly Easier.

Movements in the foreign exchange market were very narrow yesterday. Sterling continued to ease off owing to commodity purchases and is now about three-quarters of a cent lower than at the close of last week. French exchange, Belgian and Italian were firm, and little change was shown in other European rates. Far Eastern and South American currencies also were steady, with little activity. The premium on the Canadian dollar increased and further gold shipments to the Dominion are expected.

FOREIGN STOCK MARKETS.

Yesterday's Trading Quiet—Sterling and Dollars Lower at Paris.

LONDON, Aug. 27.—Trading was quiet and prices moved irregularly on the Stock Exchange today. Old 2½ per cent. consols ¼ lower at 55; British 5 per cent. war loan 101¼; 5½ per cent. war loan 95½; both unchanged.

PARIS, Aug. 27.—Trading was quiet on the Bourse today. Three per cent. rentes 10 centimes higher at 50 francs; 5 per cent. war loan 15 centimes lower at 53 francs 10 centimes.

Exchange on London 95 centimes lower at 169 francs. The American dollar was quoted at 34 francs 88 centimes, against 35 francs 2 centimes yesterday.

MORE GOLD TO GERMANY.

Reichsbank's $5,000,000 Withdrawal Makes $20,000,000 in Month.

An additional shipment of $5,000,000 of gold to Germany was announced yesterday by the Federal Reserve Bank of New York. This makes $20,000,000 so transferred in the last month, representing a witthdrawal by the Reichsbank of portions of the ear-marked gold it had held here as external reserve.

The gold withdrawals have been made by Germany to protect its position in connection with the restoration of free trading in the reichsmark, which action was announced on Wednesday. Trading in the reichsmark has increased since the removal of the official "peg," but the movement of the rate so far has been limited. The reichsmark was quoted yesterday at 23.82 cents, as against the stabilized rate of 23.81 cents.

It was pointed out yesterday that exports of ear-marked gold have no bearing on the credit situation. The effect on credit, if any, takes place at the time the gold is set aside for earmarking, after which its disposition makes no difference as far as the general situation is concerned.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

News, Comment and Incident, On the Stock Exchange and In the Financial Markets.

Despite frequent profit-taking, most of the stock market continued to advance yesterday under the leadership of both the railway and industrial groups. Professional traders were credited with determined efforts during the day to capitalize the firmness of money rates as a bearish influence, but the main body of stocks resisted with comparative ease all attempts to bring about a reaction. Aggressive buying was in evidence from the opening until the close, with only occasional pauses. Atchison was the feature of the railway shares, advancing more briskly than it has done at any time in the present upturn. At the close, it showed a net gain of 3⅝ points. Other railway shares that rose vigorously include Atlantic Coast Line, Baltimore & Ohio, Soo Line, Southern Railway, Great Northern and Union Pacific. Among the industrials the widest gains were made by Texas Gulf Sulphur, United States Rubber, General Asphalt, Liggett-Myers, Postum Cereal and Spicer Manufacturing.

Railway Shares and Earnings.

It was the announcement by the Atchison of possibly the most remarkable July earnings of any railroad since the resumption of private control which particularly stimulated interest in the railroad shares yesterday. Five railroad stocks set new high records. The Atchison earnings statement, however, and those of other roads almost as interesting, left the investor with some doubt as to the extent which the stockholder will be permitted to share in the profits. Atchison and Atlantic Coast Line, it was remarked in railway circles yesterday, could declare a very substantial stock dividend as easily as General Motors, but it is believed that fear of the effect of such action on the legislative attitude toward railways would create hesitancy in the minds of the directors when considering such action.

Money in Larger Supply.

For the first time this week an easier trend was noted in the time money market yesterday, with rates fractionally lower. This was attributed to large supplies attracted by the recent establishment of the highest rate level of the year. During most of the Summer an outflow of funds to the interior has occurred every time rates weakened, and, as at present, money has returned to the market here when rates returned to levels which the banks considered satisfactory. The demand yesterday, both for time and demand loans, was light. Considerable amounts were on offer at the close of the day. This was considered a temporary condition, however, in view of the large impending seasonal requirements.

Some Movement in Oil Shares.

The moderate advance which a number of oil shares made near the close of yesterday's trading revived the oft-repeated predictions in stock market circles that the "oil market," which has heretofore failed to materialize, was about to get under way. The fact that a few prominent issues moved upward at an accelerated pace caused some comment in view of recent indications of the improving position of the petroleum market. An analysis by the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey of the crude oil and gasoline situation, indicating that there is little likelihood of an overproduction this year, was seized upon by specialists in oil securities as a strong bullish argument. What effect, if any, these comments had on the market, however, was a question regarding which there appeared to be some disagreement.

Bidding for Stock Capital.

The Southern Railway and the New York Central will in all probability, railroad men said yesterday, issue new stock within the next six months unless market conditions radically change. The reception of these issues by the public will influence the future sale by other carriers with more pressing need for capital. If the buying attitude is relatively free of apprehension of a reduction in the present high earning power of the railroads, it is considered likely that the Baltimore & Ohio, the St. Louis-San Francisco and the Pennsylvania will at least accomplish a portion of their new financing through the sale of stock. Probably the decision will be influenced to an extent by the movement of prices for the railway shares during the coming season.

More Gold for Germany.

The additional shipment of $5,000,000 gold to Germany made by the Federal Reserve Bank of New York this week will further strengthen Berlin's position under the resumption of free trading in the reichsmark. The Reichsbank has withdrawn a total of $20,000,000 of its external reserve from New York in the last month, and doubtless has followed a similar course in other world markets. The shipments to Germany have been one of several special transactions in gold effected recently by the Federal Reserve Bank, including the receipt of $30,000,000 of gold from Australia and the shipment of large amounts to Canada. Most of these transactions, however, have no bearing on the credit situation here as the bulk of the gold transferred was ear-marked. The effect on credit, if any, takes place at the time the gold is ear-marked, and the later disposition of it has no bearing on the situation. Neither do the transfers of ear-marked gold show on the bank's weekly condition statements.

Telephone Financing.

Financial operations by the telephone industry for the next five or six months will be confined to the sale of the approximately 20,000 American Telephone and Telegraph shares left unsold from the recent stock issue, according to informed circles. This amount of stock, which apparently represents the irreducible remainder after all stockholders have been informed of their rights, would be released in the open market at suitable times. It is understood that no other financing by the parent company will be expected for a year, although affiliated companies may initiate stock or bond issues within the half year to pay off indebtedness to the parent company. With expenditures by telephone companies averaging $1,000,000 daily for plant and structures, security offerings from this quarter are expected with reasonable frequency.

Record Earnings for "Soft Coalers."

The remarkable earnings now being reported by the railroads that serve the soft coal section of West Virginia are due in no small part, according to railroad men, to the British coal strike. The demand for American bituminuous, in fact, has reached such proportions that nearly all tramp freight steamers have been engaged to haul coal from the harbor of Hampton Roads to Europe, leaving a large supply of wheat piling up at Montreal with no bottoms to ship in. This fortunate circumstance, from the standpoint of the soft coal trade, comes immediately on top of the anthracite strike, which swelled the earnings of railways hauling that product in even greater proportion.

The Reading Coal Rights.

Rumors still persist in the financial district that the Baltimore & Ohio has undertaken negotiations with a large banking group for the sale of its 605,000 Reading rights and will apply the money toward the purchase of the shares the New York Central holds of the Reading Company. It is well known that the New York Central and Baltimore & Ohio are on the best of terms and that the latter company is receiving a free hand in directing their joint interests of Reading. Whether the time has come for the Central to step down and give the B. & O. a clear field, however, is another question.

MONEY.

FRIDAY, AUG. 27, 1926.

An easier tone prevailed in the money market, and rates for time loans were ⅛ to ¼ of 1 per cent. lower. Sixty-ninety day loans were quoted at 4⅞ per cent. and the longer maturities at 4⅞@5 per cent. Call money was unchanged at 5 per cent., with a normal turnover and ample accommodations available at all times. There were no changes in the quotations on commercial paper or bankers' acceptances.

$64,815,000 BONDS OFFERED IN WEEK

COLOMBIA SEEKING LOAN

Competition Expected for New York State—$28,475,000 Offering to Be Awarded Wednesday.

New offerings of bonds this week amounted to $64,815,000, compared with $46,709,000 last week and $9,720,000 in the same week a year ago. The most important issues were in the industrial and foreign divisions. The offerings, by groups, of this and last week follow:

	This Week.	Last Week.
Industrial	$35,000,000	$800,000
Foreign	18,000,000	29,500,000
Public utility	5,719,000	12,700,000
Railroad	2,070,000	.....
State and municipal	2,076,000	3,209,000
Farm loan	750,000	300,000

$30,000,000 Westinghouse Issue.

The largest issue of the week was $30,000,000 of 5 per cent. bonds of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company, underwritten by Kuhn, Loeb & Co. The issue was floated to refund an equal amount of 7 per cent. bonds being called for redemption in November. This transaction effects a substantial saving in interest, and reflects a trend that has been in force for more than a year, by which corporations have been calling in high-interest bonds and replacing them with securities bearing a lower rate. Several smaller issues in the industrial division were brought out during the week.

The Republic of Chile placed a six-month note issue of $10,000,000 through Blair & Co., Inc., the forerunner of a considerable volume of South American financing now being negotiated. Many large Wall Street houses are competing for a loan to Colombia, and Bolivia also is contemplating borrowing here. The present week's foreign financing also included a $5,000,000 issue of the Compania Cubana and a Canadian harbor issue.

The Central Railroad of New Jersey sold $2,670,000 of equipment trust certificates, part of a total authorized issue of $6,000,000. There was fair activity in State and municipal and farm loan financing.

Compete for New York Issue.

Most of the attention of the investment world now is concentrated on the $28,475,000 issue of State of New York 4 per cent. bonds which will be awarded next Wednesday. Keen competition for this issue is assured. Early new financing also is likely to include several important German offerings and a few domestic bond issues.

The present week's offerings were quickly sold despite the general dullness due to the vacation season. The bond market was steady all week except for foreign Government and industrial issues, which moved up sharply.

S. W. Straus & Co. are offering $1,050,000 of an issue of $1,350,000 of first mortgage 6½ per cent. three to fifteen year serial coupon bonds of the Frances Building Company, secured by the land and the Frances-Orpheum Theatre and office building at Sioux City, Iowa.

LAST DATE FOR C. & O. BONDS

Next Wednesday, Sept. 1, will be the last day for converting Chesapeake & Ohio 5s of 1946 into stock. Holders, it is announced, should either convert or sell, and next Tuesday will be the last day on which a sale can be put through for delivery in the regular way. The bonds now are selling at 150. They will be worth only 105 after Sept. 1.

On Wednesday sales must be for cash and immediate delivery to give the purchaser time to make the conversion.

Sinclair Raises Kerosene Price.

The Sinclair Refining Company yesterday announced an increase in the price of kerosene in railroad tank cars, ½ cent per gallon, to 11 cents, at New York, Philadelphia and Atlantic Coast terminals. The increase becomes effective today.

STOLEN SECURITIES LISTED ON TICKER

The New York Stock Exchange printed on its ticker system yesterday, at the request of the National City Company, a list of about $35,000 worth of securities that were lost in the recent railway mail robbery near Rawlins, Wyo. The robbery occurred on Aug. 14 when two men held up the mail car of a Union Pacific train.

Officials of the National City Company declined to give any details as to the ownership of the securities. It had not been determined, they said, whether any of the securities were negotiable.

The loss includes the following: $500 of Bethlehem Steel Corporation 5½s, Series B, 1953, No. D2080; $3,000 Container Corporation of America 6s, 1946, National City Company, interim certificates Nos. 2798-2800-2801; $1,000 Saxon Public Works, Inc., 6½s, 1951, National City Company interim certificates No. 9722; $2,000 No. 9723-4, $2,000 No. 9725-6, $1,000 Republic of Haiti 6s, Series C, No. 1953, No. 501; $2,000 Argentine Government 6s, Series B, No. 15,971-2, due 1958, and $500 of same Government, D1,200.

Also $5,000 Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Con. 4½s, 1933, M27,340-683 and 10,155-32,514, $1,000 each, and D4250-4238, $500 each; $2,000 Argentine Government 6s, 1959, No. 24,021-2, due Oct. 1; $1,000 Argentine Government 6s, 1959, No. 43,276, due June 1; 15 shares of Dodge Brothers, Inc., preferred, in name of Andrew M. Pullen and Bertha Pullen jointly, and the survivor of them, not assigned; $6,000 Missouri Pacific Railroad 6s, 1949, M15,252-6, inclusive, and D727-2386; $500 Container Corporation of America 6s, 1946, National City Company interim certificates, D49; $7,000 Republic of Chile 8s, 1941, M5,515-18,665-4279-3139-6511, and D938-443.

NEW SECURITIES LISTED.

Announcements Made by Stock Exchange and New York Curb.

Admission to the list of the New York Stock Exchange has been granted to Murray Body Corporation, certificates of deposit for the no par common stock; Central Alloy Steel Corporation, temporary certificates for the 7 per cent. cumulative preferred stock and the no par voting common stock and Liquid Carbonic Corporation, temporary certificates for the no par voting common stock.

The subcommittee on securities of the New York Curb Exchange has ruled that contracts for delivery of Interstate Natural Gas Company's $10,500,000 of 6 per cent. bonds of 1936, with stock purchase warrants, must be settled on Sept. 1 by delivery of temporary bonds, and that contracts for delivery of Havana Electric Railway Company's 25-year 5½ per cent. debentures of 1951, with stock purchase warrants, must be settled on Sept. 1 by delivery of interim receipts.

The subcommittee also has granted admission to the unlisted trading privileges to 125,000 authorized shares of no par Class A common stock and 250,000 authorized shares of 7 per cent. cumulative $100 par preferred stock of B. F. Schlesinger & Sons, and to voting trust certificates representing 75,000 authorized shares of $10 par Class A common stock of the Beaver Board Companies.

INCREASE REPORTED IN BANK CLEARINGS

An increase of 4.6 per cent. is shown in bank clearings for this week in twenty-three leading cities, compared with the week ended Aug. 27 in 1925. The total reported this week was $7,809,791,000 and $7,468,492,000 last year. In New York City the clearings reached $4,625,000,000, representing a gain of 5 per cent.

The twenty-two cities outside of New York reported total clearings of $3,184,791,000, compared with $3,063,492,000 last year, or an increase of 4 per cent. Gains were reported in seventeen. Philadelphia was the only large centre showing a loss. Substantial gains were shown in Boston, Pittsburgh, Chicago, Detroit, Cleveland, Kansas City, Los Angeles, Seattle and Portland, Ore.

The following table, compiled by R. G. Dun & Co., shows the total bank clearings for this week, as compared with those for the same week last year, and the average daily clearings since the first of the year:

BROOKLYN RAILROAD'S NET.

The Brooklyn City Railroad Company reported yesterday net corporate income after expenses, taxes and income deductions of $100,561 in July, against $117,995 in July, 1925. This decrease in income was largely the result of lower "other revenue" and increased expenses and taxes.

Passenger revenue in July was $938,695, against $924,465 in July, 1925; other revenue, $21,613, against $36,096; expenses and taxes $812,298, against $785,792, and income deductions $47,449, against $56,774.

OUTLINES PROGRAM OF LONG ISLAND ROAD

Le Boutillier Says $13,000,000 Must Be Spent on Projects Already Approved.

George Le Boutillier, Vice President of the Long Island Railroad, has issued a statement outlining what the Long Island must do to meet the heavy traffic demands of commutation on its lines.

"Progressive railroads are never finished," says Mr. Le Boutillier. "To obey the law the Long Island must electrify all freight and passenger tracks within the city limits by Jan. 1, 1931. It must spend $13,000,000 on a program already approved by the Public Service Commission. Not only main tracks but yards and sidings, float bridge approaches and shops must be equipped for electrical operation.

"Electric locomotives must be provided to haul trains between Jamaica and Long Island City. All steam locomotives must be kept out of Jamaica. There are 639 grade crossings still left. The State now has funds to carry on the work of eliminating these crossings and the railroad must raise 50 per cent. of the cost of the work."

Three propositions have been recommended, he says, to relieve congestion at terminals and on trains during rush hours. They are the adoption of a plan to establish the proposed new terminal of the road at Diagonal Street in Long Island City, cooperation with the so-called stagger plan proposed by the Department of Health, and prompt extension of the city's proposed subway lines to Jamaica.

NEW TEXAS OIL CO. TO REORGANIZE OLD

Holding Corporation Formed in Delaware Also Planning to Buy Other Concerns.

SLIPS YOKE OF TEXAS LAWS

Has Been Unable Heretofore to Hold Stock in More Than One Concern in Another State.

The organization of an entirely new corporation to operate the petroleum properties of the Texas Company is foreshadowed by the incorporation under the laws of Delaware of the Texas Corporation as a holding company, to take over the stock and other holdings of the present company. While the company's plans in this respect have only been intimated, the announcement by Amos L. Beaty, Chairman of the Board of Directors, makes plain that a complete reorganization of the operating company is part of the readjustment to be made.

Chairman Beaty declined yesterday to say any more concerning the company's plans than was contained in his formal announcement. In other quarters it was learned, however, that the company is preparing to carry out an aggressive program of expansion which will involve the acquisition of other companies. It is not believed that plans in this direction have been perfected, but the company is known to be working on ideas that will greatly strengthen its position in the industry. A number of companies are mentioned as possible units to be absorbed.

The principal object in organizing a holding company in Delaware, as Mr. Beaty made plain in his announcement, is to obtain greater freedom in the matter of acquiring stock in other companies. Under the Texas laws the company was permitted to hold stock in not more than one company in any other State. This necessarily limited its operations and, as Mr. Beaty pointed out, handicapped it because "the principal competitors of the existing company are organized in States other than Texas, and enjoy the privileges of holding the stock of other corporations without limit, so long as the anti-trust laws are respected."

The organization of the new holding company is only the first step in bringing the property into a better plan of incorporation, Mr. Beaty said, and he gave a hint of the plan for the creation of a new operating company by adding that "later the new holding company will expect to acquire, by what further reorganization of the operating company is necessary, 100 per cent. ownership."

It is recognized of course, that the new holding company cannot expect all of the stock of the old company to be exchanged under the plan proposed, although the greater part of it will undoubtedly be turned in. The plan calls for an exchange of stock on a share for share basis. The holders of a sufficient amount of stock to assure approval of the plan are understood to have already given their assent, although Chairman Beaty did not announce this. He explained, however, that a "large number of stockholders" had given their approval.

Deposits of stock will be accepted at the Chase National Bank until Nov. 1 and certificates of deposit issued until shares of the new company can be delivered. It is understood that the new company will proceed, after the time for the exchange of stock has expired, to create an entirely separate operating unit.

TRADE VOLUME GAIN KEPT UP IN AUGUST

More Goods Moved So Far This Month Than in Same Period of Last Year.

COAL AND OIL OUTPUT UP

Commerce Department Report Shows Lower Wholesale Prices and Lower Loans and Discounts.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—The dollar volume of trade in the third week of August, as seen from check payments, continued to show increases over a year ago, as demonstrated by carloading figures, according to the Department of Commerce. More goods moved into consumption during the second week of the month than in the previous week or the corresponding week of last year, the department stated. The report continued:

"The output of bituminous coal in the second week also recorded increases over the previous week and the same week of 1925, while lumber production, although larger than in the first week of August, was smaller than a year ago.

"The output of crude petroleum continued to increase, and for the third week of August averaged higher than in either the preceding week or the same week of last year.

"New contracts awarded for building contracted were smaller than in either the previous week or the same week of 1925.

"Wholesale prices continued to average lower. Loans and discounts of Federal Reserve member banks were lower than at the end of the previous week, while time money rates were higher during the third week than in either the previous week or the third week of last year. Call money rates, however, showed no change from the previous week, but were higher than in the same week of 1925. Loans to brokers and dealers by Federal Reserve member banks of New York City increased during the week.

"Prices of stocks continued to average higher, both as compared with the previous week and the corresponding week of 1925. Fewer business failures were reported during the third week than in either the previous week or the same week of last year."

During the last six months 106 new statistical indicators of business have been made available to the public through the Survey of Current Business, as shown by the August issue of that publication, issued today by the Department of Commerce. The total current business indicators now available through this source amount to 1,698, furnished by 111 trade associations, 41 Government agencies, 35 technical periodicals and 37 other organizations.

New data added to the Survey of Current Business in the six months include cotton cloth production, stocks and unfilled orders by groups, trackwork production, castiron boiler and radiator data, household enamel ware, closed automobile relative production, electrical bookings, electric motors, electric hoists, electrical porcelain, band instruments, vacuum cleaners, salesbook orders, barrel headings, cypress lumber, rotary-cut veneer, household furniture, receipts of milk at Philadelphia and Baltimore, Canadian life insurance sales and brokers' loans.

DECISION RESERVED IN PARK BOAT SUIT

CITE DAMAGE BY CUT RATE

Defendant Says It Can't Bring 5,000 Children Back From Camp If Writ Is Granted.

Supreme Court Justice Walsh reserved decision yesterday on the application by the Delaware & Hudson Steamship Company and the Iron Steamboat Company to restrain the Commissioners of the Palisades Interstate Park and the McAllister Navigation Company, Inc., from carrying out a contract made last January by which the Park Commissioners leased to the McAllister company the steamboats Clermont and Onteora, purchased by the commission with funds donated by the Laura Spelman Rockefeller Memorial.

Justice Walsh said he would pass only on the legality of the agreement and would not consider any phase of the competition between the McAllister company and the plaintiffs. Unless the Park Commission had no power to make the agreement, he would uphold it, he said.

Counsel for the plaintiffs asserted that the ships, which were purchased for the use of the public, were being diverted to private profit, and that instead of being operated exclusively between New York and New Jersey points and Bear Mountain, they were being chartered by the McAllister company for private excursions, which, the plaintiffs contend, is illegal.

Sees "Extravagant Profit."

The Delaware & Hudson Steamship Company, owner of the Mandalay, Express and Pastime, and the Iron Steamboat Company, which leases vessels for private excursions, asserted that because the contract provides for the payment by the McAllister company of only $1 a year to the Park Commission the McAllister company is able to lease its boats for private excursions at 25 per cent. less than the plaintiffs are compelled to charge, and then make "an extravagant profit" while "waging a destructive war" on the plaintiffs. The papers show that the McAllister company also pays the Park Commissioners $100,000 a year for using the commission's booking service for private excursions.

J. Du Pratt White, chairman of the commission, asserted in an affidavit that if the court granted a restraining order the commissioners might be unable to bring back to their homes 5,000 New York children camping in the Bear Mountain and Harriman State parks. He said that the plaintiffs are foreign corporations who are seeking to have declared illegal an agreement made by the commission "for the principal purpose of utilizing the steamers so as to secure the lowest possible rates to Bear Mountain."

Mr. White said that 4,000,000 persons visited Bear Mountain last year. He recited the commission's difficulties in operating its own steamships and said that in the first year there was a loss of $11,679, and that even after a pooling agreement had been made by which the McAllister company operated the Clermont and Onteora for the commission, there was a net loss in six years of $6,825, and a loss last year alone of $5,340.

Agreed on Reduced Fare.

Mr. White said it required considerable negotiation before the McAllister company agreed to a reduction of weekday fares of from 75 cents to 60 cents for adults, for round-trip fares, and from 40 cents to 30 cents for children, and from 50 cents to 25 cents for campers, but this was arranged by permitting the McAllister company to use the Onteora and Clermont for special trips while it was furnishing adequate service to Bear Mountain with its other vessels. He pointed out that the Hudson River Day Line charges $1.25 for a round trip.

The Chairman said that one of the chief reasons for making the contract was to protect the public in case of negligent operation of the vessels. The courts have held, he declared, that the commission is not liable for ordinary damage claims due to personal injuries, and the commission has no power to take out insurance to cover such claims. It was then arranged that the McAllister company, upon taking over the vessels, would assume all liability.

Celotex Co. Plans Stock Increase.

A special meeting of stockholders of the Celotex Company has been called for Sept. 4 to vote on increasing the preferred stock from 60,000 to 200,000 shares of $100 par value and the common stock from 60,000 to 150,000 of no par. The shareholders also will vote on the plan to issue 150,000 new shares of 5 per cent. cumulative Class B stock, and it is reported that action will be taken upon a resolution concerning patent rights and the declaration of a stock dividend.

Six Months' Net of Kelsey Wheel.

The Kelsey Wheel Company, Inc., reports a net profit for the first half of the year of $670,281, after charges, but before Federal taxes, as compared with $884,755 in the corresponding period last year.

TO AUCTION OIL LEASES.

Interior Department Will Dispose of 30,000 Acres on Sept. 30.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—Oil leases for 30,000 acres of Osage Indian lands in Oklahoma, containing 9,615 oil wells, some of which produce an average of 1,000 barrels daily, and with a total production of about 70,000 barrels a day, are to be sold at public auction at Pawhuska, Okla., on Sept. 30, the Interior Department announced today. In this area 135 new wells are now being drilled.

In March the Interior Department sold leases of 46,331 acres on the Osage reservation for $3,998,485. The Indian owners will receive royalties on the oil produced from these leased lands.

TO EXTEND FREIGHT SIDING.

Mt. Vernon Yards of Westchester & Boston Will Be Improved.

Increased facilities for handling freight in the Mount Vernon yard of the New York, Westchester & Boston Railroad will result from improvements which the company is planning on South Fulton Avenue, according to an announcement yesterday. Handicapped by the length of the siding, the company will extend it to a point below the Ward Motor Vehicle Company on South Fulton Avenue, near Cdlumbus Avenue.

The new siding, together with the old trackage, would total about a quarter of a mile, it was said.

Pan American Petroleum Profit.

A consolidated net profit of $15,335,616, after interest, depreciation, depletion, Federal taxes, &c., is shown for the first six months of this year by the Pan American Petroleum and Transport Company and its subsidiaries. This is equal to $5.56 per share earned on the average amount of common stock outstanding. In the first six months of 1925 the net profit was $15,539,000, or $6.02 per share. The net income figure for the first half of this year does not include any proportion of the profit of the Lago Oil and Transport Corporation.

INDUSTRIALS GAIN IN COUNTER TRADING

BANK STOCK BUYING BRISK

Prices Steady In Utilities—Market Shows Tendency to Slow Up With Approach of Labor Day.

Trading on the over-the-counter market showed a tendency to proceed more slowly, which is held in some quarters to result from the approach of Labor Day, after which better markets are expected. The general list had a good tone throughout the session as a result of the current inquiry for several of the industrial and chain stores issues and the buying of bank shares.

The feature of the industrial section was the ten-point rise in Rome Brass and Copper, usually an inactive stock. Lehigh Portland Cement, Southern Baking preferred, Mueller Baking preferred with warrants, United Milk Products and National Baking common were up from one to several points on the day. McCall Corporation moved up fractionally. Gorham Manufacturing common and preferred were higher, as was Smith-Corona Typewriter. In the chain stores section H. C. Bohack and Melville Shoe moved up from two to three points each. F. & W. Grand and Metropolitan Chain Stores were active.

There was a fairly active trading and inquiry for public utility shares, with the price level remaining steady.

Public Bank turned strong and moved up five points on the day as the feature of this group. Corn Exchange improved slightly and American Exchange was higher in the late trading. Recessions were experienced by Butchers and Drovers, National City, Bankers Trust and National American.

Among the insurance stocks National Union rose five points and Great American continued firm with an advance of about one and a half points.

RETAIL TRADE GAINS AS WHOLESALE LAGS

GARMENT STRIKE A FACTOR

Enlarged retail and chain store trade, together with a recession in wholesale business, is reported in The Monthly Review of Credit and Business Conditions by the Federal Reserve Agent at New York, being issued today. The strike in the cloak and suit trade is given as one of the causes of the decline in wholesale volume. Regarding retail trade The Review says:

"Sales of department stores in this district during July were 5½ per cent. larger than a year ago, despite the fact that there was one less selling day this year in New York City and one-half day less in up-State cities. Except in Buffalo, Syracuse and the capital district, increases were reported in all sections, and in Westchester and Central and Southern New York the gains were the largest in more than a year and a half. Sales of apparel stores increased 14 per cent. and mail order sales 13 per cent., compared with last July.

"Stocks of merchandise in department stores at the end of the month were only 3 per cent. larger than last year, so that the rate of turnover was higher for the third consecutive month.

"Sales of men's and women's apparel showed the largest gains over last year, whereas sales of linens and handkerchiefs, silverware and jewelry, and luggage and leather goods, which have been unusually good in most of the previous months this year, fell below last year's level in July."

Wholesale Clothing Sales Drop.

"July wholesale trade in this district averaged 12 per cent. smaller than a year ago, the largest decrease reported in almost two years. Two factors contributing to this decline were the shorter working month this year and the strike in the cloak and suit trade. Decreases compared with a year ago occurred in nine out of fifteen lines and were particularly large in the clothing and cotton trades. There were also sharp reductions in sales of diamonds and jewelry, and the largest year-to-year decrease since last August was reported by wholesale grocery houses.

"On the other hand, sales of paper, stationery, drugs, machine tools and shoes continued in larger volume, and the first year-to-year increase in silk since February brought July sales to the highest level for that month in six years.

"Stocks of groceries, silks, drugs, hardware and diamonds and jewelry continued larger than last year, while cotton goods stocks remained smaller, and stocks of shoes, which in June were larger than a year ago for the first time in several months, showed a decrease in July.

Collections Improve Over June.

"Collections averaged close to those of a year ago, compared with a 4% per cent. reduction in June. Accounts outstanding at the end of the month were slightly smaller than last year."

The following comments are made on chain store trade:

"Total sales of reporting chain store systems showed a considerably larger gain over last year in July than in June, due primarily to the larger increases in sales of variety, grocery and drug stores. The increase in number of stores in operation was slightly smaller than last month, so that the sales per store were substantially larger than a year ago, whereas in June they about equaled the previous year.

"Sales of variety and shoe stores showed the largest year-to-year increases since last October, and the gain in ten-cent store sales exceeded that of any other month this year. Tobacco chains reported even larger increases than in recent months.

"Increases in sales per store compared with last year were reported by all types of chain stores except candy. Grocery firms reported the largest year-to-year increase in more than four years, and variety stores the largest in over three years."

MARSHALL FIELD REVIEW.

Little Change in Wholesale Dry Goods Trade Reported for Week.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Aug. 27.—Marshall Field & Co. in their weekly review of the wholesale dry goods trade say:

"Current wholesale distribution of dry goods maintained about the same volume as a week ago, but did not quite reach that of the corresponding week a year ago. Road sales showed a substantial improvement over last week, but failed to reach the total recorded for the same period last year. Collections were somewhat above those of the corresponding week a year ago. There were more customers in the market than during the same week in 1925."

CURB MARKET QUIET; FEW PRICE CHANGES

Traders in Watchful-Waiting Mood—Stocks Generally Remain Steady.

Traders in the Curb market inclined to the policy of watchful waiting yesterday. Operations were in reduced volume and, except in a few issues, price changes carried little significance. Several of the recent speculative favorites shied away from the spotlight and this sapped the market of much of its vitality. However, bears exhibited no disposition to attack any particular group, and at the close the general list of quotations was not far away from where it left off the day previous.

Instead of following up the rise on Thursday, Standard Oil securities appeared content to fortify their improved position. There was little selling to speak of, and the moderate demand was sufficient to impart a very firm undertone to the list. There was some unsettlement among a few shares in the independent oil section, but the rank and file of stocks ruled steady. Trading in the public utility department was quiet at generally firm levels.

Interest in the domestic bond list was centred around Interstate Natural Gas 6s, when issued, which advanced above 120 to a new high. The new Westinghouse Electric 5s fluctuated between 99¼ and 99½ on a moderate trade. Foreign obligations did nothing out of the ordinary.

CURB DROPS NATIONAL TIN.

Governors Convinced Stock Lacked Required Real Market.

The action of the Board of Governors of the New York Curb Exchange in striking from the list the stock of the National Tin Company yesterday was said to have been the result of an investigation, launched several weeks ago, after a period of violent fluctuations of the stock. The governors learned, it was said, that the stock had no real market, which is one of the Curb's requirements for admission to trading privileges.

National Tin was bought and sold on the outside curb market several years ago, at one time reaching $14 a share. In the last several months, however, it rose suddenly from 8 cents a share to 47 cents and recently dropped as suddenly to $18 cents. The stock has been especially active since the beginning of the investigation, from which the Curb's governors learned that the company was incorporated in Delaware for $1,000,000 and had outstanding 200,000 shares of common stock with a par value of 50 cents.

171,269 Surplus Cars In Good Repair

There were 171,269 surplus freight cars held in good repair and immediately available for service by the Class 1 railroads of the country on Aug. 14, according to the American Railway Association. This represented a decrease of 8,502 cars under the 179,771 reported for Aug. 8. Of this total 40,700 were coal cars, 97,194 were box cars, 17,159 were stock cars and 10,238 were refrigerator cars.

Armour Bonus May Total $1,000,000

CHICAGO, Aug. 27 (AP).—Disclosing the recent distribution of more than $500,000 in bonuses to superior employes, officials of Armour & Co. today forecast that $1,000,000 would have been paid thus by the end of 1926, almost doubling the earnings of many recipients. Employes of the company are unorganized. The plan, spokesmen said, is designed to stimulate increased individual production.

U. S. Trucking Corp. Expands.

The Emergency Trucking Corporation, a trucking and warehouse subsidiary of Perkins & Goodwin, paper manufacturers, has been purchased by the United States Trucking Corporation. This purchase will add one more paper warehouse to Independent Warehouses, Inc., controlled by the purchaser, and twenty more trucks to the fleet of the United States Trucking Corporation.

United Artist Stock Unchanged.

The death of Rudolph Valentino has had no apparent effect on the shares of the United Artist Theatres Circulating Company stock, which handles moving pictures for independent producers and the Valentino pictures. The stock, which is an exceptionally slow mover in the market, sold on the New York Curb yesterday at $100 per share, which was unchanged from the last sale.

Canadian Railways' Earnings High.

MONTREAL, Aug. 27 (AP).—An increase of $11,869,711.25 or 209.44 per cent., in net earnings for the first seven months of 1926, as compared with the same period last year, was reported today by the Canadian National Railways. Gross earnings were the highest for any seven-month period since 1922, and the gross and net were the highest for any July in five years.

Gibson Oil Consolidated Report.

The Consolidated balance sheet of the Gibson Oil Corporation as of June 30 shows current assets of $470,513, against current liabilities of $380,933. Of the former, cash was $57,245, accounts receivable $369,078, notes receivable $11,032, inventories $22,952, and cash deposits and advances on purchases $10,205. Total assets were $9,819,825 and total liabilities $439,593.

H. R. Mallinson & Co. Report a Loss

H. R. Mallinson & Co., Inc., and subsidiaries report for the six months ended June 30 a net loss of $435,407, after depreciation, interest and other charges. The consolidated balance sheet as of June 30 shows cash, $341,284; notes and accounts receivable, $1,063,723; inventories, $3,155,887; accrued interest, $1,064, and total assets, $7,466,153.

Auburn Auto Company Calls Notes.

The Auburn Automobile Company announced yesterday that it has called $600,000 of its convertible debenture notes for payment on Oct. 1 next. Although no definite information was forthcoming, it was said that some new financing would be done in this connection.

BUSINESS REPORTED GENERALLY SOUND

Despite Trade Irregularities, Summer Activity Is Called Good in Weekly Reviews.

INDUSTRY IS SPEEDING UP

Although there have been some irregularities in the general trend of business, the results for the past week show that trade and industry are still maintaining the high level of activity which has marked this as a Summer without precedent. Rains throughout many sections and crop uncertainties have offered some impediment to Fall wholesale trade, and retail trade has also slowed up very slightly, but the rate of operation still continues substantially above that of last and former years, and evidences continue to point to a record achievement in almost all lines this year.

Industry has noted several increases in activity, notably in the automobile and cotton industries. The steel markets continue exceptionally stable and production has differed little throughout August from the high record of July.

Bradstreet's weekly comment on the situation declares:

"Weather and crop developments have had varying effects on business. Widespread and continuous rains have acted to retard the seasonal trend toward enlarged Fall buying, have injured harvested crops still in the fields, and increased the fear of insect damage to cotton in the Southwest, but have very generally improved the corn crop East of the Missouri River. The general trend has been toward improvement, the betterment of the corn crop in the Middle West, the slightly better tone of the textiles, and a further acceleration of the pace of industry offsetting the failure of retail buying, although stimulated by clearance sales, market weeks, and style shows, to expend as much as was expected.

"The statistics of movement still seem to reflect expansion, and in the cotton mill industry and in automobile production it seems probable that August will show a rally from the low points of production in these two industries in July."

Dun's Review says:

"Variations in business have not been lacking, yet activities have continued at a relatively high level in different channels. Allowing for seasonal restraints, results in the month now closing have been unusually favorable, on the whole, and most of the statistical barometers point upward. The heaviest railroad freight traffic ever reported for this period and a rate of steel output that foreshadows a new high record are the outstanding features.

"Merchandise exports have increased, the number of failures has decreased, and gains in bank clearings have been shown by many cities, the last-named being significant because of the recent predominance of declines in commodity prices. Generally the purchasing policy remains one of making moderate-sized commitments only and chiefly for near by shipments, but such orders are repeated often and in the aggregate are in very large volume. The practical absence of speculative excesses in trade is reassuring, sound basic conditions strengthening prospects for a good Fall business, and conservative optimism is the ruling sentiment."

WOOL IN BETTER DEMAND.

Orders Better in Both Home and Foreign Markets.

BOSTON, Aug. 27 (AP).—The Commercial Bulletin will say tomorrow: "There is a more general and a keener demand for wool, with a consequent slight strengthening in values, perhaps 2½ per cent. for the week. Medium wools are relatively keenest at the moment, but there is a decidedly good demand for the finer qualities. Mostly the call is for domestic wools, but some interest is shown also in foreign lines.

"Not only do the reports from the goods market indicate a much better tone, with substantial sales of repeat orders on heavyweight season goods, but the business in markets for raw materials reflects the improvement in goods quite strongly.

"The foreign markets are in better shape than they have been for a long while. With the miners going back to work in England in large numbers, the industrial situation in Great Britain is much better and this has been reflected in better business in wool and wool textiles, with higher prices prevailing."

Purchases Two Oil Companies.

Confirmation of a report that the California Petroleum Corporation had purchased the International Refining Company and the North Star Oil and Refining Company for about $5,000,000 was contained in San Francisco dispatches yesterday quoting Jacques Vinmont, Chairman of the Executive Committee of the corporation, to that effect. The latter company has considerable acreage in the Kevin-Sunburst and Car Creek fields in Montana. It was reported that the purchaser will soon enlarge the refinery on the Kevin-Sunburst field, which is now running 12,000 barrels daily.

Standard Textile Reduces Loans.

The Standard Textile Products Company has reduced its bank loans by $250,000, J. T. Broadbent, President and general manager, reports. As a result bank loans now total $1,250,000 as against $2,700,000 on Jan. 1. The present total is the lowest reached since 1916.

REPUBLIC RAIL & LIGHT REPORTS LARGE GAIN

The report of net earnings of the Republic Railway and Light Company and subsidiaries for July showed a total of $345,084, an increase of 17.5 per cent. over the total of $293,683 for July, 1925. $550,000 FOR DINING CARS.

Southern Pacific Orders Eleven From Pullman Company.

Among various equipment orders announced yesterday was one for eleven dining cars, costing $50,000 each, for the Southern Pacific Company, placed with the Pullman Car and Manufacturing Company.

The American Brown Boveri Electric Corporation has obtained a contract for a 600,000-kilowatt steam turbine and generator for installation in the Steele Street station of the municipal lighting plant at Jamestown, N. Y. Other bidders were the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company, the General Electric Company and the Allis-Chalmers Manufacturing Company.

Price of Sugar Advanced.

The National Sugar Refining Company has advanced the price of refined sugar 10 points to 5.70 cents.

RUBBER FUTURES GAIN, NOVEMBER LEADING

For the first time this week the crude rubber futures market on the Rubber Exchange of New York closed yesterday with some display of strength. Advances of from 20 to 60 points marked all the active positions, the maximum swing being in November. The upward tendency was ascribed to better reports from London. Bidding was quite active at the opening, but some sellers were inclined to await developments.

The December position, which was most active, opened at 40.80, 30 points over Thursday, and on good demand advanced 30 points further, easing off in the late trading, however, and closing at 40.90, a net gain of 40 points. November sold at 40.60 and maintained a 60-point advantage throughout the session.

The London market opened quiet and was reported as steady at the close, with advances of ¼ to ½d. London spot is now 19⅝d. The day's volume here of 112 lots, or 280 long tons, was confined almost entirely to new contracts, only one lot of old September changing hands.

COOK ASKS MINERS TO MAKE PROPOSAL

Secretary of British Union Is No Longer Fiery in Appeal for New Negotiations.

CHURCHILL BARS SUBSIDY

Aid of German Workers Sought by Two Delegates—Austrian Labor to Give $56,000.

LONDON, Aug. 27.—The most important development in the coal situation today was a statement tonight by A. J. Cook, Secretary of the Miners' Union and professed Communist, and up to the present probably the chief die-hard of that uncompromising body. Cook, to judge from tonight's statement, is no longer in his old fire-eating mood. He urged the miners instead to submit definite proposals as a basis for negotiations.

"The spirit of the men," he said, "is still resolute and unbroken, but, nevertheless, I strongly favor putting forward definite proposals and I hope the miners' committee will put forward such proposals as will enable the Government to bring the two sides together. We have arrived at the stage when that is possible, providing the Government and ourselves are prepared to grasp the opportunity to secure a negotiated settlement. I feel sure that there are Ministers who want this great struggle ended in an honorable way, which will not leave a legacy of bitterness and unrest. It is obvious that the owners' demands for an eight-hour day and district agreements, both strongly condemned by the Royal Commission, will not bring peace or prosperity to the industry."

A verbatim report of Thursday's meeting between the miners' officials and the Government was issued today. It demonstrates that the miners reiterated time after time the old demand for a renewal of the Government subsidy to the coal industry. Winston Churchill, Chancellor of the Exchequer, on the other hand made perfectly clear that this proposal had long ago passed out of the sphere of practical politics, but he assured the miners' leaders that the good offices of the Government will be available if they put forward proposals offering a real chance for settlement.

More men are reported to be working in the Nottinghamshire pits today and the police are maintaining order.

BERLIN, Aug. 27.—Only 25,000 English miners have returned to work and 850,000 are still striking, according to statements of Tom Cape, Member of Parliament, and Jack Gillian, Secretary of the Northumberland district of the Miners' Union, before Bochum Ruhr miners today. If the miners are able to hold out another four weeks they will win the strike, the English representatives declare.

The object of the visit of Cape and Gillian to Germany is to raise funds for supporting the strike as well as to try to influence the Ruhr miners to aid in the fight for less than an eight-hour day for all miners.

"Each miner's family received only 24 shillings from the strike funds for the entire seventeen weeks' strike," said Cape. "They are able to exist only because welfare organizations lent aid and tradesmen advanced credit."

Both delegates appealed to unions for help, saying they have suffered for many weeks and are unwilling to give up the fight when victory is in sight. Cape and Gillian plan to visit Berlin, Leipsic, Dresden and South Germany, explaining the miners' case to German workers.

VIENNA, Aug. 27.—The Executive Council of the Austrian Labor Federation decided last night to assess each of its 807,000 members half a schilling (7 cents) to aid the striking British miners. The relief fund thus will exceed $56,000. The leaders justify the heavy donation from Austria on the ground of the international importance for the miners to win, and urge their followers to pay willingly, hinting they themselves may be soon seeking aid of foreign unions.

LEWIS CHARGES RIVAL HAS SOLD OUT MINERS

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Aug. 27 (AP).—A long smouldering feud between John L. Lewis, President of the United Mine Workers of America, and Frank Farrington, President of the Illinois District of the Mine Workers, became an open battle today when Lewis requested the Executive Board of the Illinois District to obtain Farrington's resignation or to dismiss him as President.

Lewis accompanied his demand, according to members of the Executive Board, with charges over his signature that Farrington was in the employ of the Peabody Coal Company of Chicago, at $25,000 a year, on a three-year contract.

Farrington, who is in Paris on a European tour, was cabled by the Executive Board as a result of the evidence, the message asking him if he did not "intend to resign."

An official then announced that "we expect Farrington's resignation at any time."

The carrying of Lewis' enmity for Farrington before the Executive Board of the district mine workers followed several years of ill-concealed strife between the two, dating from the time when Lewis and Farrington were regarded as rivals for the international Presidency of the mine workers, which Lewis won.

The break between Farrington and Lewis was foreseen by some members of the organization several weeks ago, when Vice President Harry Fishwick, of the district miners, began to designate himself, after Farrington't departure for Europe, as "Acting President," and when State Senator William J. Sneed, of Herrin, reputed friend of Lewis, announced his candidacy for President of the district miners.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MOSCOW, Aug. 27.—The State grain purchasing campaign continues in a most unsatisfactory condition. The figures for the first ten days in August showed that the amount of grain purchased was little more than half that for the same period last year, when the peasants' unwillingness to part with their grain, owing to the high price of manufactured goods, hampered this year's economic plan and produced a crisis that has not yet quite been overcome.

The second ten days in August were still worse, according to one of the principal grain purchasing organizations which is scheduled to buy a third of the total State purchase.

The spokesman for this organization says the firm bought only 72,000 tons of grain in the second ten days of August, whereas during the corresponding period of last year the buying was 63.8 per cent. higher.

Figures from other than State purchasing organizations have not yet been published, but there is no reason to suppose that they will be any better. If this continues, it will be little short of disastrous. The Economic Life yesterday admitted that the grain purchasing campaign is not going well, the same errors (competition between various States, failure to keep prices fixed, "interference" of private traders, &c.) being committed as last year.

But the writer expressed the hope that the unwillingness of the peasants to sell grain during the first ten-diay period in August was due to climatic conditions, late harvest, &c., and that the second decade will show a marked improvement.

An extraordinary thing about the Russian peasants is that they have no political organization whatsoever, and live in climates varying in comparison from those of Northern Saskatchewan to Southern Florida; but, nevertheless, they seem to act as a unit and follow a common policy.

If the Don peasant does not want to part with his grain, the peasant of the Ukraine, Volga and Archangel will hold back his grain also. In the present circumstances it is not hard to understand why.

All the peasants think in terms of grain, instead of in terms of money, and all peasants find manufactured goods cost them from three to four times as much grain as before the war. So they keep the grain instead of selling it—eat it, store it, feed it to the cattle, pigs and poultry—and make shift with such linen or cloth as they weave themselves and with such tools as their own smiths can produce.

But that will upset the whole scheme of Soviet economy. What answer can the Soviet Government find?

FRANCE SPURNS AID OF ALIEN FINANCIERS

Would Not Consider Anything Resembling Dawes Plan, the Ministry Declares.

PARIS, Aug. 27 (AP).—France will put her financial house in order and will accept nothing resembling the Dawes plan if she adheres to the stand taken by the Government today toward persistent reports, both at home and abroad, that foreign financiers were discussing among themselves plans to assist this country in straightening out her public finances, and especially to stabilize the franc.

The Associated Press was authorized by the Ministry of Finance to say that the Government is unaware of any such plan, that it is competent to arrange its own finances without suggestions from abroad, and that anything approaching or resembling a Dawes plan for France would not be considered for a minute.

Should any of the eminent foreign financiers now visiting in this country desire to be received by Premier Poincaré, their wishes would be gladly acceded to, but thus far the French Government has not requested their advice or guidance, the statement added.

Frequent intimations of late that Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, President of the Reichsbank, was in France to attend various financial conferences evidently have caused annoyance among French statesmen.

All the American financiers of note who have visited France this Summer have denied that they were in any way concerned with conferences regarding French finances.

Cabinet Expected Objection to New Loan Only From Britain.

PEKING, Aug. 27.—The protest by the United States on her loan plans has staggered the Peking Cabinet, which thought it had only the British objections to overcome before raising a loan.

This they thought to be comparatively easy. In fact, the newspapers this morning report that British approval has been received, although this has not been confirmed.

The Cabinet yesterday considered the United States protest but could not agree upon the terms of reply and postponed consideration of it until tomorrow.

$33,000,000 FOR HAVANA.

Will Improve City—$75,000,000 More to Be Spent on Highways.

HAVANA, Aug. 27 (AP).—The sum of $33,000,000 will be spent on improvements in Havana during the next ten years. A Presidential decree signed today authorizes the appropriation of this amount from taxes on public works.

It is estimated that the public works law during the same period will earn a revenue of about $168,000,000. Fully $75,000,000 will go to highway construction and $33,000,000 to Havana.

The remainder will be used for water works, new school houses and other improvements.

Ward Company's New Bakeries.

Land has been purchased and contracts let for the construction of an additional plant for the Ward Baking Company in Baltimore, Md., which is to build one also in Columbus, Ohio. Equipment is being installed in the company's plant in Jacksonville, Fla., for operations about Nov. 1, and the new plant in Birmingham, Ala., is expected to be opened on Sept. 15.

PRESSURE FORCES ALL GRAINS LOWER

SLIGHT RALLY AT THE CLOSE

September Wheat Gets Down to $1.32¼, Corn to 77¼ and Oats to Lowest of Season.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Aug. 27.—It was a big day for bears in the grain markets, with a decline on the entire list, the lowest prices of the season being made for May wheat and for all futures of oats, and heavy general selling on stop-loss orders, combined with pressure from the bear interests which have been especially active of late.

Prices declined below the daily and weekly bids on wheat, and at the same time it was easy for those who have been short and pressing for a decline in prices to get in on big lines on the break. News generally favored lower prices; but there were rallies at the last, due to shorts covering.

Export sales of wheat in Chicago were 80,000 bushels, with charters for 60,000 bushels to Montreal. At seaboard export sales were 30,000 bushels.

Low-grade wheat was relatively stronger, as compared with contract grades, and favorable weather has brought a small improvement in the grading of all grains. The declines covered a wider range than for any day during the week, with the finish at net losses on wheat of 1¼@1¾ cents in Chicago and 1¼@1⅞ cents in outside markets, Winnipeg and Minneapolis leading.

The heavy selling of wheat in Chicago and Winnipeg was credited to a large Chicago operator, and in Chicago all the big houses had selling orders early, while a number of them became buyers later in the day. There was evidence of short selling in Chicago and unloading by the same operators in Winnipeg.

Liverpool was weaker and lower, although the break there was not as extensive as in Chicago on Thursday. Weather in Canada was better, and Winnipeg had forty-two cars of new Spring wheat, of which eleven were No. 2 and twenty-seven No. 3 Northern.

Cash premiums were firmer, and on the low grades the basis was relatively better. There was evidence of a fair export business. At the same time the primary movement is showing larger than last week and last year.

At the low point September wheat was down to $1.32¼, within ¾ cents of the season's low. At the close it was $1.33¼ to $1.33⅛. December touched $1.35⅝ and finished at $1.36⅛ to $1.36⅜. May declined to $1.40⅜ and closed at $1.41⅜@$1.41½.

Primary receipts of wheat today were 1,544,000 bushels; week ago, 1,529,000; year ago, 1,520,000. Shipments today were 1,206,000 bushels; week ago, 1,637,000; last year, 1,094,000.

Corn was under heavy pressure from stop loss sellers and from a new lot of bears who were encouraged to sell on reports that the crop was coming along well. This heavy selling made it easy for J. S. Bache & Co. and a number of the largest shorts to cover big lines and give the market a moderate rally. September dropped to 77¼ cents, December 82⅞ cents and May 89¼ cents, with the finish ⅛@¼ cent above the low point.

There have been 115,000 bushels of corn posted here as out of condition in the last two days, which created a bearish feeling on September. The cash market, however, was steady to 1½ cents lower.

Oats in selling down to the lowest of the season reached 37 cents for September, 40¾ cents for December and 45 cents for May, with the close ⅛@¼ cent above the low point. Changing and spreading operations from September to December were at 4 cents and from September to May at 8¼ cents.

Primary receipts of corn today were 325,000 bushels; week ago, 402,000; year ago, 617,000, and shipments today were 245,000 bushels; week ago, 372,000; year ago, 726,000.

Prices in the grain futures market of the New York Produce Exchange yesterday fell drastically, the range being almost 2c lower on both domestic and bonded Canadian wheat. The close was weak from all appearances. From a market point of view there will be plenty of wheat to go around this year.

The May position, which opened yesterday at 1.46⅛, 1¼c below the previous close, finished the day at 1.45¾, asked, a decline of 2¼c. December, after opening off 1¼c, sagged further and closed at 1.45⅝, asked. December and May in the bonded division closed 1½ and 2¼c lower, respectively.

A rather slow demand for export featured the market at the opening as indicated by selling of New York futures by cash brokers. December wheat widened to 4⅝c over Chicago December early in the session. There was considerable switching to later months, as well as some hedging pressure.

Market Betters—Tin Scores Best Gain—Flour to New Low—Other Articles Firm.

A slight tone of betterment came into the cash markets yesterday with increases predominating. The best gain of the day was tin, which rose 37½ points from yesterday's close. Flour sank another 10 points to the third new low for the year in as many days, at 7.50. Besides the latter wheat and rye were the only other commodities to decline, corn, oats, lard, copper, zinc, silk and rubber advancing, and the remainder of the market remaining firm.

COTTON IRREGULAR ON FOREIGN NEWS

TRADING VOLUME HEAVY

Steadiness in the Liverpool market on reports of considerable deterioration in the Egyptian crop caused fluctuations in cotton trading at New York and New Orleans yesterday. The market here recovered from Thursday's sharp setback, with the result that October sold above 18 cents at one time, only to meet contracts on the advance and close unchanged, to 4 points higher. The past few days have seen the season's largest volume of business transacted, with thousands of bales changing hands within a range of about one-quarter of a cent. Holders continue to take advantage of the higher basis to dispose of cotton unsold from last year's production.

Weather again proved unfavorable for the best progress of the crop, though general showers throughout Eastern sections proved less heavy than during the previous twenty-four hours. The heaviest precipitation occurred in the lower Mississippi Valley region, with predictions of unsettled weather there and in Texas today. In Oklahoma and Texas cool weather prevailed, twenty-six stations in the two States being in the 50s at night and only sixty out of one hundred stations showing night temperatures of 70 or above. Warmer weather was predicted for Oklahoma.

Private reports reflect plant deterioration in many parts of the belt as a direct result of excessive or persistent moisture during the greater part of the last few weeks.

Week-end figures showed 159,000 bales in sight, compared with 278,000 last year, making 483,000 for the season, as against 646,000 a year ago. Spinners took 213,000, as against 147,000 last year, making 773,000 for the season, compared with 634,000 last year. The visible supply decreased 54,000, as compared with an increase of 131,000 last year, leaving the world supply 1,988,000, as against 1,136,000 a year ago.

ARREST AIR LINE PROMOTER

Middletown (Conn.) Police Take Him on Charge of Defrauding Hotel.

MIDDLETOWN, Conn., Aug. 27 (AP).—Jonathan Starr, who yesterday as a representative of the International Industrial Trust of New York, took an option on land in Cromwell to establish an air terminal, was today arrested on a charge of not paying a hotel bill in Hartford. He was also wanted in Derby and in Springfield, Mass., on similar charges.

Starr has recently appeared in the three cities with plans to promote air terminals similar to the one he was pushing here for an air route between this city and Hartford. He is said to have represented a different concern each time.

Police said he would be taken to Springfield where he is alleged to have left an unpaid bill of $60 at the Hotel Bridgeway. He went to the Massachusetts city from Hartford.

His unpaid bill in Hartford, according to the complaint, is $33.50.

McLaughlin Acts in Bootleg Inquiry in Brooklyn.

Police Commissioner McLaughlin, following additional developments yesterday in his investigation of allegations that policemen of the Vanderveer Park Station in Brooklyn conspired with bootleggers to bring rum into the city from boats in Jamaica Bay, suspended Sergeant Henry Trelling of that station from active duty.

Trelling, it was reported, was one of the twenty-six men of the Vanderveer Park Station to be questioned last Thursday night at Police Headquarters.

Captain Joseph Bannon, Trelling's former commander, was transferred to the Jamaica Station in the Bronx last Thursday for not obtaining information about the alleged rum-running conspiracy. Captain John J. Noble of the Bronx precinct took Bannon's place. Deputy Inspector Lewis Valentine, head of the Commissioner's secret investigating squad, obtained information on which the Commissioner began the inquiry.

Canada Needs 20,000 Harvesters.

OTTAWA, Ontario, Aug. 27 (AP).—There will be a probable shortage of 20,000 men needed to harvest the grain crops of the three prairie Provinces and the situation is serious, said R. A. Rigg of the Canadian Department of Labor today. In a final effort to get more men from the East another series of harvest hand trains will be run.

THE BUSINESS WORLD

COMMERCIAL PAPER.

Yesterday, 4¾ per cent. for the best names.
Wednesday, 4¾ per cent. for the best names.
The quotations are for six months' paper.

Coal to Continue Active.

Anthracite shippers are looking forward to a continuation of the activity which they have enjoyed for months past, Sawards Journal will say today. Normally they would expect a marked improvement in the Fall, but as there has been little of the usual Summer dullness this year, there is not the same room for improvement that usually exists at this time. Buyers are less keen for egg coal, and independent prices on this size are a shade easier in some cases. Chestnut is moving better, while stove retains its leadership. From all reports, dealers' stocks are not unusually heavy, in spite of the large tonnage which they have absorbed. In the bituminous trade improvement is under way but is not general throughout the market.

Gray Goods Quiet but Firm.

Trading quieted down in the gray goods market yesterday and less business was done than on any previous day of the week. Prices were firm, however. These sales were made of printcloths for spot or near-by delivery: 38½-inch 64-60s, 7¾ cents; 39-inch 68-72s, 8¾ cents, and 39-inch 72-76s, 9⅝ cents. Very little business was done in sheetings. A sale of 37½-inch 64-104 sateen at 11½ cents for near-by delivery was recorded. There was some activity in pajama checks, 36½-inch 72-80s being sold in a large way at 9⅛ cents.

Shoe Deliveries Running Behind.

A large increase in the number of orders received for shoes of all kinds during the past month has caught manufacturers unprepared. Production had been allowed to slump, and now the mills are finding difficulty in speeding their plants up sufficiently so that retailers may get their goods in time for the school openings and the Jewish holidays. Stocks are said to be extremely low, and storekeepers are pressing for immediate deliveries of their orders, which in many cases are their initial ones for the Fall.

More Call for Wash Goods.

Some lines of Spring wash goods are said to be engaging the attention of buyers to an extent which has not been equalled for several years. In explaining this interest, producers lay emphasis on the importance of styling. The increased confidence which buyers assumed following the Government cotton crop estimate is said to have been of minor importance, since buyers were already displaying interest in the lines before the report was published. Contrasted with the optimism of those factors who have opened their lines is the reverse attitude of those who have postponed their showings on the ground that little interest would be displayed in them by buyers at this early date.

Expect Good Notions Demand.

Fall activity in notions is slowly getting under way. Some business from retailers has already been booked and in a number of instances salesmen will start on the road next week with the new merchandise, particularly holiday lines. The outlook for rubber goods notions is described as notably good, following the highly satisfactory business done for the Summer. Rubberized silk will be stressed in a number of the new items which will be offered the trade. Among these are sets featuring a combination of powder puff holder and garters to match, developed in bright shades. One firm will offer a new type of garment hanger made of bendable steel covered with a shirred ribbon in bright colors. This hanger may be taken apart and put away conveniently in a suit case. New developments in sanitary goods will also be offered the trade. Dress shields have had a good Summer demand and are also expected to meet with some demand for the early Fall.

Travel and Sports Coats.

Travel and sports coats are available in increasing quantities, and retailers are having little or no trouble in meeting their needs in this direction. Most of the garments feature fabrics of novelty pattern and are fur-trimmed. A number of them are also fur-lined. Much of the recent demand has been for garments for misses who will shortly return to school and college. The supply of better grade "dressy" coats is slowly growing larger, although, with attempts at arbitration of the labor issues rejected, great difficulty in getting deliveries when retailers really need the goods looms ahead.

Trends in Fall Novelty Jewelry.

An increasing demand for popular priced novelty jewelry is reported by wholesalers here. The stores are actively covering their early Fall needs and the general expectation is that the consumer demand for the remainder of the year, particularly during the holiday period, will be brisk. Stone decorations on bracelets, necklaces, vanity cases and similar merchandise are the outstanding feature of the new goods being offered. Rhinestone and crystal effects dominate so far, although there is also some showing of articles in which colored rather than white stones are stressed. The use of the rhinestones, especially in merchandise for evening, is lavish, the stones frequently covering almost the entire surface.

Worsteds Return to Favor.

Worsteds are returning to favor in the men's clothing trade and, from present indications, there is no doubt but that these goods will dominate in the orders for men's wear Spring woolens. The reaction from woolens was said yesterday to be now at its strongest. This has come about because of several factors, not the least of which is the great lengths to which worsted sellers have gone to get business. Prices are at rock bottom and the styling of the lines has seldom been of a higher and more attractive type. Clothing manufacturers have also been forced to give a greater amount of attention to retailer and consumer complaints that woolens did not give the service that was expected, and the greater stress on worsteds is counted on to eliminate many of these complaints.

Endorses Style Library.

Efforts to establish a style library in this city merit the support of every division of the women's garment trade, according to Maxwell Copelof, President of the National Wholesale Women's Wear Association. He said yesterday that the project, which is being advocated by the organized garment retailers, has the full endorsement of his association. "This style library," Mr. Copelof said, "will help materially in the production of garments in which the quality of style will be emphasized. It should be of much benefit in continuing the good work of the 'trade-up' movement. The organized garment retailers in building up this library of style will certainly have the assistance of the wholesalers."

MINE BUREAU WARNS OF DANGERS IN GAS

COAL GAS EASILY IGNITED

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—A warning to the public concerning the dangers to human life from asphyxiation, fire and explosion due to combustible gases used for producing light, heat and power was issued by the United States Bureau of Mines today in the form of a report from A. C. Fieldmer, supervising chemist of the bureau's Pittsburgh experiment station. The dangers to motor car users are emphasized.

"Carbon monoxide is also the poisonous constituent of automobile exhaust gas, the average content being 6 to 7 per cent. It is suicidal to run an automobile engine in a closed private garage for ten minutes. By actual experiments at the Bureau of Mines dogs became unconscious after a motor was run ten minutes in a single-car garage with the doors and windows closed. Garages in which repair work is to be done should have good ventilating systems. It is a good plan to connect a hose or a pipe from the muffler vent to the outside of the garage."

No Poison in Natural Gas.

Other extracts from the report are:

"Pure natural gas contains no carbon monoxide, therefore small gas leaks do not cause poisoning from carbon monoxide as is the case with manufactured gas. The principal hazard in the domestic use of natural gas is from carbon monoxide created by incomplete combustion in poorly designed and unvented room heaters. Even well-designed heaters are dangerous when improperly used. A gas heater with lava tips and free-burning yellow flames does not give off any carbon monoxide when the flames burn freely in the air without touching any metal surface, but if the burner tube is turned from its proper position so that the flames impinge on a metal surface, enough carbon monoxide will be formed to cause asphyxiation in a tightly closed room in thirty minutes to one hour—that is, if the heater has no flue connection.

"All gas heaters and stove connections should be solidly piped. Rubber tube connections are always a fertile source of danger. The public generally does not appreciate the danger from gas leaks. Many disastrous explosions in basements of buildings that are attributed to Black Hand bombs or other mysteriously placed explosives are found on investigation to be caused by gas accumulations from leaks or burners that have become extinguished by drafts.

"Coal gas is more easily ignited and tends to form explosive mixtures more easily than natural gas because of its high hydrogen and carbon monoxide content, both of which have a much broader range of possible explosive mixtures when mixed with air and have higher rates of flame propagation.

Gasoline Vapor Easily Ignited.

"Only 1.5 per cent. of gasoline vapor in air is sufficient to make an inflammable mixture. Air flowing over liquid gasoline and many crude oils readily become charged with enough hydrocarbon vapor to transmit flame on reaching some source of ignition such as a flame, an electrical spark or short circuit. A current of this vapor-laden air has been known to transmit flame several hundred feet from the source of ignition.

"With the growth of the by-product coking industry an increasing quantity of benzol-blend motor fuels has come into use. These fuels have definite anti-knock properties and therefore make desirable additions to our motor fuel supply. They form explosive mixtures of vapor with air, but the vapor on inhalation is poisonous. Low concentration, if inhaled for long periods, destroy the blood cells and produce a chronic anemic condition. There is no danger to the user of benzol blends for motor fuel, excepting the usual carbon-monoxide hazard in the exhaust.

"Ammonia and sulphur dioxide are the gases commonly used in refrigeration. Neither is poisonous in low concentrations, but they are both strongly irritating to the eyes and membranes of the throat so that one has ample warning of their presence."

BUS PLAN GETS SETBACK.

White Plains Council Votes Against Third Avenue Railroad Proposal.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Aug. 27.—After a special meeting of the Common Council tonight, Mayor Fred C. McLaughlin announced that the Council had voted against the proposal of Alfred D. Davidson, attorney for the Third Avenue Railroad Company, which recently purchased the street railways in Westchester County, to substitute buses for several lines running out of here and to increase the fare to 10 cents.

The Mayor said that the Council was determined to see that no more than 5 cents be charged inside the city limits.

$370,292 for $3,000,000 Investment

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 27.—Stockholders in the failed R. L. Dollings Companies, investment bankers, will receive only 13 cents on the dollar for the $3,000,000 they sank in the stock-selling scheme operated by the companies, it was stated in a report filed in the United States District Court today by A. B. Geary, Special Master. Mr. Geary reported that a cash balance of $544,145 was left from the companies' resources, and he recommended the distribution of $370,292 to the 5,000 investors. He added that sale of buildings probably would bring an additional 2 per cent. payment to stockholders.

BUSINESS NOTES.

The first golf tournament of the United Women's Wear League of America will be held Tuesday, Sept. 14, at the Fairview Country Club, near Elmsford.

The Dan Mann Company, Inc., resident buyers, 151 West Thirty-fifth Street, have added the following accounts: M. R. Levins & Co., jobbers, Los Angeles, Cal.; A. R. Kroll, Rochester, N. Y.; Imber Bros., Reading, Pa.; New York Store, Denver, Col., and the Palais Royal, Grand Rapids, Mich.

BUSINESS RECORDS

FAILURES FOR THE WEEK.

BRADSTREET'S reports 347 failures for the week in the United States as compared with 350 for the previous week and 327, 315, 367 for the corresponding weeks 1925 to 1922. The New England States had 41; Middle, 90; Western, 71; Northwestern, 42; Southern, 67; Far Western, 36. Canada had thirty-five against twenty-six. In the United States about 77.5 per cent. of the concerns failing had $5,000 capital or less and 14.6 per cent. had from $5,000 to $20,00 capital.

NEW HOME READY FOR EVENING POST

COOLIDGE TO START EDITION

He Will Press Button at White Pine Camp That Will Set Machinery In Motion.

For the fifth time in its 125 years of existence The New York Evening Post will move into new quarters after the last edition leaves the presses this afternoon, and on Monday will be published from its new home in a seventeen-story building at 75 West Street.

At 11 o'clock Monday morning, President Coolidge at his Summer home in White Pine Camp will press a button that will start the presses which will run off the first edition in the new building.

In selecting a site, the owners of The Post decided not to follow the northward trend of other newspapers of the city. The Post has never been published north of Vesey Street. In 1801 it was established at 40 Pine Street and moved successively to 27 Pine Street in 1840, to Liberty and Nassau Streets in 1849, to Broadway and Fulton Street in 1876 and to 20 Vesey Street in 1907.

The newspaper will occupy the first three floors and a mezzanine floor in the new building. The arrangement of floors will be:

First—Business manager, advertising department, cashier, accounting department, production manager, press department, delivery department, mail department.

The Post was founded by Alexander Hamilton with the support of John Jay, Gouverneur Morris, Oliver Wolcott and Rufus King. Its first editor was William Coleman, a graduate of Dartmouth, and since his time the editorial chair has been occupied by many notable men, among them William Cullen Bryant, who became editor in 1829 and served in that capacity for fifty years.

Godkin died in 1900 and Horace White was editor for three years. Rollo Ogden followed him. From 1897 to 1917 the direction of the newspaper was largely in the hands of Oswald Garrison Villard, who became President of the company. Thomas Lamont bought the paper in 1917, and a syndicate organized by Edwin F. Gay took it over in 1923. Cyrus H. K. Curtis has been the owner since 1923.

SEEK TO CLOSE GAPS IN STAGGER CENSUS

City Health Employes to Work Below 14th St., Manhattan, Next Week.

Plans for completing the transit census as a preliminary to putting into effect the "stagger" plan on rapid transit lines were considered yesterday at a meeting of the Transit Census Committee at its headquarters at 1 East Twenty-fourth Street. The nurses and inspectors of the Health Department, who spent the week in canvassing employers who failed to fill out the census blanks, reported that they had called on 4,500 employers, representing 135,000 employes.

"On the whole the squad met with hearty cooperation," said Dr. Louis I. Harris, Health Commissioner. "In the case of only one concern was it necessary to take summary steps to get the data. Many of our inspecting officers find that effective cooperation from employers and building managers is obtained when the objects of the transit census are explained.

"The census is part of the Health Department's program for promoting community health. Any one who has been subjected to the merciless crowding on rapid transit lines realizes how congestion menaces health. Fatigue, spreading of disease and possible dangers of panic are a few of the hazards.

"The census is a cooperative effort, and until this week every bit of labor and every penny of cost has been donated. It is to the credit of Manhattan's public spirit that the city's first expenditures came in connection with the use of some of the nurses and inspectors in the Health Department to solicit returns where there are geographical gaps. Office space and statistical experts have been donated, widespread publicity has been a gift, and it is only fair that the Health Department should take an active part in a movement that it has initiated."

Major Philip Mathews, chief executive officer of the Transit Commission, stressed the point that the "stagger" plan was sound both from the viewpoint of public health and of transit operation, because it contemplated the use of rolling stock to its fullest capacity.

B. & O. TRIES NEW SERVICE.

Officers of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad and a group of guests made the initial try-out yesterday of a new system inaugurated by the road to facilitate travel to and from New York. A coach service has been arranged between the Jersey City Terminal of the road and the Waldorf and the Pershing Square Building in New York.

Most of the party arrived yesterday afternoon on a special train at the Jersey City Terminal. They immediately boarded the coaches, which were standing alongside the train, and were taken to the New York terminal points. A dinner later was served at the Waldorf, followed by a theatre party.

SAYS RADIO CANNOT OUST THE TELEPHONE

The telephone will never be supplanted by radio, but will be developed far beyond its present state, according to James T. Moran, newly elected President of the Telephone Pioneers of America, which is holding its thirteenth annual convention this week at the Hotel Commodore. More than 3,000 representatives of the Bell system, which includes the Western Electric Company, have registered for the convention.

The number of telephones has increased more than 100 per cent. in five years, according to G. N. Butz, Superintendent of Buildings of the New York Telephone Company. More than 350,000 dial telephones are now in operation in New York, according to officials of the Bakelite Corporation.

The following officers were elected yesterday:

Secretary—R. H. Starrett, Brooklyn, Assistant to Vice President, American Telephone and Telegraph Company.

Treasurer—W. J. Stout, New York, Assistant Treasurer, American Telephone and Telegraph Company.

Executive Committee (1926-1927)—B. A. Kaiser, New York, Special Representative, American Telephone and Telegraph Company; J. L. Kilpatrick, New York, Vice President, Western Electric Company, Inc. (1927-1928); E. K. Hall, New York, Vice President, American Telephone and Telegraph Company; Leslie Killam, Milwaukee, General Plant Superintendent, Wisconsin Telephone Company; Miss Katherine M. Schmitt, New York, Supervisor of Training Schools for Operators, New York Telephone Company.

WANTS MORE MEN FOR MOSQUITO WAR

Dr. Harris Tells Connolly He Fears Malaria-Bearing Pest May Appear Here.

The need for a larger city appropriation for the extermination of mosquitos was urged yesterday by Dr. Louis I. Harris, Health Commissioner, in a letter to Borough President Maurice E. Connolly of Queens. Dr. Harris expressed agreement with Mr. Connolly's complaint of a mosquito pest in Queens and said he had authority to use only four temporary employes in mosquito extermination work in that borough.

"The unusually heavy rainfall that we have had this season has no doubt added to the facility with which mosquitos have bred in the various boroughs of the city," Dr. Harris wrote. "In a number of sections of the Borough of Queens, and in other boroughs as well, they have been the cause of most serious discomfort. What concerns me very much with respect to the mosquito situation is the fact that while we are at present free from the species of mosquito that transmits malaria the conditions are favorable for the breeding and propagation of the malarial bearing type of mosquito should this species, through one or another circumstances, be introduced or find its way to our city.

"You are entirely right in urging the need for a very substantial force of laborers to cope with this situation in the Borough of Queens and in the other boroughs as well. I make bold to say with an adequate force of laborers, employed all the year round, to dig ditches and perform such other labors as are effective in exterminating mosquitos, or preventing their propagation, we could practically banish mosquitos from the entire city."

MIDSHIPMAN ZIRKLE STILL DEFIES NAVY

He Must Stay in Service at Present Rank So Long as He Declines Promotion.

Special to The New York Times.

ANNAPOLIS, Aug. 27.—That Earl B. Zirkle, Kansas midshipman, who completed his course at the Naval Academy last June but continued in the same status because he would not qualify as an ensign, will continue as a midshipman indefinitely unless he recedes from his position, was the statement made today by Rear Admiral Louis McNulton, Superintendent of the academy, after Zirkle had completed the Summer cruise as a midshipman and remained firm in his decision not to take the oath.

The situation is unprecedented in the history of the navy, and Zirkle will be the only person who ever qualified for the higher rank but retained the lower through his own determination.

Zirkle kept his own counsel during the practice cruise which terminated today and did his work quietly and efficiently, but those close to him say that he has in no way altered his mind.

While the other midshipmen who had taken the cruise went on a month's leave today, Zirkle was transferred to Bancroft Hall, the midshipmen's quarters, and will be assigned to work suiting his grade.

He is not under arrest, but the authorities do not see how they can set a precedent by letting him out of the navy, and he cannot be promoted so long as he declines to qualify.

Mr. Bernstein immediately resold this property for Mr. Joandeph to the A. J. E. Realty Corporation, which is completing maps for a general subdivision.

The same broker sold a large business plot for Charles Pask to the A. J. E. Realty Corporation. The property fronts 277 feet on Gifford's Lane, at Great Kills. It is about 200 feet from the railroad station. The purchasers will improve this plot with stores and dwellings.

OWNERS SEEK INJUNCTION.

Claim Proposed Building in New Rochelle Violates Zoning Ordinance.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Aug. 27.—Sixteen property owners in Highland Park, New Rochelle, today sought an injunction restraining the City Building Inspector from issuing a permit for the erection of an $800,000 apartment house with fifty-five private garages on property now owned by George Casey, Republican leader of the city.

Mr. Casey recently secured an opportunity to sell his property if he could arrange to gain permission for the purchaser to build the garages in conjunction with the apartment. The zoning ordinances prevent the construction of the garages in the vicinity, but the Board of Appeals on Zoning of the city held an open session and gave special permission to Casey's prospective purchaser to build them.

The sixteen adjacent property owners contend that a just restriction was violated by the zoning board and the garages have no place in the park. They pointed out two similar instances in the city during the past six months in which the zoning board had refused to permit the erection of garages in connection with apartment houses.

Randall Rounds Out Block Front.

Fred G. Randall has added to his Krollage property holdings at Junction and Nassau Boulevards with the purchase of a small strip from the Neponsit Building Company. With the acquisition of this parcel, the buyer rounds out his holding to cover the entire block front on Fifty-seventh Avenue, between Ninety-seventh and Ninety-eighth Streets. The Hub Realty Company was the broker.

GREENSPAN, Trustee in Bankruptcy herein in and to the unexpired term of the lease made by the Bronx Provision Corp. to Paul Scholl and Albert Scholl on the 7th day of September, 1920, which lease is for ten years, and expires on the 31st day of October, 1930, and provides for a rental for the first three years in the sum of $1,800 per annum, and for the following two years at $2,100 per annum, and for the balance of the term at $2,400 per annum, said offer being in the sum of Four Thousand ($4,000) Dollars, payable Five Hundred ($500) Dollars upon the entry of an order authorizing the acceptance thereof, and the balance of Three Thousand Five Hundred ($3,500) Dollars to be paid in seven promissory notes made by the Witt Furniture Corp. and endorsed by Max Horowitz and Joseph Soloman, said notes to be payable in six, twelve, eighteen, twenty-four, thirty, thirty-six and forty-two months respectively hereafter, in the sum of Five Hundred ($500) Dollars each, should not be accepted, and it is further ORDERED that any offers that may be made at the said time shall be accompanied by a deposit of at least ten per cent. in cash, or certified check to the order of the trustee, and it is further

ORDERED that the right to reject any and all offers that may be made, be and the same hereby is reserved, and it is further ORDERED that a copy of this order should be published in The Daily News Record and in The New York Times on August 28, 1926, as well as on the return date of this order, and that a copy of this order shall be mailed to each of the creditors herein on or before the 28th day of August, 1926, and that such publication and mailing shall be due and sufficient notice thereof.

HENRY K. DAVIS, Referee in Bankruptcy.
Dated, New York, August 26, 1926.

BANKRUPTCY NOTICES.

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT, Southern District of New York.—In the matter of LUSTIG PRESS, INC., Bankrupt.—Upon the annexed petition of A. WELLES STUMP, receiver herein, verified the 27th day of August, 1926, and the offer of PHILIP WOLF, dated the 27th day of August, 1926, annexed hereto, of $7,500, for all of the assets of the bankrupt herein, exclusive of cash in the hands of the receiver and consisting of the following:

First—Any and all fixtures, machinery, office furniture of every kind, nature and description, belonging to the bankrupt herein, and located at No. 45 Rose St., Borough of Manhattan, City of New York, excepting a cutting machine which belongs to the American Type Foundry Co.

Second—For the right, title and interest of the receiver and of the trustee to be hereinafter elected and of the bankrupt, in and to the leasehold covering premises, 45 Rose St., New York City.

And upon all papers and proceedings herein, and on motion of Marcus Helfand, attorney for the receiver, it is Ordered, that a hearing on such offer, as well as on any and all other offers that may be made at the hearing, shall be had before the undersigned Referee herein, at his office, No. 20 Vesey St., Borough of Manhattan, City of New York, on the 8th day of September, 1926, at 3 o'clock in the afternoon or as soon thereafter as counsel can be heard, and all creditors and other parties in interest may attend the hearing and express their opinion as to whether said offer or any other offer or offers that should be made shall be accepted either for the machinery or a separate offer for the stock of merchandise now upon the premises of the bankrupt herein; and it is further

Ordered, that all offers shall be accompanied by the deposit of at least 10 per cent. in cash or certified check to the order of the receiver; and it is further

Ordered, that any of the property not sold before the Referee shall be sold at public auction, through Charles Shongood, U. S. Auctioneer, at the said bankrupt's place of business, on the 10th day of September, 1926, at 10:30 o'clock A. M., or at such other time as may be fixed at the hearing aforesaid pursuant to the rules of this Court; and it is further,

Ordered, that Frank Drucker, Fred J. Davison and Max Cedarbaum of the City of New York, three disinterested persons, be and they hereby are appointed to appraise the property of the bankrupt herein, said appraisers to submit their appraisal upon the return hereof; and it is further Ordered, that a copy of this order shall be published in The Daily News Record and in The New York Times on the 28th day of August, 1926, as well as on the return day of this order, and a copy thereof to be mailed to each of the creditors on or before the 28th day of August, 1926, and that said publication and mailing shall be due and sufficient notice hereof.

Dated New York, Aug. 27th, 1926.

PARK LANE

Settle Your Country Home Problem Now

If you live at the Park Lane you are in the country—delightful country. Towering trees, rare flowers and shrubs beautify your grounds. Though you are but 30 minutes from 42nd St., all country sports are directly at hand.

But with all the pleasures of a country home, your apartment here costs far less to maintain than a country house. For example, a 6 room apartment, priced at $7,000, the equivalent of an $18,000 house, costs approximately $400 per year less to maintain than a house; at the end of ten years, it will cost approximately $1,400 per year less to maintain.

Call at either of our offices and let us prove this to to you by definite figures.

BITTER TEXAS RACE COMES TO AN END

Mrs. Ferguson and Moody Each Predict Victory in Primary Today.

"MA" MAKES FINAL APPEAL

MOODY IS HAILED IN AUSTIN

Attorney General Speaks Before a Large Crowd—Says "Fergusonism" Will Be Eliminated.

From a Staff Correspondent.

AUSTIN, Texas, Aug. 27.—The campaign for the Democratic nomination for Governor of Texas, as bitter as any ever staged in the history of the State, came to a noisy end in Austin tonight, with both sides claiming victory at the polls tomorrow.

On the one hand, the managers of Attorney General Dan Moody confidently asserted that the majority for the youthful Attorney General over Governor Miriam A. Ferguson will be not less than 200,000 and may go as high as 500,000. The Ferguson forces, on the other hand, declared that the tide had been swinging "Ma's" way for the last ten days, and they insist she has a good fighting chance, and this in face of the fact that in the first primary she trailed Moody by more than 100,000 votes.

Moody closed his campaign for the run-off primary tonight before a big audience in Woolridge Park here, while Mrs. Ferguson from the Executive Mansion issued a statement addressed to the people of Texas in which she joined her husband, whom she referred to as her assistant, in an endeavor to make the Ku Klux Klan and petroleum the paramount issues to guide the voters.

Just why "Jim" Ferguson, whose activities in the Governor's office are a big issue in the campaign, sought to make it appear that Moody is a Klansman is the outstanding puzzle of the contest, as well-informed people of Texas understand that but for Moody the klan probably would still be in control of the Government of Texas.

Recalls Story Tillman Told.

"I am tired of answering that fool charge," said Attorney General Moody today, "but as Ukelele Jim' keeps on repeating the charge I suppose it is up to me to keep on denying it despite its obvious absurdity. As a matter of fact, it's the death rattle of Jim Ferguson, that politician who for so many years has been a thorn in the path of the Democratic party of this State. I sometimes recall a remark made by late Senator Tillman of South Carolina in one of his campaigns for the Governorship of his State. As the story is told, Tillman grew tired of answering fool charges and in the last days of the campaign, meeting his opponent on the same platform, he told that he had had a dream.

"'I dreamed,' said Old Ben, 'that I owned a dog. The finest mutt in all the world, so aristocratic in fact that he ran away with all the blue ribbons in all the dog shows in all the capitals of Europe as well as in all the big cities of the United States. Now, that dog was from a money standpoint beyond value, yet I want to say in all seriousness that had I in fact owned such a dog and he had barked at my opponent in this race, so help me God, I would have killed him for exhibiting bad taste.'"

"And I sometimes feel just as Tillman did," added Mr. Moody, "when I am called on to answer these ridiculous charges that Jim Ferguson is uttering in his mad effort to have his wife renominated and himself re-elected the Governor of this State, for that is what he has been these last two years.

"There is just one issue in this fight and it is Fergusonism, and nothing the Fergusons can do or say can change that issue. This Ku Klux Klan babble and all this shouting about oil, alleged crooked elections and so on without end, in my own opinion, is going to fool few Texans and the result tomorrow, I am confident, will end for all time to come what we know in Texas as Fergusonism. Mrs. Ferguson can issue all the statements she wants to and while the signature may be hers the composition is always Jim's."

Voters Swarm Into Austin.

The red-headed Attorney-General arrived in Austin this morning after a tour of the principal cities and towns. No candidate ever had bigger crowds or more enthusiastic ones in Texas, according to his friends who say that "this means the end of government by proxy in Texas."

From far and near the people come today to join in tonight's tribute to the thirty-three-year-old candidate who started and directed the battle that ended in the elimination of the Klan as a political power in Texas two years ago. From San Antonio, Fort Worth, San Marcos, Temple, the home of the Fergusons, and scores of other places in this part of the State, the Texans swarmed into Austin.

While Moody was receiving a rousing reception in Austin, the Ferguson headquarters reported that "Jim" Ferguson was getting just as enthusiastic a reception in the Grosbeck country. Mrs. Ferguson, it was announced, would not make any public appearance in the course of the day or night. All she had to say, it was explained, was in her statement to the voters of Texas. In that statement she admitted that "Fergusonism" was an issue, but she added, "so is Moodyism."

Moody, she declared, offered no single constructive or affirmative remedy for the relief of the people.

Assails Moody on Klan Issue.

After asserting that Moody's election will mean an increase in the tax rate, Mrs. Ferguson took up the Ku Klux Klan charge.

"Another issue," she said, "is Fergusonism against Ku Kluxism. I want the anti-mask law made stronger. I want a law passed requiring the Ku Klux to register their membership with the County Clerk. Mr. Moody is against me on this issue, and he says that question should be forgotten.

"Every Ku Klux in Texas, with an exception of only one in a thousand, will support Moody and fight me.

"Mr. Moody says there is danger of irresponsible government. I want to say that it isn't one-half so bad as invisible government. I, with my husband's assistance, have performed the duties of the Governor's office openly and aboveboard. I am under no obligations to any secret clan or clique, and the greatest danger that can befall this Government is to have it controlled by a secret order having for its motto clannishness and exclusiveness, the living emblem of puritanical fanaticism.

"If the voter turns down my plea on this question, then a strong invitation is made to the Klan to raise the fiery cross on every hill and to mount their members on rearing steeds, ridden by hooded klansmen under a mask and robe. If the people want this, then they don't want me, and I will find great satisfaction in private life. I am only offering my candidacy in order that the people may have a chance to express their views.

"I want to thank the 285,000 friends who represent the unterrified Democracy in Texas and who fearlessly as individual citizens went to the ballot box and cast their votes as free men in the face of financial corruption and Ku Klux intimidation. I urge them to remain steadfast in the faith.

"Plead our cause to your neighbor and ask him to go to the polls and vote with you. Thousands are ready to do so. A great reaction has occurred in the minds of the people in the last ten days. It is now common knowledge that we did not have a fair and honest election in July. It is the duty of our friends to demand it in August.

Moody Replies to Governor.

Attorney General Moody replied tonight to Mrs. Ferguson's statement. He addressed his reply to Mr. Ferguson as "Proxy Governor."

"Jim Ferguson has been engaged in a frantic and futile attempt to divert the public mind from the record of the present administration," said Mr. Moody. "I say Jim Ferguson, because he has been the mouthpiece of this Administration and is responsible for the things which it has said and what it has done.

"Circumstances called for him to explain before the people of Texas why he has usurped the power of the office of Governor and undertaken to act as a dictator in the public affairs of the State, contrary to every principle of free government; why a highway commission that acted under his dictatorship let contracts without bonds and without bids; why public money was squandered and wasted; why money taken from the people of Texas under contracts which the courts held to be fraudulent was carried off to a bank in another State and stored in a safety deposit box; why the gates of the penitentiary have been swung open and criminals by the hundreds turned loose upon society; why textbook contracts have been let to the highest bidders.

"Ferguson's record justifies the conclusion that his attitude on the Klan question is one controlled entirely by political expediency, and if he thought it would better serve his political ambitions he would at one jump leap from the anti-Klan ranks into the middle of the Klan band wagon and undertake to seize the lines from the driver.

The size of the vote is problematical. The best guess seems to be that it will be somewhere in the neighborhood of 700,000.

NAVY RESERVE MEN BACK FROM CRUISE

Served on Actual Duty Aboard Destroyer Bainbridge With Scouting Fleet.

Having on board five officers and thirty-four enlisted men of the Twenty-ninth Fleet Division, United States Naval Reserves, with headquarters at Hoboken, the destroyer Bainbridge arrived yesterday afternoon at the Navy Yard, in Brooklyn, returning from a cruise started on Aug. 14. The practice trip was the first time the reserve men had engaged in actual duty.

Lieut. Commander R. S. Field, a son-in-law of Rear Admiral Charles P. Plunkett, in charge of the Brooklyn Navy Yard and the Third Naval District, praised highly the reserve officers and men.

While on the practice cruise the Bainbridge operated with the rest of the destroyer force as a scouting fleet. During the trip the navy yard at Newport, R. I., was used as a base of operations.

VIVIAN DUNCAN BADLY HURT.

Actress's Skull Is Fractured in California Auto Collision.

OXNARD, Cal., Aug. 27 (AP).—Vivian Duncan of the Duncan sisters, musical comedy actresses, was in a hospital here today following an automobile collision last night in which she and Vernon Rickard of the "Topsy and Eva" company were hurt.

In addition to cuts and bruises, Miss Duncan was said by hospital physicians to have suffered a fracture of the skull. Rickard, who was driving, was not seriously injured.

The police are searching for the driver of the other car, who is said to have disappeared after removing the identification tag from his automobile and abandoning it.

MARIE TO VISIT MARYHILL.

Queen Will Dedicate Rumanian Room in Museum There on Tour.

PARIS, Aug. 27 (AP).—Premier Averescu, in behalf of Queen Marie, has accepted the invitation to her to dedicate the Rumanian Room of the Maryhill Museum, Maryhill, Wash., while on her coming visit to the United States.

Plans for the Queen's trip to America are going forward rapidly and the itinerary will be approved at Bucharest before Sept. 1, after consultations with Rumanian officials at home and abroad.

GIRL ACCUSES LAW STUDENT

Charges Attack In U. of P. Fraternity House When Answering Ad.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 27 (AP).—Samuel Wolk, student at the New Jersey Law School, Newark, was held in $5,000 bail today to answer charges of having attacked an 18-year-old girl in a University of Pennsylvania fraternity house yesterday.

Lillian Tremmell, his accuser, told the Police Magistrate that she had called at the house in answer to a newspaper advertisement. The girl successfully defended herself, but displayed bruises and marks of a scuffle to confirm her charges.

LISTS GEMS STOLEN FROM VANDERBILTS

COSTLY HEIRLOOMS IN LOT

Jewelry stolen from The Breakers, the Newport home of General and Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt, the night of Aug. 8 totaled about fifty pieces and included products of American, French, English and Russian jewelers. Publication of the list of the stolen jewelry yesterday by the William J. Flynn Detective Agency, 1,457 Broadway, revealed these facts. Announcement of a liberal reward to be paid for information leading to the recovery of the jewelry was made simultaneously. No estimate was placed on the value of the stolen jewelry, but the amount previously had been put at $100,000.

The list, which includes watches, bracelets, earrings, brooches, pins of various shapes and materials, vanity boxes and numerous individual pieces, is as follows:

Jade vanity box.
Black and white enamel round vanity box, lipstick badly scratched.
Plain amethyst earrings, small gold setting.
Sapphire and brilliant set of five shirt buttons and two cuff links. Made by Cartier, Paris.
Large square Indian pin, gold plaque surrounding square of jade, set with rubies and pearls.
Short gold pencil with white enamel.
Single bar of rubies with round aquamarine.
Stickpin of Russian and American flags crossed.
Round Chinese gold bangle with green jade, very old Chinese. Purchased at Tiffany's.
Pair of platinum lorgnettes.
Platinum purse set with diamonds. This purse is about 5 inches deep, 7 inches long, oval at top, studded with diamonds, four pear-shaped diamonds hanging from bottom of bag, originally five, one missing. Very valuable. Made by Tiffany, Paris.
Cabochon ruby ring in claws, sixteen brilliants in shank, all platinum, ruby—6.45 carats (Scratch 8014). Made by Tiffany.
Extension diamond and ruby bracelet. Made by Cartier.
Cabochon ruby earrings with diamonds.
Diamond and ruby plaque pin, Louis XVI design, motif brooch. Made by Cartier, Paris.
Platinum chain with small pearls.
Gold ring with ruby and two diamonds, old setting. Made in England.
Gold and dark blue enamel bracelet with yacht flag design of white field and blue cross.

Description of the jewelry was broadcast yesterday to the police of the world on regulation bulletins issued by the Flynn agency. No mention is made of the Vanderbilts, but Mr. Flynn admitted that the gems described were those taken from the Vanderbilt home. The announcement is a bare statement that a liberal reward will be paid for information "leading to the recovery of any or all of the following articles of jewelry stolen in Newport, R. I., on Aug. 8, 1926." Information is to be forwarded, it is said, to Mr. Flynn or to Patrick L. Sweeney, Chief of the Newport police. Distribution of the bulletins to such places as pawnshops in the metropolitan district will be in charge of the New York police.

The robbery is almost three weeks old. Comment was made at the failure of the Vanderbilts to notify the police when the robbery was first discovered. Delay in issuing the description of the jewelry was occasioned by the fact that many of the pieces are heirlooms and an exact description was not easily obtainable.

FINDS SLAYER GOING INSANE

Alienist Says Silberstein Thinks Others Try to Control His Mind.

Physicians at the psychopathic ward of Kings County Hospital said yesterday that Emanuel Silberstein, the nineteen-year-old student of philosophy who killed his sixty-three-year-old mentor, James H. Calisch, with a hammer on Tuesday evening, was much quieter than on the day before, but it was necessary to keep him in the straitjacket.

Silberstein was allowed to receive a visit from his father, and at times spoke rationally with him. Dr. H. P. Blan, who has been observing Silberstein under the direction of Dr. Mortimer Shearman, said that Silberstein would be absolutely demented in three years.

"He is suffering from a paranoiac type of dementia praecox," said the physician. "It is gradually cutting off what reason he has left. On the surface he is a normal, brilliant boy. But before we placed him in the straitjacket he attacked another patient because the latter 'annoyed' him. The boy seems to have an obsession that others are trying to control his mind."

The body of Calisch is still in the Kings County Morgue.

Rabbi Robbed on Cherbourg Train.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Aug. 27.—Rabbi Michel Newman, described as a German, was chloroformed and robbed of $50 and his suitcase on the Cherbourg boat train today. He was on his way to sail to New York on the Leviathan. The rabbi awoke when the train reached Cherbourg.

TRUSS UP AND ROB 41, EMPLOYES OF BOATS

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC HIGHLANDS, N. J., Aug. 27.—Employes on boats of the Central Railroad of New Jersey between New York and Sandy Hook, including barbers, bartenders, cooks, waiters, stewards and pantrymen, who occupy a two-story frame bunkhouse at the shore end of the long railroad pier at this place, were bound with wire and robbed of their fortnight's pay early this morning by five gunmen.

Forty-one men were in the building, eight of whom were playing cards in the main room, at 12:55 o'clock when a swarthy stranger entered and asked what time the next New York boat departed. The players looked up, but before any one could answer him the other thieves, all masked except their ringleader, had followed him, leveling pistols.

The robbers had ready loops of heavy wire, and these they slipped over the wrists and ankles of the victims and then twisted them so tight with their pistol barrels that blood came. The gang, leaving one on guard, went upstairs to the bunkroom and roused the heavy sleepers with like treatment.

They asked for George Tels, head bartender of the Monmouth, but he had left his day's receipts on the ship and yielded only $78. The heaviest loser was said to be the head barber of the same vessel, who gave up money and jewelry aggregating $1,100. The thieves left in an automobile, which had stood at the door with engine running throughout, taking with them not less than $3,000.

Navigating and engineer forces of the steamers Monmouth and Sandy Hook all sleep on board and knew nothing of what had happened until the help came straggling down the pier, with hands still bleeding and clothing torn.

SAYS LENROOT WAS RIGHT.

Kellogg Confirms Assertion That Germany Won 4 World Court Decisions.

Special to The New York Times.

MADISON, Wis., Aug. 27.—Governor John J. Blaine, candidate for the Republican nomination for Senator, in trying to show that the World Court is under the League of Nations influence, has said in his speeches:

Senator Irving L. Lenroot, candidate to succeed himself, has said frequently that Germany, though not a League member, had won four out of five cases against nations which were League members. As the opposition disputed this statement, the Lenroot manager here asked the State Department.

Secretary Kellogg replied that the Court had decided four cases involving Germany, in one of which—the Kiel Canal case—judgment was against Germany, the three other decisions being in Germany's favor. In closing his telegram, which is addressed to Senator Lenroot, Secretary Kellogg says:

"You were technically right in saying that there had been four decisions in favor of Germany, since the case concerning acquisition of Polish nationality had two distinct parts. Poland contested also the competence of the Court, bu this second issue was also decided in accord with German contentions."

McPHERSON CASE HALTED.

Evangelist's Mother Says Lawyer's Death Delays Kidnapping Hunt.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 27 (AP).—Mrs. Minnie Kennedy, mother of Aimee Semple McPherson, declares that the drowning of Russell A. McKinley, blind attorney of Long Beach, had halted, temporarily, at least, a move guided by Angrius Temple investigators to bring about the surrender of one of the evangelist's alleged kidnappers. McKinley and two companions were found drowned at the beach city yesterday, their bodies pinned beneath an automobile which had overturned in a ditch.

Mrs. Kennedy said that the dead attorney had established contact with the alleged kidnappers and had engineered a telephone conversation between Mrs. McPherson and one of the suspects. The evangelist's mother said that her daughter recognized the voice as that of one of her abductors.

Shortly after the evangelist disappeared last May, McKinley told police he was in touch with the kidnappers and that Mrs. McPherson would be returned if a reward was offered. A $25,000 reward was posted but McKinley said he had lost contact with the kidnappers.

TWINS, 89, CELEBRATE.

Special to The New York Times.

MENDHAM, N. J., Aug. 27.—The Misses Eliza B. and Maria Louise Taylor, believed to be the oldest twins in the United States, celebrated their eighty-ninth birthday here today at their home, Willowdean. An informal party was attended by friends and relatives.

The twins, who are the daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Taylor, were born at the home of their grandfather, William Ely Dean, in New York in 1837. Miss Maria Louise Taylor is the author of several novels.

KEPT EX-WIFE IN HIS HOME.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 27 (AP).—A domestic triangle in which Gibson Gowland, film actor, kept his divorced wife and her husband as guests in his home in order that his ten-year-old boy might be with his mother was disclosed by Gowland in court here yesterday when he applied for court permission to place the boy under the care of some one other than his mother. He admitted the present plan was a failure.

Gowland's attorney told the Court that in addition to supporting his former wife, now Mrs. Beatrice Meakin, in his home, Gowland had obtained motion picture work for them both.

Will Give Greek Play at Exposition.

WORCESTER, Mass., Aug. 27 (AP).—The Rev. Joseph N. Dinand, S. J., President of Holy Cross College, announced today the acceptance by the college of the invitation of Mayor Kendrick of Philadelphia to present "Hecuba," the ancient Greek drama of Euripides, at the Sesquicentennial Exposition on Sept. 15 and 16. It will be presented in original Greek diction by members of the freshman class.

REFUSES MORE PAY FOR DR. LANDSMAN

SALARY NOW IS $1,623

But Can't Be Advanced to $3,500 Except by Promotion, Board Says—Doctor Succeeded I. Seth Hirsch.

It is announced this morning in The Chief, the Civil Service Employes' Weekly, that at a meeting of the Civil Service Commission on Aug. 19, Thomas C. Murray, Director of Examinations, advised the Commissioners that the salary of Dr. Isadore J. Landsman, roentgenologist in the Bellevue and Allied Hospitals, could not be increased from $1,623 to $3,500 annually, without maintenance, except through promotion and examination, and that this advice had met with the commission's approval.

Dr. Landsman was appointed to the Bellevue post last month to succeed Dr. I. Seth Hirsch, who resigned in May. The new appointment caused considerable surprise at the time as it was generally believed that the office would fall to Dr. Charles MacEvetty of 366 East 198th Street, who was in line for it, according to civil service ratings.

At the time of his appointment Dr. Landsman was connected with the X-Ray Department of Fordham Hospital, in which capacity he had served for eleven years. Although his salary at Fordham was only $1,623 a year his friends said his experience and ability entitled him to promotion over other doctors, despite their civil service standings.

At his home, 391 East Forty-ninth Street, last night, Dr. Landsman said he passed the civil service examinations fifteen years ago, but had not taken these examinations since. He said he was receiving his pay on the $3,500 per annum basis, but when interviewers sought to question him further, particularly with regard to the possibility that he might be working in the belief that his salary was $3,500 per annum, whereas, in reality, the commission had declared it to be but $1,623, he referred questioners to the Board of Trustees at Bellevue.

In the latest civil service ratings Dr. MacEvetty's rating is put at 81.80 per cent., with Dr. John S. Richards of 43 East Fifty-eighth Street next in line with 80.60, and Dr. William Colin of 219 West Seventieth Street third, with 79.70. Dr. Tobias B. Weinberg of 310 East Fifteenth Street is fourth with 74.30.

Dr. Colin is the only one of the four not allowed an added five points for war service. Had he received the additional credits it was said, he would have headed the list. He is at present roentgenologist at Harlem Hospital, with a salary of $2,760 per annum.
